THAW IN A RAGE AT HIS LAWYERS

Quarrels with Eminent Advisers and Some of Them May Give Up the Fight.

RAVES AND SCRIBBLES NOTES

Thompson, Feeling Deserted, Reveals His Identity and Threatens to Tell All.

JEROME BACK IN THE CASE

Carmody Appoints Him to Work for Extradition—Thaw Denies Barnum's Guilt.

Special to The New York Times.

SHERBROOKE, Quebec, Aug. 22.—There is every indication of a serious break between Harry Kendall Thaw and the Canadian lawyers who are preparing to make the fight to save him from going back to Matteawan. Thaw has attempted to take full charge of his own case, and some of his lawyers have balked.

To-day Thaw gave an exhibition of the bad temper which kept him in trouble with his attorneys when he was tried for the murder of Stanford White. He stormed up and down in the little room in the hospital ward of the Sherbrooke Jail and sent a note ordering his chief of counsel, J. N. Greenshields, K. C., the noted criminal lawyer of Montreal, to appear before him at a certain hour. While Mr. Greenshields would not comment on the story of the quarrel, it was understood that he had refused, for the time at least, to confer with Thaw.

When the newspaper men saw Thaw to-day his hair was disheveled, his collar and cravat were disarranged, and he was in a state of high nervous tension. He swore repeatedly, and once he pounded on the table with his clenched fist. Then he strode up and down the room waving his arms above his head. He paid no attention to the questions put to him until Roger Thompson, who is under arrest on the charge of assisting Thaw to enter this country, was mentioned.

"They ought not to punish him," he said angrily. "He didn't do anything but aid me."

Thaw also said that Howard Barnum, the Matteawan gatekeeper, was not implicated in his escape. He was sorry, he said, that Barnum was in trouble, and had telegraphed to Mr. Vanamee of Newburg, N. Y., who was Thaw's counsel while he was at Matteawan, to "look out for Barnum."

Waves Away Interviewers.

Thaw put aside all questions about the trouble with his lawyers, and waved his interviewers from the room. When another attempt was made to see him he flatly refused to have anything to do with the correspondents. Later, when a photographer attempted to get his picture while he was standing at a window, Thaw again went into a rage and swore at the man.

The trouble between Thaw and his counsel had been brewing since yesterday, it was said. W. L. Shurtleff, K. C., who went to Ottawa to use his influence to save Thaw from deportation into New York State, came in for a taste of the prisoner's ill-temper. Mr. Shurtleff said to C. D. White, another of Thaw's counsel: "You had better be careful or you will be in as bad with Thaw as I am."

Thaw also wrote many notes to his counsel, on scraps of paper, and ordered that they be dispatched to the barristers at the hotel. These notes were carefully scanned by a man in the employ of the Thaw family, and most of them were thrown away. This man said that the lawyers were going to manage Thaw's case to suit themselves this time, and that Thaw was not to be allowed to become too meddlesome.

W. K. McKeown, the Montreal corporation lawyer, who had been retained by the Thaw family, called on the prisoner at 6 o'clock this evening. Mr. McKeown did not comment on his visit, but it was said that steps had been taken to patch up the trouble, and that none of the lawyers had withdrawn from the case.

Gov. J. H. La Force, who is in charge of the Sherbrooke jail, admitted to-day that he had found Thaw "a little peculiar."

"Well, he does have spells," the Governor said, in answer to questions. "He is a queer lad."

"Do you think he is insane?" the Governor was asked.

"Well, I naturally can't say as to that," he returned.

The Governor said that he considered Thaw a pretty good prisoner, for all that. He said he put Thaw in a room and not in a cell because he did not think that the prisoner had committed any crime.

"But," he added, "if he gives me any serious trouble I'll lock him in a cell in a minute."

Thompson Admits His Identity.

Roger Thompson, who drove the touring car in which Thaw fled from Matteawan, threatened to-day to tell all of the details about the wild dash to Canada unless the Thaw family "came across" with money to take care of him. Thompson, who was arrested here under the name Mitchell Thompson, has been occupying a little cell, while Thaw has been in a comfortable room.

"Sure, I'm Roger Thompson!" he shouted between the bars of his cell today when aproached by reporters "I'm Roger Thompson, and if Thaw don't put up money to get me out of this fix I'll tell all I know."

Thereupon he took off the smoked glasses he had been wearing and fully revealed his identity.

"Here I am, a million miles from Broadway!" he exclaimed, "and if I don't get money pretty quick I may spend three months in jail. That's what I get for sticking by Thaw when all the rest of them quit him. It's a fine reward, isn't it? I haven't received a cent yet, and, so far as I know, there seems to be no prospect of my getting any. I don't like to be a squealer, but if they don't come across with something quick I'm not going to keep quiet."

Then Thompson sat down on the little cot in his cell, with his head between his hands.

Threatens to Tell All.

"What chance has a poor chauffeur got in a deal like this?" he asked. "And, by the way, isn't it a rotten deal they've handed to me? If I was rich I wouldn't be stuck down here in this place, you bet. But I'm poor, and that's the answer.

"I don't know how the other fellows were treated, but, anyway, they got away. Here I am. I haven't seen a cent, and the prospects are for all sorts

AUTO FALLS INTO DRY DOCK.

Skidding Truck Plunges 30 Feet—Chauffeur and Helper Hurt.

A large automobile truck, operated by Arthur Williams, 19 years old, of 243 Seventh Avenue, Astoria, L. I., dashed upon the sidewalk at the foot of Dwight Street, Brooklyn, last evening, and toppled into Robins Dry Dock at that place, with the chauffeur and his helper, James L. Cole, on the machine. The auto truck dropped a distance of thirty feet and was wedged between the side of the dry dock and a big freight steamer which was docked for repairs.

Williams and Cole were thrown out into the dry dock. Williams sustained contusions of the abdomen and back. Cole was injured internally. Both were attended by Ambulance Surgeon Behan of the Long Island College Hospital. Cole was removed to the hospital and Williams was taken home. The accident was caused by Williams losing control of the machine, making it skid on the pavement and run over the sidewalk into the dry dock.

DIES AT HIS WIRELESS KEY.

Operator on State of California Killed Calling for Aid.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 22.—Another story of heroism in the operation of wireless telegraphy was told here early to-day, when forty surviving members of the steamship State of California arrived on the steamer Jefferson.

Donald C. Perkins of Oakland, Cal., who went as chief wireless operator on the State of California, in the hope of adventure, was off duty and asleep when the steamer struck an uncharted reef in Gambier Bay, Alaska, last Sunday morning. Awakened by the shock, he rushed to the wireless room and ordered Walter Chamberlain, the operator on duty, to seek safety. Then he sat down at the key, but before he could send his first call for help a falling mast went through the wireless house, and crushed Perkins to death at his post.

Of the three lifeboats launched, the survivors said, one was useless, having been smashed by falling wreckage, and one was carried down by the suction of the boat.

The first survivors of the wreck to reach here told of the death of Mrs. H. C. Riordan of Chicago, 84 years old, and her daughter, Miss Estella Riordan, a Chicago high school teacher.

R. E. Baker, a water tender, who rushed on deck as the cabins filled, found Boat No. 4 with a few persons in it, among them Mrs. Riordan.

"The water was just up to the boat, but in the excitement it had not been loosened from the fastenings," he said. "I grabbed an axe and cut it loose, and as the steamer sank it floated, but the after-draft sucked it down. I caught a piece of wreckage."

Mrs. Riordan's body was recovered, but that of Miss Riordan is listed among the missing. Baker was picked up by a launch.

ATTACKS PASTOR IN CHURCH

Fight Follows Denunciation, and One Man Is Kicked Out.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 22.—W. T. Faunce of Boston, a wealthy Summer resident of Mattapoisett, created a sensation at a largely attended service in the Mattapoisett Baptist Church last night by denouncing the Rev. Percy Caswell, who had just finished his discourse. His action was followed by a fight among members of the congregation, which was prevented from becoming general by some one turning out the electric lights. One man was put out of the church, his going being hastened by a kick.

Mr. Caswell is pastor of the Baptist Church in Portsmouth, N. H. He is spending his vacation at New Bedford, and for three Thursday evenings has occupied the pulpit of the Mattapoisett church by request. Joseph Sykes of this city, a lay preacher, had previously been conducting the services. He is a protegé of Mr. Faunce, who owns most of the pews in the church.

When the experience meeting opened, following the sermon, Mr. Faunce was asked if he did not want to say something. Mr. Faunce arose and, pointing his finger at the Rev. Mr. Caswell, shouted:

"That is not a man of God!" and then proceeded with a vehement denunciation of the minister.

The church was immediately in an uproar, the majority siding with Mr. Caswell. Mr. Sykes was seated in one of the pews, and a man in the congregation leaped at his throat, but just then somebody turned off the electric lights. In the darkness several of the men seized Mr. Sykes and hustled him out of the church, assisting his departure by a kick. After getting outside his troubles increased, for some of those who were displeased with him threw stones, and he was compelled to take refuge in the house of Chester Faunce, a relative.

VEILED WOMAN AT CAPITOL.

Tells Sulzer She's Persecuted and Tries to See Glynn.

ALBANY, Aug. 22.—A woman, dressed in black and heavily veiled, caused considerable excitement at the Capitol today when she burst into Mr. Sulzer's office and began a rambling statement about being persecuted by State officials. She said she was Mrs. M. J. Powers of 525 West 151st Street, New York.

After Mr. Sulzer succeeded in getting rid of her she went to Acting Gov. Glynn's door and for half an hour tried to get into the office.

Mrs. Powers explained that an enemy had caused the State authorities to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars putting detectives upon her trail in an effort to have her arrested under the Mann white slave law.

"But I foiled them!" she shouted. "I spent hundreds of thousands of my own to get out of jail when they caught me. Gov. Sulzer treated me as a gentleman should, but I don't think Gov. Glynn knows a lady when he sees one. He thinks he can down me, but I won't let him be Governor."

YOUNG HORNBLOWER DIES.

Brother and Widow Bringing Suicide's Body to New York.

Special to The New York Times.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Aug. 22.—The body of Lewis S. Hornblower, son of W. B. Hornblower, the New York lawyer and financier, left Johnson City at noon to-day for New York, accompanied by George S. Hornblower, a brother; his widow, and other members of the family. Young Hornblower died early this morning after all that medical science could do had been done in an effort to save his life. Two special trains, carrying the most noted surgeons in the South, were hurried to Johnson City yesterday.

From the statements that were made by young Hornblower, there is no question in the minds of local officials that the self-inflicted pistol wound which caused his death was fired with suicidal intent. He stated to one of the physicians that he was a poor shot, or he would not have needed the services of doctors. He said that he would rather die than live here. He was in his thirty-first year, a graduate of Princeton, and a clerk in the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railroad offices.

WILSON MOVE A CHECK

Plan to Present Situation to Congress May Bring Mexican Concessions Before Tuesday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The State Department has received encouraging news from John Lind, President Wilson's special representative in Mexico City, and, although its character is not disclosed, officials evidently are inclined to regard it as an indication of a more favorable disposition on the part of Provisional President Huerta toward the proposals for peace submitted by Mr. Lind in behalf of this Government. As nearly as it can be interpreted from the little which officials say, the situation in Mexico, as viewed by the Wilson Administration on the basis of its advices from Mr. Lind and from other sources, is about as follows:

President Huerta and his Ministers are beginning to realize that they were misinformed as to the unpopularity in Congress and among the American people of the Administration's peace proposals and President Wilson's failure to recognize the Huerta Government. They will find they have been misinformed in that connection when the President goes to the Capitol next week and reads to the Senate and House his address detailing his efforts to bring about peace in Mexico, because the enthusiasm with which the President will be received and his ideas will be applauded will supply ample evidence that Congress, at least, is standing firmly by the Administration.

Fresh Chance for Huerta.

The Mexican Government is to be or has been notified that the address will be made on Tuesday, and that the correspondence between Mr. Lind and Federico Gamboa, the Mexican Minister of Foreign Relations, will be made public at the same time. That will be a hint to Gen. Huerta that if he desires to modify the attitude he has assumed toward the American plan of adjusting Mexico's troubles, he will have the opportunity to do so before Tuesday, so that the modification may be made known to Congress and the country by President Wilson in his address, and have a quieting effect on an indignant public sentiment that may arise when the rejection of the President's peace overtures becomes known officially.

The feeling among officials that this hint that a change of attitude on the Mexican Government's part should be known prior to Tuesday may be effective, is based on confidential information of certain conditions unfavorably affecting the Huerta Administration. Officials declined to give definite details of that information, but it is understood it includes reports regarded as reliable that the Huerta Government is desperately in need of money, and is threatened with revolt on the part of a large part of the Federal army which, up to this time, has shown a surprising loyalty in the face of failure to receive its pay.

One report which has reached here but at present is unconfirmed, is that Gen. Huerta and his Ministers have determined that, unless the United States Government grants recognition to the Huerta Government in a very short time, a forced loan will be ordered, and under its terms money will be taken from all industrial concerns in Mexico without regard to the nationality of their owners. It is said that each of those companies will be compelled to supply cash to an amount equal to 5 per cent. of its capitalization. Such a course would bring indignant protests and perhaps threats of sterner measures from European Governments whose subjects and citizens have large investments in Mexico, and probably would bring to the Wilson Administration's peace plan the moral support of the nations.

Rumors of Poverty and Revolt.

It was hinted to-day that the Administration had reason to doubt the reports that the Mexican Government had floated a war loan in Paris. Rumors came to hand also that Federal garrisons not a great distance from the City of Mexico had revolted and would join the Constitutionalists, and that Federal garrisons elsewhere were threatening insurrection. Altogether, judging from the way in which officials answered questions about the Mexican situation to-day and to-night, they seem to have a fair degree of confidence that the Huerta Government is in a bad way and cannot afford much longer to adopt a defiant attitude toward the United States.

The House adjourned to-day until next Tuesday. That caused a change in the plan of the President to read his Mexican message to Congress on Monday. He now intends to address the Senate and House in joint session on Tuesday afternoon. His message has not been finished, and it was made known in the White House to-night that he intended to defer its completion until just before he appeared in the House of Representatives to deliver it to the assembled Congress.

In explanation of this, it was said the President would include in his address a summary of the negotiations between Mr. Lind and the Mexican Government subsequent to the delivery of the American peace proposals and Mexico's rejection of them, and he desired to inform Congress of everything that might occur in connection with Mr. Lind's mission up to the very last moment prior to the President's departure from the White House for the Capitol on Tuesday.

It is inferred, however, from this statement that the President is hopeful that in the next few days the attitude of Gen. Huerta and his Ministers will have become so modified that Mr. Wilson will be able to inform Congress that there is a favorable prospect of an agreement between Mexico and the United States along the lines of the plan submitted through Mr. Lind.

Won't Recede from Lind Plan.

The President, it was understood tonight, contemplated making certain new suggestions in his address to Congress toward a settlement of the Mexican difficulty. At the same time it was explained that there was no purpose in the President's mind of receding from the character of the proposals already submitted by Mr. Lind. The intention appeared to be to suggest a reiteration of the original proposals, but in such form as to make them more acceptable to the Mexican administration. But officials here declined to go into details along that line.

A patriotic demonstration in support of President Wilson's attitude toward the Huerta Government is being planned by members of the two great political parties in Congress. The occasion will be the appearance of the President in

SURGEON SHOT AT BY FORMER PATIENT

Woman Lies in Wait for Dr. Howard C. Taylor Near His Home—Bullet Goes Wild.

Bound on a round of professional calls, Dr. Howard C. Taylor, a Roosevelt Hospital surgeon, left his home at 32 West Fiftieth Street late yesterday afternoon and had walked as far as Sixth Avenue, when a young woman sprang from behind an elevated railroad pillar, rushed at him, screaming, and fired in his direction the revolver she carried in her hand. Hearing the shot and not dreaming that it was aimed at himself, the surgeon thought he had strayed into one of New York's gun fights. Without waiting to look about him, he jumped nimbly for the elevated stairs and mounted out of harm's way.

Peering down from a point of safety, he saw Patrolmen Kellerman and Pastorini seize first the woman with a pistol in her hand and another who appeared to be her companion. He saw them escorted off in the direction of the East Fifty-first Street Station and he himself went about his business.

At the station, the woman who had fired the revolver said she was Helena Turczer, an Austrian by birth and a domestic servant by occupation. She not only admitted that she had fired the weapon, but added, the police say, that she had bought it for the express purpose of killing Dr. Taylor. She gave as her reason that she never regained her strength after an operation for appendicitis, which he had performed at Roosevelt Hospital last December. Both women were locked up, charged with attempted assault. Here is the police version of Helena Turczer's story:

She had been sent to Dr. Taylor by Mrs. C. Cortlandt Hay of 314 West Eighty-seventh Street, in whose home she was employed, and he had sent her to the hospital for an operation. After she had been there twenty days, Dr. Taylor wished to reoperate, but in her fear she succeeded in dressing and escaping unnoticed. Then she went to the New York Hospital, whence, after a fortnight, she was transferred to Bellevue, and later to the Metropolitan. Finally, she was allowed to leave there for the Italian-Hungarian Home at 32 Pearl Street, where she remained for four months without regaining her former strength. She was so weakened that it was hard for her to get work and impossible for her to keep it.

Two weeks ago she had gone to live at 416 Third Street, where she had become acquainted with Matilda Boerk, the girl of eighteen years who was arrested with her. They talked over her plight, and between them decided that Dr. Taylor should be brought to account. First they tried the District Attorney's office. They were laughed at. Then they tried the Legal Aid Society. They were also laughed at there. Then it was decided that he ought to be killed. Helena Turczer owned a small pistol, but was sure she needed a heavier one for the work, and so she went over to Jersey City and bought a .32-calibre revolver. Then the two took up their stand near the doctor's home and waited.

That the shot he heard had been aimed at him came as a complete surprise to Dr. Taylor last evening when newspaper men brought him the story. He said he had no idea who the woman was, and had never received any intimation that she was bitter against him. He could not recall having operated in her case, although he did remember that he had sent the maid of one of his patients to Roosevelt Hospital, and a name similar to that of Helena Turczer appears in his December records. Whether he or his assistant had performed the operation, he said, he did not recall.

HOLD GIRL IN LUSTIG CASE.

Whitman's Men Arrest Her to Get Clue to Rose Harris's Whereabouts.

Special to The New York Times.

SCRANTON, Penn., Aug. 22.—Attachés of the District Attorney's office in New York arrested to-day a girl, whose identity they refuse to disclose, because it is believed she knows something of the whereabouts of Rose Harris, a material witness to the shooting of William Lustig in a New York restaurant a few weeks ago.

Lustig, who was a brother of a detective attached to the District Attorney's office, was lured into a restaurant, it is alleged, and shot by members of the old Zelig gang.

Rose Harris is wanted to prove the identity of the four gangsters who did the shooting. The arrest was made by Emile Klinger, a detective, and Paul Kaiser, both connected with Mr. Whitman's office in New York.

Lustig, who was shot on Aug. 4 in "Humpty" Jackson's Third Avenue restaurant, was at first supposed to be fatally wounded. But he recovered rapidly after being taken to Bellevue Hospital, and was released on Aug. 14. He refused to tell the police anything about the shooting on the ground that it was a private affair between himself and certain gangsters, whom he would "attend to" after recovering his strength.

GERM IN HIS LEG KILLS HIM.

Maryland Man, Breaking His Ankle, Succumbs to the Gas Bacillus.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 22.—His right leg swollen four times its natural size through the rapid accumulation of a poisonous gas in the tissues, William Schrickling, of Fullerton, Baltimore County, died last night at St. Joseph's Hospital from one of the rarest diseases known.

His leg had become infected with a germ known as the gas bacillus, to which he succumbed forty hours afterward. The infection extended from the ankle to the hip, starting from the breaking of a bone in his ankle.

So little is known about the disease and the germ that causes it that it has only an improvised name, describing its chief effect upon the victim. According to the authorities at the hospital, the germ entered the man's leg when he injured his ankle, and began to multiply, causing a poisonous gas, which swelled the tissues.

There is no known method of combating the malady, and while Mr. Schrickling lay on his bed dying in intense agony, the doctors looked on powerless.

LAROCQUE'S FRIEND A SEASHORE SUICIDE

Girl Dead in Atlantic City Tried to Kill Herself Here After He Drowned Himself.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 22.—Frank J. Talbot of 149 East Fifty-first Street, New York, identified to-day the body of the young woman who committed suicide at the Hotel Islesworth on Thursday morning as that of Miss Veronica Bishop, Secretary of the Anglo-Danish Institute of 48 West Forty-ninth Street, New York. He said she was the young woman who attempted to kill herself at Port Jefferson, L. I., by jumping from the same pier from which Louis Larocque drowned himself two weeks ago.

Before killing herself, Miss Bishop wrote to one of her friends that, as she had been foiled in her attempt to drown herself in New York, she had decided to kill herself in Atlantic City, where there was no one to prevent her. She asked this friend to notify Talbot of her death.

When Miss Bishop arrived in this city on Wednesday afternoon, she went at once to the Islesworth, where she registered as Elizabeth Burns of Philadelphia. After she had been assigned to her room she called for a taxicab and drove to the Inlet. It is thought that she intended to jump from the Inlet pier, but changed her mind when she found that the place was crowded.

She entered the taxicab, returned to the hotel, wrote the letter which brought Talbot here, and then, entering the taxicab again, drove to Longport. There she endeavored to get Capt. Steelman to take her far out to sea, but the weather was so rough that he refused on the ground that it was not safe. She pleaded with him, saying she was not afraid, but he was obdurate, and she returned to the hotel. She was not seen again until her body was found in her room. She had killed herself by inhaling illuminating gas. Talbot said that, so far as he knew, Miss Bishop had no relatives. Talbot was accompanied by a woman who refused to give her name.

Veronica Bishop, who said she was Secretary of the Anglo-Danish Institute of 48 West Forty-ninth Street, and that she had been engaged to marry Louis E. Larocque, went from this city to Port Jefferson, L. I., late last Monday night in an auto for the avowed purpose of committing suicide from the Darling pier there, where Mr. Larocque had drowned himself two weeks before.

Her plan to commit suicide was frustrated, as an unidentified person telephoned to Justice Jacob S. Dreyer, that she was on her way to Port Jefferson to kill herself. When she arrived at the pier at midnight, she was arrested. She told Justice Dreyer that there was nothing left for her to live for, and that she was heart-broken. The girl showed Justice Dreyer a diamond-studded watch and long gold chain, which she said Larocque gave her. She had in her possession many newspaper clippings telling of his suicide, and a revolver bearing the initial 'L,' which she said had belonged to him.

As Miss Bishop and the chauffeur were about to depart from Port Jefferson an automobile containing a veiled woman and a man, who said he was Frank Talbot of 149 East Fifty-first Street, arrived. Miss Bishop dismissed her own automobile and entered that occupied by the veiled woman and Talbot.

Mrs. Henry C. Tinker, sister of Louis E. Larocque, whose home at Port Jefferson the dead man had visited immediately before killing himself, said that her brother had not been engaged and that she had never heard of Miss Veronica Bishop. George F. Vingut, brother of Harry Vingut, the son-in-law of Mayor Gaynor, who was a friend of Larocque, said that the story told by Miss Bishop was without foundation.

WOOS AMERICAN DUCHESS.

De Fouquieres's Attentions to Shonts's Daughter Attract Deauville

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—The marked attentions paid to the Duchesse de Chaulnes (née Shonts) by André de Fouquières all through the Deauville season have not escaped the notice of the many friends of both parties, and are now the subject of much speculation among those who have returned from that resort.

According to reports, the young widow and the celebrated cotillion leader were seen constantly together. Although the latter was spending the Summer at Cabourg with friends, he was daily seen at Deauville, and was invariably at every party where the Duchess was present.

Sittings for Miss Goldthwaite, a young American sculptor, who has been doing a bust of him, were the pretext for his daily runs to Deauville, but, say his friends, with benevolent smiles, he apparently was not overkeen to have his features reproduced in marble, for often he entirely forgot a sitting.

Whether this year's Deauville season will be responsible for another international marriage is a matter of speculation here by the friends of both the Duchess and M. de Fouquières, who are awaiting developments with great curiosity.

MRS. WILSON AT CAPITAL.

Surprises President—Drops In to See How He Is Getting Along.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson surprised the President today when she came to Washington with her youngest daughter, Miss Eleanor Wilson. Just before their train reached the capital the President received word of their coming, and went to the station to meet them. Mrs. Wilson, it was said, made the trip merely in order to see if the President was getting proper attention at the White House. She will remain here for a few days only.

Mrs. Wilson and Miss Eleanor were in New York yesterday with Miss Jessie Wilson and Miss Isabel Hagner, Mrs. Wilson's social secretary. Miss Jessie Wilson and Miss Hagner returned to the Wilson Summer home at Cornish, N. H., last night.

M'CALL WILL RUN; GAYNOR IN RACE TOO

Mayor Will Head Third Ticket In the Fight for the City This Fall.

TAMMANY SEEKS WHITMAN

Plan to Name Him as District Attorney Has McCall's Support—Fusionists Don't Object.

Edward E. McCall, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, promptly accepted yesterday the Tammany nomination for Mayor which was offered to him by Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy. He will be named by the Democratic Designating Committee when it meets this afternoon at Terrace Garden.

Mayor Gaynor, through R. Ross Appleton, Chairman of the Gaynor Nominating and Fusion League, announced that he would accept a renomination on an independent ticket. Thus there will be three municipal tickets in the field this Fall. The various organizations which have been advocating the nomination of the Mayor will unite in one organization, to be known as the Gaynor League, and it will indorse the Fusion nominees for Controller and President of the Board of Aldermen. It will probably indorse a number of the other Fusion candidates also, possibly even the entire Fusion ticket.

The rest of the city ticket, which was selected at the conference of Tammany leaders at Delmonico's on Thursday night, also will be designated to-day, as Herman A. Metz, the candidate for Controller, and George M. S. Schulz, the candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, showed no disposition yesterday to refuse to run.

Murphy's action in refusing to renominate Mayor Gaynor has started a bitter warfare between the City Hall and the Fourteenth Street wigwam. The Mayor, it was said last night, is planning to lash Tammany from the stump and do everything in his power to drive Murphy from political life.

The Mayor, as soon as he arrived at the City Hall yesterday, indicated that Tammany could expect no mercy from him. The reporters asked him if he had anything to say, and he sent out this reply:

"I Have Been Mayor," Says Gaynor.

To the Staff of City Hall Reporters:

I do not know just what to say in answer to your written request. But there is one thing I can say to the whole city. I have not turned the city, or the rentpayers and taxpayers of the city, over to the spoliation of any one.

I have not turned them over to the spoliation of any organized band who make that their pursuit in life, and whose smug and sleek faces and figures are standing evidence that they wax rich and fat by filching by this cunning way and by that the taxes paid into the Treasury by their industrious and respectable neighbors.

The rentpayers and taxpayers may now turn themselves and the city over to the spoliation of such people if they want to. I am able to say that I have not done it.

Whether I am to run again depends entirely on the wishes of my fellow-citizens. I have had a pretty hard time for four years to hold my own against all comers, and against every corrupt influence, but I have been Mayor.

W. J. GAYNOR.

As he was leaving the City Hall last night the Mayor was asked if he had any further comment to make. This is what he said:

"If you will only quote me on what I wrote over my signature, and not mangle it or pervert its meaning, I would be very much obliged. I have nothing more to say about it."

McCall Agrees to Run.

Shortly after he reached his office yesterday, Chairman McCall called John F. Galvin, Chairman of the Democratic City Designating Committee, on the telephone and told him he would accept the Mayoralty nomination.

"Yes, John, I'll take it," said Mr. McCall laconically.

Then the Chairman squared his shoulders and waited for the interviewers. Mr. McCall was reminded that he had said on several occasions that he would not take the Tammany Mayoralty nomination. Only last June he said, "Nothing short of a gun at my head would make me change my mind." When he was asked yesterday why he had changed his mind, he replied:

"That is a hard question to answer. I did not want the office. I would much prefer that some one else be selected. But the request to me to take the nomination came in such a way that I felt that I could not refuse it—in such a way that no good Democrat could refuse it."

"Will you resign as Chairman of the Public Service Commission?" he was asked.

"I have not yet decided," was the reply. "Under the law I do not have to resign. I certainly will not cripple the work of the commission in any way. Pretty soon we are to be thrown into the heat of the work on our subway contracts, and I want to stand ready to do all I can to help in that work. But, of course, if I find that I will not be able to give the necessary time to my duties here I will resign."

"Have you any idea who will succeed you in case you do resign, and will you insist upon knowing who is to take up your work before you turn the office over?" was the next question.

"No, I have no idea who will take my place," Mr. McCall replied slowly. "And I will not insist upon knowing in advance who he will be. But you understand that the consideration of what will happen in this office has been one of the great deterrents to my taking the nomination for Mayor. I will have to know this—I will insist upon a satisfactory understanding about the situation here, and I will have to be assured in my own mind that a man of character, of sane ideas and standing will succeed me as Chairman before I will allow my name to go on the primary ballot."

"Were you led to reconsider your determination because you conceived it to be for the good of the party?"

"Oh, no, nothing of the sort," replied the Chairman. "I will not take any such opera bouffe attitude. Goodness knows there are plenty of good men who would serve as well as I, and I wish to heaven one of them had been selected. I am accepting simply because it was put to me in such a way that I felt, as a good Democrat, I could not refuse. Justice Dowling was my choice, and I was much disappointed when he declined. He would have made a strong candidate."

Declines to Discuss Gaynor.

"Do you think Mayor Gaynor may run independently?" Mr. McCall was asked.

"I have no idea what Mayor Gaynor will do," he replied.

"Do you think his independent candidacy would take strength from the Tammany ticket?"

"I have nothing to say about the Mayor or his candidacy."

"Will not your nomination prevent Sulzer from making good his threat to come to New York, whether he is impeached or not, and take the stump against Tammany Hall in favor of John Purroy Mitchel?"

"I have nothing to say about that."

Mr. McCall said he wanted to correct the statement that he was present

DROWNED BY LARGE PIKE.

Physician Falls from Boat and Fish Pulls Him Under Water.

Special to The New York Times.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Dr. Van Reimpt, who has been a guest of his brother-in-law, W. J. Hoysradt of Bronxville, in the latter's camp on Deer Island, Upper Saranac Lake, was drowned last night. A large Great Northern pike, which he had caught on a line while fishing, pulled him under water, after the physician had fallen from a rowboat.

Dr. Van Reimpt was endeavoring to gaff the fish, which he had played for some time, and just as he reached over the side of the boat the craft was struck by swells from a passing launch. Both the doctor and Mr. Hoysradt were thrown into the lake. The line on which the pike was struggling became tangled about Dr. Van Reimpt's leg, and he sank at once.

Mr. Hoysradt was able to keep afloat until Harry Baldwin, a guide at the Deer Island Camp, went to his rescue.

The physician's body was found several hours later, and has been taken to Hudson for burial.

POLICE BAR X-RAY SKIRT.

Los Angeles May Get Special Law to Prevent Diaphanous Raiment.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Official Los Angeles enjoined to-day the wearing of the so-called X-ray dress on the streets.

Chief of Police Sebastian said if he found present laws inadequate he would recommend the passage of an ordinance specifically forbidding the public appearance of women in diaphanous raiment.

REVILED FLAG, GOES TO JAIL.

Apology of I. W. W. Organizer Not Accepted by Ohio Court.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 22.—After he had publicly renounced his allegiance to the Industrial Workers of the World and apologized for incendiary utterances in his speeches as an organizer of that body, Martin J. Phelan received a fine of $100 and a thirty-day workhouse sentence from City Judge Rubrecht to-day. The maximum sentence was imposed.

The court held that Phelan's speeches, in which he reviled the American flag, constituted an offense for which an apology alone was not adequate.

PASTOR BOUGHT BOYS BEER.

St. Louis Minister Arrested on Charges of Five Youths.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—The Rev. John G. Brodt, pastor of the Third United Presbyterian Church, was arrested here to-day on the charges of five boys, ranging in age from 15 to 17, that he bought beer for them and took them to an improper place. Two of the boys were taken to the office of the Circuit Attorney to testify against the preacher.

According to the police, the preacher confessed that he bought beer for the boys and that he accompanied them to the resort. He said that he had been inveigled into the escapade.

BROKER SHOT ON TRAIN.

Body of St. Louis Man Found in a Passenger Car.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—James R. Lucas, a wealthy St. Louis grain broker, was found dead with a bullet hole in the right temple when a local Frisco train pulled into Valley Park, Mo., this afternoon. The police are hunting for two men who were in the coach with Lucas, but who disappeared shortly after the shooting.

There was no other passenger in the car to tell whether Lucas had died by his own hand or had been murdered.

Half an hour later Lucas's hat and the revolver with which he was shot were found beside the railroad track half a mile east of Valley Park, a Summer resort.

GIRLS AND AUTO MISSING.

Chauffeur Disappears with Doctor's $2,500 Motor Car.

Dr. Emil A. Muller of 316 East 120th Street reported to the East 126th Street Police Station last evening that his $2,500 automobile had disappeared on Wednesday. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon his chauffeur, James Murray, took it from the garage in Sylvan Place, he asserted, and he had not heard from him since.

He said that since the auto was taken away the mothers of three girls, one of them 16-year-old Annie Murphy of 309 West 120th Street, had asked him for word of them, and the mother of Adolph Mehers, 19 years old, of 453 East 119th Street, had inquired anxiously for her son.

NEGROES OWN $700,000,000.

Race Also Possesses 20,000,000 Acres of Land Here.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—The National Negro Business League, in an address to the public to-day setting forth the achievements of the race during the fifty years of freedom, stated that the possessions of the negroes in the United States amounted in value to $700,000,000, exceeding the possessions of the white peasants of Russia. The address further stated that the 4,500,000 negroes at the beginning of the civil war, of whom 3,600,000 were slaves, had increased to 10,000,000; that illiteracy had been reduced until now only 30 per cent. of the negroes were illiterate, and that the race owns 20,000,000 acres of land.

The annual convention of the league came to an end to-day with the reelection of Booker T. Washington as President for the fourteenth consecutive time.

MEETS LONG LOST BROTHER

Rochester Man Finds Colorado Miner After 40 Years.

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 22.—James D. Harris, a Rochester, N. Y., manufacturer, came to Colorado early in August for a vacation, little dreaming that he was to meet a brother from whom he was separated when both were boys in 1873. The meeting occurred at an exhibit of mineral ores from Gilpin County, in Denver.

Frank L. Branham, who is in charge of the exhibit, met the Rochester man at the Albany Hotel. On learning his name he said that a man named Mark Harris who came from New York to Colorado in the early seventies, was connected with the exhibit. The two went to the exhibit and the brothers recognized each other instantly.

The reunion was affecting, as each had long looked on the other as dead. Mark Harris is a prosperous mine owner at Central City, Colo., and the two brothers left for there to-night to enjoy a short time together.

SULZER IS LINKED WITH CUBAN DEAL

Close Associate of Contractors and Adviser on Their Claims While Still in Congress.

GOT ROOSEVELT'S SUPPORT

PARTNERS ARE NOW AT LAW

Correspondence Shows Sulzer Being Ordered About by Contractor Reilly at Crisis of Claim.

William Sulzer, when a Congressman, was the confidential friend, adviser, and associate of a Cuban contracting firm which is charged before the Supreme Court of this State with having defrauded one of its partners. It is also charged by a responsible firm of lawyers in this city with having by fraudulent representations induced the State Department to force the Cuban Government into recognizing a claim which it did not wish to recognize.

At the time these things were done Mr. Sulzer was a member of the committees of the House having to do with Cuban affairs, those on Foreign Relations and Military Affairs, and when the principal offense was committed he was Chairman of that committee having to do with it directly—the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Yesterday Justice Weeks of the Supreme Court made permanent a temporary injunction obtained from Justice Gavegan in the litigation described in THE NEW YORK TIMES of July 27 between the assignee of Senator José Antonio Frias of Cuba and Hugh J. Reilly, a contractor of New York and Havana. At that time an affidavit by a Roman Catholic Bishop, Bonaventure F. Broderick, was printed in THE TIMES in which he said there were insinuations that "a considerable sum of money collected from the Cuban Government through the assistance of the United States Government was used to reward the services of a lawyer prominently connected with the Government of Cuba, and another considerable sum was paid to a well-known American legislator for his services for securing the efficient intervention of the United States Department of State in collecting this claim from Cuba."

The suit between Frias's assignee, the Latin-American Improvement Company, and the contractor Reilly is the result of a broken partnership between the two, who were constructing large public works in the neighborhood of Cienfuegos, Havana, and elsewhere. When the partnership was dissolved each partner assigned to the other certain assets. Frias then went to Guatemala, and during his absence the work on the improvements went on.

Last August the Cuban Government, acting, as it is alleged, on pressure from Secretary Knox, who was assured that the assignment was a forgery, paid over to Reilly more than half a million dollars. When Frias returned from Central America he demanded this amount from Reilly, asserting that it had been assigned to him by his partner. Reilly retorted that the assignment was a forgery.

Frias then brought suit. David N. Carvalho, the handwriting expert, testified, and Justice Weeks yesterday decided to enjoin the disposal of the moneys paid over to Reilly until the final disposition of the case. Frias's attorneys, Smith, Gormley & Salomon of 43 Cedar Street, contend that this settles the question whether the assignment was a forgery. The question of who persuaded the State Department to believe that a forgery had been committed is not yet disclosed.

Frias's Story of Agreement.

On March 29, 1909, when the partnership ended, Frias, according to his own story, assigned a power contract to Reilly which does not enter into the case, and Reilly assigned to him 20 per cent. of the amount that Reilly was to receive under his $3,000,000 contract with the Cuban Government for installing public works at Cienfuegos, also half of the stock and bonds of the Cienfuegos, Palmire & Cruces Electric Railway and Power Company, and half of the Espada Cemetery in Havana.

It is alleged in the actions brought by Frias's assignees that Reilly endeavored to collect the whole amount of his claim from the Republic of Cuba, and that the Department of State, influenced by false statements to the effect that the whole amount was owing, "under threat of intervention" compelled the Cuban Government to pay over on Aug. 27, 1912, $517,744 to Donovan & Phillips, Reilly's sub-contractors, and $39,917 to Reilly himself.

Nothing has thus far been brought out connecting Mr. Sulzer with the representations concerning the forgery, which Justice Weeks has virtually dismissed. It is shown, however, that throughout the time when Reilly and Frias were conducting their negotiations Sulzer was their guide, philosopher, and friend, he being at that time the ranking minority member of the House Committee on Military Affairs, which during the American occupancy of Cuba was the committee having direct control of the island, so far as the House of Representatives was concerned.

The waterworks contract was made originally between Reilly and the City of Cienfuegos in 1906. Under the American occupancy Cienfuegos revoked the contract, and it became necessary to have it restored. This was done on Aug. 12, 1908, by Governor General Magoon, acting under orders from Secretary Taft. Who brought the necessary pressure to bear upon Mr. Taft is not stated.

Sulzer's Relations to Frias.

Mr. Sulzer's relations with Reilly and Frias are shown by a number of letters and telegrams which passed between Reilly, Frias, and others during the whole time. There is, for instance, this cable message, dated March 20, 1907, when Reilly was in Havana trying to have the contract reinstated:

CABLE MESSAGE.
THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY.
New York, March 20, 1907.
To Reilly: 37, Cuba, Havana:

Senator and myself have thoroughly discussed your case. Come immediately to see President and Taft. They will do everything necessary to protect your rights. This plan best for immediate results. Bring all papers. If necessary afterward, will go to Cuba with you. SULZER.

On April 27, 1907, when things are looking glum, Reilly writes to Frias under his pet name of "Tony," giving the order: "Have Sulzer there on the morning of the 8th of May, as I may have to go to Washington again."

The letter in full, with Reilly's curiosities of spelling, is as follows:

Cienfuegos, Palmira & Cruces Electric Rway. & Power Co.
Pres. B. DIAZ, Cuba 37.

Tony

The R. R. Deal is off and the Upmans told the people if they did not bring in the money on Friday they would build it themselfs wich I hope they will do. I sent Costello with a letter to Steinhart for my 35000 due me on the option, and he laughed about it he thinks he is going to get away with it, but I will sue him for it. Farrar and myself had two hours with Magoon yesterday Steinhart was present and it finished by Magoon wiring to the Mayor of Cienfuegos to send him the papers but he tried to get out of it but I cornered him and he done it. Farrar and myself have an appointment with him on Monday 10:30 A. M. when he will have the papers. Dont you loose your hart on account of thies troubles for I will beat them. Have Sulzer thare on the morning of the 8 of May as I may have to go to Washington again. I wired you 1000 to Muller Schalls on Friday evening after a hard fight with Henry for the money as it was just after these other people failed, so be careful of your money as it will be hard to get till I get the Cienfuegos matter settelld. I hope you will be allright before I get up. Mrs. Reilly will sail on the 4 tell the Hotel to have the Rooms in the annex reddy for the 7 also two rooms for servants,

Yours
H. J. R.

Sulzer Corrected Their Letter.

By May, 1907, Sulzer's relations with the contractors had grown so close that when they wanted to write a letter to President Roosevelt, urging his interference, they got Sulzer to go over it and correct it. The letter itself is of no special interest except as showing the careful way in which Sulzer went over it and made it his own. He was evidently well acquainted with Mr. Roosevelt's little idiosyncrasies, for where Frias had baldly written "Hon. Theodore Roosevelt," Mr. Sulzer interlined "President United States, Washington, D. C." He corrected Reilly's language and grammar. Where Frias thanked the President for what he had done "to conserve my interests," Sulzer interlined "and are doing." Where Frias coarsely spoke of his "interests," Sulzer crossed the word out and wrote "rights," thereby making it more patriotic; and so he went on throughout the whole letter.

The original Frias letter follows, and a comparison with the reproduction, printed herewith, will show how greatly Mr. Sulzer improved it:

Hon. Theodore Roosevelt.

My Dear Mr. President: Just a line to thank you for all that you have done to conserve my interests as an American citizen in regard to my contracts for the sanitation and pure water supply for the City of Cienfuegos, Cuba. Mr. Taft, the Secretary of War, is familiar with all the facts, and no doubt will speak to you about the matter. All I want is a square deal, and to have the city carry out the terms of the contract which is approved by all the authorities in Cuba, from the President down, and which the courts have held to be absolutely legal. I have over $500,000 now tied up on deposit as guarantee, and by reason of the non-performance of the contract on the part of the City of Cienfuegos, I am in a most precarious position, and have no rights apparently whatever, except through your good offices.

Recently the Governor of the province of Santa Clara issued a decree directing the new council of Cien. appointed by Gov. Magoon, to carry out the terms of the contract, and this matter is now on appeal from the Governor of Santa Clara's decree to Gov. Magoon, and I am informed by my representatives in Cuba that the matter is now in his hands for determination.

If the Governor determines it in my favor, and it must be decided in my favor, according to law and equity, then I can proceed diligently with the work, and it is a most important work for the benefit of all the people of Cuba. If Gov. Magoon decides against me, then I shall be compelled to appeal to the Secretary of War.

Again thanking you, I want to say that I appreciate more than words can tell your interest in my behalf, and the fact that you always have and, I know, always will see that American citizens at home and abroad get a square deal.

With best wishes, believe me,
Very sincerely yours,

Reilly Called Him "Sulz."

The following telegram is more or less of a Delphic oracle. It was sent by Reilly to Frias, but its meaning is lost. Its profane reference to the future Governor of New York as "Sulz" can only be explained on the theory of intimate affection:

Havana, Oct. 10, 1907.
To FRIAS
New Amsterdam Hotel, New York.

Have Sulz do as I said its a squeeze here sure what is best price we can take.
(No. Sig.) 12 25 A.

On Nov. 8, 1907, Sulzer thought Reilly might like to know of the movements of Secretary Taft, then in the Philippines, and of the fact that the Secretary and Gen. Clarence R. Edwards might be expected home from the Philippines as originally scheduled. So he sent him a newspaper clipping to that effect, and wrote:

House of Representatives, Washington.
115 Broadway,
New York, Nov. 8, 1907.
Hugh J. Reilly, Esq., New Amsterdam Hotel, New York City:

My Dear Judge: The inclosed explains itself, and I send the same to you for your information. It seems that Gen. Edwards is with Gen. Taft, and that the Secretary intends to continue his route home across Siberia and Europe. I am going over the papers carefully and hope to see you early next week. With best wishes, believe me very sincerely yours,

WILLIAM SULZER.

"Judge," it should be explained, was Reilly's pet name, as "Tony" was Frias's.

Told Frias to See Him.

"Do not leave for Havana until you see me," Sulzer warns Frias in another letter, dated Jan. 7, 1908. This was when the matter was still pending before Magoon. Says Sulzer:

House of Representatives,
Washington.
Jan. 7, 1908.
The Hon. J. A. Frias, New Amsterdam Hotel, New York City:

My Dear Senator: I have been laid up with the grippe and have been very ill. I am assured by the Secretary that the original contract will be carried out, and I know it will be. I wish you would cable the Judge to that effect. I only got out of bed to-day, but expect to be at the office the latter part of the week, and just so soon as I get back will either see you at my office or at the hotel. Do not leave for Havana until you see me. You can rest assured I have got everything all right. All great matters move slowly, and you must not be impatient. With best wishes, believe me, very sincerely yours,

WILLIAM SULZER.

There must have been days when Sulzer wearied in well doing, for there is at least one message in which Reilly urged Frias to make Hugh J. Reilly, Jr., his promising son, "stick to Sulzer and keep him to work." Reilly wrote on Jan. 14, 1908:

H. J. Reilly, Havana Cuba, Jan. 14.
Tony

Your cabel received have wired Real to come here with the papers that will take some time to do what S. wants but have him to fight without it for if noting is done soo the work will be given out next month these people are hiding behind Crowders oppinion and Judge Brounes breif is filed in Washington against it let Hugh stick to Sulzer and keep him to work and the other people working in the Interest of the other contractors will help. Your frend was in yesterday and says he thinks that money will be reddy in about 10 days I wished you had it now as I am Broke and cant Borrow so I have to sell some of Mrs. R. jewels to get money. The letters that I send to Cienfuegos is not delivered so I have to use the cable and that cost 10 cents a word. You cant make any deal here I have tried it. It has got to come from up thare. Tell Broune to pust the 35 case all he can. I have written him my oppinion is that you would be a great deal better off here fighting as ever one thinks you will not come back and they are starting all kines of Rumors to keep you away Figarraue says he wont let you make a cent and Low Garcia says he will put you in jail if you come back on account of Trinadad and our Mutual Frends Steinhart is helping them and no one comes into my office so thare you are if I had money I would leave for New York and help to do my fighting up thare as that is where the Battele has got to be won or lost.

Yours, H. J. R.

Says "Roosevelt Promised Sulzer."

Sulzer must have either obtained a promise from President Roosevelt or convinced his clients that he had so succeeded back in January, months before Gov. Magoon finally gave in, for on Jan. 20 Reilly wrote to "Tony," saying that "Roosevelt promised Sulzer he would do it." He wrote:

H. J. REILLY
CUBA 37
Havana
Jan. 20- '08.

Tony: Your letter of the 16 Received the compromiss is all right if it can be made and with all that strength it ought and more so as Rossvelt promised Sulzer he would do it the trouble is with the Insular Burea as the people douen here have that Department Del Real will not have his breif reddy till the 29 of this month as that is the last day as Magouen did not send me the notice till Saturday the 18 the council has not notified me of anything and Real writes me to hold my possissions Stanton wants me to give him a Second Mortgage on the Cemitary for your notes and mine he claims 17000—now I only got 6000 from him and that was to pay for the work in December and January he says I Indorsed your notes for the other 11000—I am going in to see him to-day at 3 o'clock to have a talk with him as he sent a Lawyer to see me and tell me he gave he notice of suit so you see what he is trying to do. Capote tells me that the Trinadad people want to settell if a good arrangement could be made I would advize you to do it but you know best. Wire your man to give me half of that mony he gets next month of course if Washington makes that arrangement we can pull through all right but the main Lawyers ought to get to work on the R. R. on account of the Revolution delaying matters. I would not sell the Cemitary if I could get any money and could hold off Runkin for his Interest on the mortgage. Mageuen is only making an excuse of the Council they all have to do as Steinhart says but if we winn up thare things will be different. I have never been in such a tight Box before and besides I have spent over 60,000 of my owen money that Mrs. Reilly ought to have and is all the time talking about it so much that if I had any money I would be in New York now, as she has been selling her Jewells to keep the house so you can how hard it is for me with a family of small children on my hands and evere one against you Farrara is the only one that has lent me a cent since I have been here. I will come on recept of cabel to Washington right away and make that arrangement if it can be done and I think it can as they will be glad to setell it that way and take thare orders from Washington. regards to all Called Reilly to Washington.

On Feb. 28, 1908, Reilly got some more or less glad news from Sulzer, who wired him at New York telling him he had "just received decree," and telling him to come "to Wash'n to-night or to-morrow" to meet C. C. Vermeule, the engineer in charge of the work, and ex-Attorney General Robert H. McCarter of New Jersey, one of Frias's counsel:

THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY.
RECEIVED AT Feb. 28, 1908
Dated TW Washington, D. C. 28
To Hugh J. Reilly, New Amsterdam Hotel:

Just received decree come to Washington to-night or to-morrow. Vermeule and McCarter will be here Sunday. Important, answer. WILLIAM SULZER.

In April Sulzer seemed to have got the thing working along so well that he "deemed it advisable to cable Mr. Reilly to come here directly," but he wanted Reilly to "get in touch with me over the telephone" as soon as he landed in New York. Said he:

Sixtieth Congress,
Committee on Military Affairs,
House of Representatives, U. S.
Washington, D. C., April 29, 1908.
Personal.

Senator Frias:

My Dear Senator: Your letter duly received and contents carefully noted. The matter was in such shape that I deemed it advisable to cable Mr. Reilly to come here immediately and have just received a cable from him saying that he left Saturday for New York on the steamer. Just as soon as he gets to New York, have him get in touch with me over the telephone.

The matter is now before the President, and I want Mr. Reilly, Mr. Vermeule, and Gen. McCarter to be present when I finally present the case. I have written to Mr. Vermeule to the same effect.

With best wishes, believe me, very sincerely your friend.

WILLIAM SULZER.

Peremptory Order for Sulzer.

On June 8 there came a mystic sort of telegram, which may be a little better understood, if it is explained that the person styled "Burbridge" was talking about opening a race track at Havana. However, the real interest in this telegram lies in its autocratic order, "See Sulzer. Have him go to Washington." It is not signed, but it came from Reilly, and it reads:

THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY.
8:45 P.
Received at 172 Fifth Av., n. w. cor. 22d St., New York. 392 Mu. Ct. 25, pd. wireless and paid Wn. via Jacksonville, Fla.; Havana, Cuba, June 8, via Key West, Fla., 8.
Frias, New Amsterdam Hotel:

See Sulzer. Have him go to Washington. Decree on Magoon's desk. He delays waiting for Del Real Burbridge wants to talk race track will I? No sig.

The last letter in this interesting collection is dated May 5, 1909, and in it Mr. Sulzer says: "I hope to make the speech you wanted me to make to-morrow." It reads:

Hon. Jose A. Frias, New Amsterdam Hotel, 20th St. and 4th Av., New York, N. Y.

My dear Senator: Your letter and memorandum just received, and I will give the same my personal attention, and hope to make the speech you want me to make to-morrow, and have it printed, and then you can have it translated into Spanish and printed, in English and Spanish in New York, and send it to our friends in Guatemala. I expect to get back Saturday, but if I do not, will certainly be over on Monday. Will write you further in a day or so. Expect now to go with you, and hope we can get away Monday. Have all letters.

Give my best wishes to the Judge, and believe me as ever,

Very sincerely yours,
WILLIAM SULZER.

Will write you fully to-morrow.

"NOTHING TO IT," SAYS SULZER

He Refuses to Make Any Detailed Statement on the Subject.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 22.—The correspondent for THE NEW YORK TIMES called at the Executive Mansion to-night to submit to Mr. Sulzer an outline of the essential features of the article concerning his connection with the Reilly-Frias deal in Cuba, while he was in Congress. Mr. Sulzer would not make any detailed statement.

"There is nothing to it," said he. "It is a pure fake. That is all I care to say at this time."

SULZER ATTENDED HEARINGS,

And Was Generally Active as an Avowed Friend of Reilly.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Officials recalled to-night that when the War Department had before it in 1908 the question of the legality of the revocation of the contract of Hugh J. Reilly for the construction of waterworks at Cienfuegos, William Sulzer accompanied Mr. Reilly to the War Department and attended the hearings there with him. Mr. Sulzer called on Secretary Taft, President Roosevelt, and officials of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, representing himself in each instance as a friend of Reilly.

Reilly and Frias obtained the contract in 1906. At that time Frias was a Senator and supported the Palma Government. When the Palma Government fell, making it necessary for this country to intervene in Cuban affairs, enemies of Frias in the Cienfuegos region had the contract rescinded by vote of the City Council, but the Governor of the province, whose approval was necessary, refused to indorse the revocation.

The matter later came before the War Department and was handled by Secretary Taft until he resigned after being nominated for President, and then by his successor, Gen. Luke Wright.

The main question at issue was whether the contract was properly revoked, and at the hearings before Mr. Taft, Mr. Sulzer introduced Reilly as his friend, and indicated interest of that character in Reilly.

After carefully considering the case, Secretary Taft decided that the contract had not been legally rescinded. The Roosevelt Administration sent instructions to Gov. Magoon to announce this judgment.

Officials, interested in the action taken at the time, assert that the decision reached by Secretary Taft was based on the plain record of facts as presented.

RESOLUTIONS PLEASE SULZER.

Tells Visitors He Stands on Denial —Glynn Not Seeking Mail.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 22.—William Sulzer spent more time to-day in the large room of the executive suite than he has for the last two weeks. Apparently he has undertaken little business of the department. He talked with friends for some time and made his first speech since his lips were sealed by his counsel after his impeachment. This was to twenty-five Jews of Albany, who called to present a floral horseshoe and resolutions of confidence adopted at a meeting Wednesday night. A card accompanying the horseshoe was thus inscribed:

To the Honorable William Sulzer, Governor of the People, elected by the people, and for the people.

"I am very much obliged to you, and I certainly appreciate your confidence in me," Mr. Sulzer said to his visitors. "Suffice it now for me to say that I have denied the charges against me made by Mr. Murphy and his agents. I stand on that denial. I cannot say more about the controversy now, because my counsel have advised me not to talk. I must, of course, take the advice of the distinguished lawyers who have volunteered for the State.

"When my story is told, and it will be told, there will be nothing in my private life or my public career of which I shall be ashamed. That is all I can say at this time, but from the depths of my heart I thank you for your friendship and your confidence."

While Mr. Sulzer sees practically nothing of the State officials, he is cheered to some extent by friendly expressions from visitors. In presenting the floral emblem of good luck to-day H. L. Kessler, Chairman of the Albany committee, said there was an "aroused public sentiment," which was expressed at the Albany meeting, "as a protest against the persecution to which you have been subjected because of your loyalty to the cause of the people as against boss rule."

Mr. Sulzer made public a resolution expressing appreciation for the "good and noble work performed by you in behalf of the people of this State so far," adopted by Independent Kovner Lodge, Independent Order B'rith Abraham, composed mostly of residents of the Fourth Assembly District of the Borough of Manhattan, the district which is represented by Aaron J. Levy.

Assemblyman Levy is the Democratic leader of the lower house and is Chairman of the Board of Managers of the Assembly in charge of the prosecution of the impeachment against Gov. Sulzer.

Other resolutions made public were those adopted by Jewish citizens of the Fourth Ward of the Borough of Queens. These assert that "disreputable machine-bound politicians have been illegally trying to discredit the Governor," and express sympathy "for his suffering through the unjust slanders that are being circulated with malicious intent."

Samuel Cooper, Chairman of the Rockland County Democratic Committee, sent a letter to the impeached official assuring him that "the entire population of Rockland County is practically unanimous in supporting you" in the impeachment proceedings.

Further encouragement was given by a letter, signed by William H. Twamley and seven others of Rochester, who say that they will stick to Sulzer to "the bitter end," and that they will help to drive some Monroe County Assemblymen out of public life.

Acting Gov. Glynn adheres to his determination to make no effort to obtain executive business. He said he had made no formal demand for the official mail of the executive chamber, and intimated that he did not expect to do so. He signed extradition papers for the return of Oscar Smoyer to New Jersey upon the completion of his term in Sing Sing, and issued a requisition on the Governor of Illinois for the extradition to this State of Eugene Grant, who is charged with grand larceny.

Edward Everett McCall.

Chairman of the Public Service Commission Selected by Tammany as the Democratic Candidate for Mayor.

Edward Everett McCall, who has been selected by Mr. Murphy and the Tammany leaders to run for Mayor on the Democratic ticket this Fall, is an American by birth and a lawyer by profession. From private law practice he went to the Supreme Court bench in this district. He was a Supreme Court Justice when he was appointed Chairman of the Public Service Commission of the First District on the eve of the settlement of the difficult subway problem, and during the earlier and less exciting period of the Sulzer administration.

Mr. McCall is 50 years old. He was born in Albany on Jan. 6, 1863, and attended that city's public schools. He was a boy of 17 when he came to New York to study at New York University, from which institution he was graduated in 1884 as valedictorian of his class in the Law Department. He entered private practice with his classmate, William C. Arnold, and with the Dean of the Faculty, David R. Jacques. The selection of his brother John A. McCall as President of the New York Life Insurance Company brought Edward E. McCall into touch with the insurance world, a contact that affected his career markedly. He became counsel for the three largest insurance companies in the world, the Mutual Life, the Equitable Life, and the New York Life, and in later years, after he had gone on the bench, his name cropped up in various insurance investigations.

His candidacy for the Mayoralty is sure to recall to many his connection with the famous investigation which William H. Hotchkiss, now a Bull Moose leader, and then State Superintendent of Insurance, made into the affairs of the Phenix Fire Insurance Company, when it was shown that William H. Buckley did much lobby work at Albany in the interests of various fire insurance companies. Judge McCall's name figured prominently in the newspapers just then, and he felt called upon to explain why he had made loans of large sums of money to Buckley.

When Charles E. Hughes, now a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, was acting as counsel of the legislative committee which investigated the life insurance companies, Buckley's name was mentioned so often in connection with the "Yellow Dog" lobby fund in Albany that Mr. Hughes wanted to question him, but Buckley remained in Montreal beyond the investigator's reach.

However, Buckley had come back by 1910 when the Hotchkiss investigation of fire insurance matters was in full swing, and on the stand he talked with candor of his work as a lobbyist. It then came out that in 1900 and 1901, when Buckley was a third deputy in the State Insurance Department, he borrowed $61,000 in three loans from the Phenix Fire Insurance Company, and that the sum of $26,000 of these loans was paid off with checks given by Edward E. McCall, while the remaining sum of $35,000, continuing until 1909, was paid off by others.

In a letter of explanation to Mr. Hotchkiss, Mr. McCall said that Buckley had been a friend in need of money, and that, at his request, he had loaned it.

Mr. McCall was elected to the Supreme Court Bench in November, 1902, and, taking his seat on Jan. 1, 1903, served the bench until early in this year, when he became Chairman of the Public Service Commission to succeed William R. Willcox. He accepted the new place with expressed reluctance, but even so long ago as February it was reported that he was being groomed for the coming campaign. If Mr. Sulzer plays or tries to play any part in the municipal campaign it will probably be pointed out to him that Mr. McCall was his own appointee to a responsible post and that in sending in his nomination to the Senate Mr. Sulzer described McCall as a man "big enough for any office in our country."

"No one," said Mr. Sulzer, "can question his high standing as a citizen, his industry as a public servant, his ability as a lawyer, his worth and impartiality as a Justice of the Supreme Court, and his determination always to do what he believes to be just and right and for the public good."

The nomination was received with hot criticism, but the dual subway contracts went through with repeated exchanges of courtesies between the new Chairman and Mr. Willcox.

Mr. McCall is a member of the Manhattan, Democratic, Harlem, Lotos, Catholic, and Lawyers' Clubs.

Curiously enough the name "Gaynor" has played an important part in his life. He was married in Albany to Ella F. Gaynor, the daughter of Thomas S. Gaynor of that city.

at the conference at Delmonico's on Thursday.

"I was at a real conference between the Giants and Cubs at the Polo Grounds during the afternoon," he said, "and I only joined the conferees at Delmonico's shortly before midnight, when I was asked to do so. I had been at a conference earlier in the evening, but not there."

Among those who called on Mr. McCall yesterday to congratulate him were William H. Chesebrough, President of the City Economy League, and Bartow S. Weeks.

Metz Is Not Enthusiastic.

When Herman A. Metz was asked yesterday if he would take the nomination for Controller, he said:

"I am too busy to think much about it just at present, and I really don't know whether I want the office or not. But sometimes, you know, a man has to sacrifice himself for his party. I may say frankly that the nomination has no attractions for me."

Mr. Schulz, it was said, had told Leader Murphy that he did not desire the nomination for President of the Board of Aldermen, but would like instead to run for Borough President of the Bronx. Murphy is said to have told him that he was needed to solidify the ticket and a refusal would not be considered. Immediate pressure was brought to bear upon Mr. Schulz, and it was said last night that he would "stick."

Before he left the city for Easthampton, L. I., yesterday, Mr. McCall had a talk with State Senator James A. Foley, Chairman of the Platform Committee. It was then said that Tammany's platform would consider the subjects of subways, economy, retrenchment, and reform. The subway question will be made one of the main issues of the campaign.

Mayor Gaynor sent for R. Ross Appleton, head of the Gaynor Nominating and Fusion League, during the afternoon. Mr. Appleton was with the Mayor about half an hour, and when he came out he was asked if the Mayor was going to run on an independent ticket.

"He is going to run," replied Mr. Appleton, with a smile.

"Did he tell you so?"

"He did," replied Mr. Appleton, "and we are going to put the strongest ticket we can possibly get under the shovel. That is to be the emblem of our league, you know, as we intend to make the subways the leading issue of our platform. We will also nominate candidates for the county and borough offices, as well as candidates for the Assembly and the Board of Aldermen in all the Assembly and Aldermanic districts. It is very likely that we will indorse the Fusion candidates for the city ticket, outside of the Mayor, of course. But we will make our selections carefully, and nominate only the best men we can find.

Plans for Third Ticket.

"We have petitions far in excess of the number necessary to nominate independently, for we have more than 15,000, where only 4,000 are required, and more are coming in daily. We have until Oct. 1 to file our petitions, so we have plenty of time, and we are going along slowly. We invite everyone to come and vote with us under the emblem of the shovel. The people have said they want an independent candidate, and here is their chance."

Mr. Appleton said he expected the Mayor to draw his support about evenly from the Fusionists and the Democrats. He said Mr. Gaynor's election on an independent ticket was assured. He said a campaign manager would be selected within a short time.

Jacob Katz, President of the East Side Property Owners' Association, and Louis Goodman of the East Side Gaynor League, also called upon the Mayor, and when they left him both said that the Mayor had said that he would be a candidate on an independent ticket.

Norman Hapgood, Chairman of the Fusion Committee of 107, said he was well pleased with Tammany's selection of Mr. McCall.

"From our standpoint the Tammany choice is entirely satisfactory," he said. "It is specially so in view of Tammany's recent attack on Gov. Sulzer. Tammany started out to 'get' Sulzer because he opposed them and because Tammany will stand only for abject slaves. They have been grooming McCall for months for the Mayoralty. When they took him off the bench to put him in the Public Service it was a part of the grooming process. Tammany knows McCall will stand without hitching.

"Mayor Gaynor was not picked because part of the time he was with Tammany and part of the time against them, so they could never tell where he was. As for Mayor Gaynor's statement, it is characteristic."

Herman Ridder after calling upon Chairman McCall to find if he intended to take the Tammany nomination, said yesterday that he would support Mayor Gaynor for the Mayoralty.

TAMMANY TO NAME WHITMAN.

McCall Favors the Plan and Fusionists Will Not Object.

District Attorney Charles S. Whitman is to be nominated by Tammany for his present office, and Mr. Whitman will accept, with the approval of the Fusion Committee of 107, according to information that came from several trustworthy sources last night. Edward E. McCall, Tammany's choice for Mayor, is very much in favor of the plan by which Tammany will nominate the District Attorney, and it was said that his wishes will prevail. Mr. McCall, it was said, feels that he is now in a position to say who his running mates on the Tammany ticket shall be, and he proposes to have Mr. Whitman.

The District Attorney showed yesterday that he was well pleased with the selection of Mr. McCall, not so much on Mr. McCall's account, however, but because the nomination did not go to Mayor Gaynor. Mr. Whitman, however, would say nothing, either on the Tammany selection or about his own nomination by the Fourteenth Street organization. Several who share the District Attorney's confidence think that he will make no move to prevent Tammany from nominating him, and that he will not refuse the nomination.

At the same time, it was said, he will not make any promises and will not enter into any deals with Murphy. His attitude, it was explained, is that he owes it to the people of the city to run again for his present office, no matter on what ticket his name may be. It was said that Norman Hapgood, Chairman of the Fusion Committee, had a conference with the District Attorney yesterday and assured him that the Fusionists would not be dissatisfied if he should accept the Tammany nomination, provided that he made no pledges and did not compromise himself in any way.

Tammany will not give Mr. Whitman the nomination, however, until it tries to obtain a promise from him that he will not attack the organization too severely from the stump. They may request him not to take the stump at all, on the ground that his election is assured with his name on both tickets. Mr. Whitman went to Bretton Woods, N. H., last night.

LEVY DOESN'T WANT TO RUN.

Assembly Leader Hopes to Obtain a City Judgeship.

Aaron J. Levy, leader of the Assembly, who was not designated for renomination in the Fourth Assembly District by Tammany, explained yesterday that he did not desire a renomination and had asked to be kept off the ticket. Henry S. Schimmel, a lawyer of 52 Broadway, who was designated, was formerly an offfice boy in Mr. Levy's office, the Assemblyman said, and was now his law partner.

Mr. Levy expects Tammany to give him a Municipal Court Judgeship, and it is likely that he will be named to succeed Leon Sanders, who resigned as Judge of the Municipal Court of the Second District.

LOW IS OUT FOR MITCHEL.

Writes Letter Indorsing Him—Fusion Ticket Changed in Bronx.

Threats of more trouble induced the Fusion Committee of 107 to make still another change in its slate yesterday. This time the Bronx was affected. The anti-Tammany forces in that borough have frightened the Fusionists half a dozen times, and fearful that the Progressives and independent Democrats would throw the entire slate overboard and nominate a ticket of their own, Norman Hapgood and Joseph M. Price, the Fusion leaders, consented yesterday to a shifting of candidates for Coroner.

The two Fusion candidates for Coroner, Abram Herbst and Joseph L. Zoetzel, were withdrawn and Joseph P. Hennessy and George Zipf were substituted. Hennessy is a Democrat. He is President of the Board of Assesors and a brother of John A. Hennessy, confidential adviser to Mr. Sulzer. Zipf is a Republican.

The change satisfied the Progressives, and when the Progressive County Designating Committee mets to-night it is expected that it will indorse the ticket as now made up.

Former Mayor Seth Low wrote John Purroy Mitchel, Fusion candidate for Mayor, yesterday that he would support him and the whole Fusion ticket. Mr. Low said in his letter:

On the great subject of subway development, I myself thought, as you know, that you were entirely mistaken; but I believed then, as I believe now, that the difference of opinion was an entirely honest one. I know you so well, and believe so thoroughly in your integrity of purpose and in your high ideals for the City of New York, that I am gladly willing to accept, without reserve, your assurance that the difference of opinion which existed between Mr. McAneny and yourself was "one of judgment as to the business adjustment between the company and the city, and was not due to any desire on your part to bring about public operation of the subway system." I am also ready to believe that as Mayor you will do everything in your power to work out the subway problem along the lines agreed upon.

I am glad that Mr. Whitman's own sense of duty to the public has led him to strengthen the Fusion movement by running again for the office of District Attorney, which he has filled so ably and courageously. In my own judgment, the fact that you are a Democrat greatly increases the hope that, at the present time, a staggering blow may be given by the Fusion forces to Tammany Hall and all that it represents. The Baltimore convention showed that a large element of the Democracy outside of the State of New York perfectly understands the humiliation which Tammany inflicts upon the National Democracy. The humiliation of the State of New York at the hands of Tammany is now complete. I hope with all my heart that Gov. Sulzer may emerge from his present predicament with more credit than upon the surface appears to be possible, but whatever may be his mistakes, I for one cannot help looking askance at impeachment proceedings carried on through an Assembly, many of whose members were asleep during the discussion, at the instance of Mr. Murphy sitting at the telephone hour after hour marshalling the forces of Tammany Hall for the conquest of the State.

No public interest would have suffered from greater deliberation. But the same Tammany which acquitted Senator Stillwell, (who is now in prison after indictment and conviction for the same crime,) and which was indifferent to the damaging admissions made by Judge Cohalan, could not sleep of nights lest Gov. Sulzer should escape its wrath. These various incidents seem to me to give great hope for the success of Fusion in the City of New York under your capable leadership.

Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee appointed by the Republicans to confer with the Fusionists with the idea of rearranging the county judicial slate, had a talk with Mr. Hapgood yesterday, but it was decided to take no action until Monday.

FOR PUBLIC SAFETY BUREAU.

Democrats Are Asked to Put Accident Prevention Plank in Platform.

In a letter addressed yesterday to the Democratic City Designating Convention the Legislation League for the Conservation of Human Life, with offices at 302 Broadway, calls the attention of that body to the needless sacrifice of human life in this city, and demands that the local Democratic platform shall include a pledge to adopt and enforce measures of prevention. The Legislation League for the Conservation of Human Life was organized several years ago by George P. Le Brun, who has been connected with the Coroner's office for sixteen years. Mr. Le Brun is now Secretary of the league, which has advocated the passage of the Anti-pistol bill and laws designed to decrease automobile, grade crossing, and elevator accidents. The letter of the league says:

We call your attention to the needless sacrifice of human life in this city. The continuous slaughter of human life on the streets of this city by the reckless operation of automobiles can be stopped. The taking of human life at the dangerous grade crossings within this city, with no real effort made to eliminate them, suggests a habit of criminal carelessness. The killing and maiming of human beings by the operation of passenger elevators in this city can be stopped by compelling the use of safety devices to prevent these accidents. The delay in compelling owners of buildings where a number of people are employed to make safe fire exits and other safeguards to protect the lives of the workers is another instance of the indifference to the sacrifice of human life.

With the enactment of a law regulating the sale and carrying of firearms, if properly enforced, there should be a marked decrease in homicides by shooting.

Surely humanity and civilization require that this needless destruction of human life shall be stopped.

A copy of the letter, Mr. Le Brun said, would be sent to the Fusion Committee with the view of having that organization consider the importance of pledging its support to such measures as may prevent the useless sacrifice of human life.

BRONX REPUBLICANS BOLT.

Reject Fusion County Ticket and Name Their Own Candidates.

The Bronx Republicans bolted the ticket the Fusion Committee had prepared for them last night and nominated a complete county ticket of their own. The designating meeting was held at the North Side Republican Club, 142d Street and Third Avenue, and County Chairman John J. Knewitz presided. This was the slate the Republicans selected: Sheriff, Thomas H. O'Neill, independent Democrat; Surrogate, John Boyle, Jr., Republican; County Judge, Louis Gibbs, independent Democrat; Register, Alfred B. Simonds, Republican; County Clerk, Abraham H. Herbst, Republican; District Attorney, Robert Ten Eyck, Republican. For Coroners, Andrew J. Kelly and William J. Flynn were selected.

In every case the Republican candidates received twice as many votes as the Fusion candidates.

The Borough Designating Committee met later and designated Douglas Mathewson, the Fusion candidate, for Borough President. Mr. Mathewson was present and said he could not determine at present whether he would accept the nomination. He said he reserved the right to decline if he found it necessary to do so.

The Bronx Republicans did not fuse with either the Progressives or the Independence Leaguers, but threw in their lot entirely with the independent Democrats headed by Eugene J. McGuire, who "broke" with Charles F. Murphy and set up a Democratic organization of his own.

PICK MEN FOR LEGISLATURE.

Aldermen, Too, Are Designated by Three Political Parties.

The Republican, Progressive, and Independence League Parties designated candidates for the Assembly, and the Board of Aldermen at meetings held last night. The designations were for Manhattan, Bronx, and Brooklyn. The names of the persons designated will appear on the primary ballots.

In several districts the Republicans and Progressives joined forces, one party taking the candidates for Assembly, and the other the Aldermanic candidates. There was practically no friction in any of the districts. The Republican Assembly designations for Manhattan and the Bronx were:

Robert F. Downing, the oldest member of the Board of Aldermen, will not go back to the Board after his present term, as the Republicans from his district, the Forty-second Aldermanic, refused to give him a renomination. He has served in the Board for fourteen years.

The Republicans and Progressives in Long Island City formed a combination last night whereby each will support the other's candidates for the Assembly and the Board of Aldermen. The Republicans designated as their candidate for Assemblyman from the First Assembly District John A. Porter, and the Progressives at their designating committee meeting indorsed him. The Progressives of the Sixty-sixth Aldermanic District designated George Ripperger for Alderman, and the Republicans in turn indorsed him.

Designated to Succeed Stilwell.

The Democratic organization of the Twenty-first Senatorial District in the Bronx, designated last night John B. Davidson as its candidate for State Senator, to succeed Stephen J. Stilwell, who was sentenced to Sing Sing for demanding a bribe. Mr. Davidson is an architect and has lived in the Bronx for the last twenty-five years. He was the last President of Williamsbridge before its annexation in 1895. He lives at 638 East 227th Street.

HONORS GLYNN REQUISITION

Tombs Warden Lets Georgian Go—Refused Sulzer Papers.

On the advice of Corporation Counsel Watson, Warden Fallon of the Tombs yesterday honored a requisition signed by Martin H. Glynn as acting Governor and released a prisoner in custody of a Deputy Sheriff from Atlanta, who had previously failed in his quest after getting papers signed by William Sulzer.

The prisoner, Homer Reid of Atlanta, was arrested more than a week ago on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses in Atlanta.

NEW HAVEN BONDS VOTED AFTER FIGHT

Get Majority of Shares, Though Most Stockholders Present Assail Morgan Profits.

HOT ATTACK ON DIRECTORS

Check Them, Ex-Senator Bulkeley Urges—Farmer Exposes Waste —Elliott Promises Reform.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 22.—What had been expected to be a brief and perfunctory meeting of shareholders of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company for ratification of the new issue of $67,552,400 of twenty-year 6 per cent. convertible debenture bonds turned out this afternoon to be the most largely attended and most turbulent session of stockholders of the company ever held.

The special meeting was called to order at 12 o'clock and ended at 3:30. The new bond issue was authorized by a vote of 912,754 shares to 6,354, more than a third of the affirmative ballots having been cast by the Boston Protective Committee, but the sentiment of most of the shareholders present, judging by the voiced protests, was strongly against the terms of the financing. J. P. Morgan & Co. were censured vigorously by several speakers.

By noon every chair in the meeting room was occupied, and the crowd began to fill the aisles. Stockholders soon were standing several rows deep in the hall, whence came cries of "Louder!" as the speakers wrangled with the Chairman. President C. S. Mellen, whose term expires next week, was not present to hear his road criticised. Charles F. Brooker of Ansonia presided. Howard Elliott, who will succeed Mr. Mellen, was an interested listener with nineteen of the twenty-six other Directors. J. P. Morgan and William Rockefeller stayed in the room until the air became too heavy, when they joined the crowd of standees in the hall.

With the reading of the call A. Maxcy Hiller, a New Haven lawyer, who is prominent at these meetings, arose to ask if it were true that an underwriting syndicate had been formed, and, if so, what its commission was to be. He demanded to know why it was necessary for the New Haven to pay bankers for selling bonds to the stockholders. Mr. Brooker called on Mr. Morgan for a statement.

"There is an underwriting syndicate," said Mr. Morgan. "There is no secret about that nor about the commission, which is to be 2½ per cent. Of that, 2 per cent. goes to the syndicate and ½ per cent. to us as managers.

"When this issue was proposed, financial conditions were very bad, and they are not right yet. Under our contract with the New Haven, we are to get 1½ per cent. for underwriting securities when they are not offered to the stockholders. This offer falls outside the contract. The company must have $45,000,000 before the first of the year to pay off maturing notes. Owing to the bad money conditions then prevailing, I doubted if an issue as proposed by the Executive Committee could be sold. If all the bonds are taken by the stockholders, the 2½ per cent. still is payable."

Stockholders in all parts of the room jumped to their feet, but Patrick Murray got in the first word.

"I'd like a little information about dividends," he shouted. "The price is jobbed up and down, but mostly it goes down, and we get worried. I hear the rate is going to be cut again to 4, and I want to know if that's true."

"I am no prophet," said Mr. Brooker. "We all hope that the rate will not have to be reduced further." He then ordered a recess of 30 minutes to permit voting on the bond resolution.

A movement toward the doors had started, when Mr. Hiller demanded that he be permitted to offer a resolution. The Chairman ruled that the meeting was not in session. Several men cried out to have the meeting reconvened. Counsel to the railroad advised the chair that there was no meeting, and that nothing could be done for 30 minutes.

Mr. Hiller charged the management with enforcing gag rule to shut off criticism, and declined to withdraw the phrase at the request of another stockholder. The confusion was becoming general over the argument as to when a meeting was not a meeting, when John Davis, an octogenarian farmer from Stonington, pushed forward and began to speak.

"I have a farm in Stonington," he said. "I don't suppose you Directors know where that is, but it used to be the terminus of this road. My farm fronts on the railroad for a mile, and about a year ago one of the wrecks was staged there. All of the iron from the cars—about thirty tons—was thrown over my fence. I was plowing there a few days ago, when the horses fell over the iron and all of us fell into a ditch full of water.

"Jim Hill says iron is worth $1 a ton, and I think this is worth something to the New Haven. I tried to have it taken away, and was told to write to Mr. Dorr at Providence. I did, but he didn't answer, so I got on a train and went down there. The elevator was not running, and I had to climb to the top of the building. When I got there I said:

"'Did you get my letter?' 'Yes,' he said. 'Why didn't you answer it?' 'I did not read it,' he said.

"I told Mr. Dorr I wanted the company to take the iron away and sell it, because I had bought some New Haven stock.

"'I don't think it is worth buying,' he answered." When the laughter had subsided, Mr. Davis went on:

"'Neither do I,' I said, 'if the other officials are like you.'"

At that point ex-United States Senator Bulkeley, President of the Aetna Life Insurance Company of Hartford, who complained that his train had been held up to permit a special to pass, making him late, entered and demanded that the long resolution presented be read again. One of the Directors raised the point that the recess still was in force, but Mr. Bulkeley persisted, and the clerk read the resolution. At its conclusion, the ex-Senator began a speech in opposition to the bond issue.

"I don't think the Directors of this road are doing the right thing," he said. "If they persist in their course the stockholders should stop them. I know you have the votes on the table there to do anything you want, but you are asking us to approve your action and you ought to give us a chance to object."

The Hiller resolution, calling for a reduction in the board from twenty-seven to fifteen members; forbidding the management to solicit proxies; providing for the nomination of new Directors by the stockholders, and calling for much more information in the annual report, finally was read under protest and was applauded loudly. It was tabled immediately by the Chairman as not being germane to the purpose of the meeting.

Mr. Hiller said the Directors had no right to pay J. P. Morgan & Co. and the syndicate $1,700,000 for underwriting the bond issue.

"I want to see retrenchment on the New Haven," he explained. "A widow came to me the other day and asked me to speak for her at this meeting. She has had to take her daughter out of college because of the cut in the dividend.

"I loved J. P. Morgan. If he had lived we would not be in this hole now. I am a plain Connecticut Yankee, and don't understand Wall Street's ways. They tell me Mellen got $60,000 a year and that Elliott is to get $100,000, and that we are to have a high-salaried President besides Elliott."

"I am only a small stockholder," said W. T. Gardiner, "but all of the money I have is in New Haven, and I came up from New York to see if I was to be protected."

Benjamin Silverthaw, another familiar figure at New Haven meetings, arose in defense of the Directors.

"I honor J. Pierpont Morgan—" he said, when he was drowned out by other stockholders demanding that Mr. Bulkeley be permitted to finish.

Ex-Senator Bulkeley said that the new bonds were quoted on the Curb at from 4 to 6 points premium before the underwriting terms were arranged. He offered a resolution that it was the sentiment of the stockholders that hereafter the board should make no underwriting agreements. At the request of T. DeWitt Cuyler, the resolution was withdrawn on condition that it be printed among the minutes.

Mr. Cuyler made a spirited defense of his fellow Directors. He asserted he was sure that only a small part of the new bonds would be taken by stockholders, and that the remainder would fall on the underwriters. He said the Pennsylvania, of which he also was a Director, had failed to sell equipment trusts, and had been compelled to deliver them to the underwriters, and that the last Pennsylvania stock offer at 120, had failed when offered to holders at twenty points below the market. He alleged that the contract was too favorable to the company, if anything.

"It has not been a question of credit in recent months," Mr. Cuyler continued. "It has been a question as to the physical existence of the money required by the railroads."

Mr. Elliott was introduced and was greeted with loud applause.

"On September 1 I shall come to New Haven and take off my coat," he said. "I shall perfect an organization if I do not find one in existence. There are many big details to be watched in the management of a railroad, as well as thousands of smaller ones of the nature described by Mr. Davis. The New Haven's locomotives run 120,000 miles a day—five times the distance around the earth.

"If we are to make a success, the 25,000 shareholders must work with the management in getting fair treatment from the authorities. It will be my aim to see that every dollar received by the New Haven is expended with the greatest prudence to safeguard your intrest. And at the next stockholders' meeting we shall have a room big enough for every one who attends."

At a Directors' meeting which followed the stockholders' session, J. H. Hustis, now Vice President of the Boston & Albany, was elected to a similar position with the New Haven. He will be promoted to be President with the election of Mr. Elliott to be Chairman.

D. H. Warner of Bridgeport resigned from the board, to be succeeded by W. Murray Crane of Dalton. Theodore N. Vail, President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, was made a member of the Executive Committee.

THAW IN A RAGE AT HIS LAWYERS

of trouble. I'm charged with helping an undesirable alien across the border, they say."

Thompson was asked to tell about his trip from Matteawan, but he refused. He said, however, that he would be able to make plenty of trouble for the Thaw lawyers if he told the full story.

"I'll do it, too," he said, "if something doesn't happen quick."

Thompson was told Thaw had said earlier in the day that he would be taken care of, and also of George Lauder Carnegie's assertion that the Thaw family would stand by all of the men who aided Thaw in escaping. He scoffed at all of these assertions.

When Thaw heard of what Thompson had said he treated the chauffeur with less consideration than he had in his earlier statement.

"What! That fellow over in the other cell?" he said, contemptuously. "Let him tell all he knows, and it won't be much. That's all I've got to say."

The Chauffeur in Court.

A man retained by the Thaw family to arouse sympathy for the fugitive also spoke lightly of Thompson.

"He's just a chauffeur," he said. "I knew him in New York, where he used to hang around Forty-third Street and Broadway and took a ride with him sometimes."

Thompson was arraigned earlier in the day before Magistrate Mulveney on the charge of aiding Thaw in entering Canada, and while he may not have received any money there certainly were enough lawyers around to look after his interests. They included Messrs. White, Shurtleff, and Frazer of Thaw's counsel.

Appearing against Thompson was E. Blake Robertson, Assistant Superintendent of Immigration, and his counsel, Firmen Campbell. On request of Mr. Campbell the hearing was postponed to next Friday, so that documents to prove that Thaw was insane and therefore an undesirable person, could be brought on from New York State. The production of these papers, it is believed, may have an important bearing on Thaw's case.

Counsel for Thaw asserted to-day that there surely would be a long legal fight in Canada, and that it would be many a day before Thaw was deported, if he ever was deported. These lawyers seem determined to find some loophole in the immigration law which will prevent the deportation of Thaw.

District Attorney Conger of Dutchess County and Deputy Attorney General Franklin Kennedy, who are fighting to have Thaw deported, have about given up hope of having him delivered into their hands within the borders of New York State. Mr. Kennedy said to-day, however, that there was not the slightest doubt in his mind that Thaw eventually would be deported into one of the States.

Kennedy Still Hopeful.

"It is a perfectly simple matter," said Kennedy. "It doesn't make any difference where he is deported to. "We can get him on extradition once he is within the borders of the United States. It will be perfectly satisfactory to us if Thaw is deported into New Hampshire or some other State.

"We have been in communication with the officials of every State where there is the slightest chance of Thaw being deported, and we are perfectly satisfied with the replies we have received. The issue is clean-cut, and we are confident of the outcome."

It was more apparent than ever today that a well-organized campaign was in progress to arouse a public sympathy for Thaw and to spread abroad the impression that he was being persecuted by the New York State officials. Thaw had done his part by the cordial way in which he received the Canadian newspaper men, but even they came under his disfavor when he flew into a rage today. One attorney hinted to-day that the Thaw case might drag along for months, and that it was within the range of possibility that it eventually would come to the attention of the Privy Council, the last court of appeal from the Provinces.

Thaw's counsel is contending that Section 3 of Chapter 27 of the immigration laws, under which it had been proposed to deport Thaw, was not, in the spirit of the law, applicable to Thaw's case. It reads:

> No immigrant, passenger, or other person, unless he is a Canadian citizen, or has a Canadian domicile, shall be permitted to land in Canada, or, in case of having landed in or entered Canada, shall be permitted to remain therein, who belongs to any of the following classes, hereinafter called "prohibited" classes: A—Idiots, imbeciles, feeble-minded persons, epileptics, insane persons, and persons who have been insane within five years previous.

Law Has Been Tested.

This section, according to one of the barristers, was placed upon the statute books to keep out persons who might become a charge upon the country. It had been "stretched" once or twice, he said, to cover a case which might be looked upon as somewhat similar to Thaw's, but which was of no such interest to the world. In Thaw's case, he said, he believed the authorities would think things over very carefully before attempting to deport him under this act.

Section 18 says that there shall be no appeal from the Board of Inquiry before which the person seized under Section 3 must appear before being deported. Thaw's counsel again takes exception to this, saying that it is possible to take an appeal to the Minister of the Interior, and that one such case has been fought out and won, thus establishing a precedent for such action. Should the Minister uphold the Board there could be no appeal to the courts, but if sufficient sentiment could be aroused and influence brought to bear the Privy Council might step in. Even the appeal to the Minister of the Interior would give time to Thaw's counsel to prepare other schemes of saving him.

"It will be a long and bitter fight, anyway," said a member of Thaw's counsel to-day.

Dr. Joseph Emile Noel visited Thaw to-day at the request of the immigration authorities and examined the prisoner as to his sanity. Dr. Noel afterward agreed with the other local physicians that Thaw was sane. When Deputy Attorney General Kennedy heard of this he said that unless the physicians were experts in insanity it was not at all improbable that they had been deceived by Thaw's apparent grasp of the legal phases of the case. But others who heard of Dr. Noel's opinion insisted that it might have considerable weight when it reached the immigration officials.

According to the best information obtainable here the attempt to free Thaw will cost his family at least $75,000. It is said that J. N. Greenshields, chief counsel, is to receive not less than $25,000 for his part in the legal battle. W. K. McKeown, retained as private counsel for the Carnegie and Thaw families, is to receive a sum almost as large. Five other lawyers, all prominent in the profession in Canada, are associated with Messrs. Greenshields and McKeown, and will receive large fees.

ORDER IN THAW'S FAVOR.

Canada Probably Will Send Him Back the Way He Came.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 22.—The last instructions issued from the Immigration Department to its officers in Sherbrooke afford a gleam of hope for Thaw, inasmuch as the officers are not specifically directed to deport Thaw at the New York State boundary. The instructions are to carry out the regulations in regard to Thaw as they would be carried out in regard to any one else. That leaves the officials free to send Thaw back the way he came, the usual course, if they see fit.

The view of the immigration authorities seems to be that while Thaw is entitled to no favors, at the same time they are not called upon to go out of their way to prejudice his chances. It is believed here that Thaw will re-enter the United States at or near the point of his entry into Canada.

VERMONT READY FOR THAW.

But Governor Tells The Times He Won't Discuss the Case Now.

Special to The New York Times.

RUTLAND, Vt., Aug. 22.—If Harry K. Thaw is sent to Vermont from Canada it is very probable that the local authorities will lose no time in surrendering him to New York State officials, according to the views of Gov. Allen M. Fletcher. Vermont's Chief Executive fully indorsed the statement of Attorney General Rufus E. Brown, who said this State would honor a proper requisition from the State of New York.

The Attorney General confessed that it was not quite clear who had authority to make a New York requisition because of the tangled condition of affairs between Mr. Sulzer and Mr. Glynn.

A conference was held to-night at Burlington, Vt., between Attorney General Brown, State's Attorney C. R. Powell of Essex County, and ex-District Attorney Mack of Poughkeepsie, representing District Attorney Conger. It was announced afterward that in all probability Thaw would be brought into Vermont, and the conference was relative to the steps which would be taken to turn him over to the State of New York.

Gov. Fletcher said he did not know what assurances the Attorney General had received regarding the probability that Thaw would be sent to Vermont. Gov. Fletcher said: "I consider the statement made yesterday by Attorney General Brown to the point, and I imagine he will not change his attitude when he reaches Island Pond to-morrow morning."

Gov. Allen M. Fletcher of Vermont telegraphed to THE TIMES last night in response to an inquiry that unless called upon to act in the Thaw case he did not care to express an opinion upon it.

URGES EXTRADITION REFORM.

Law Journal of London Points a Moral in Harry Thaw's Case.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—A plea for a uniform international extradition law is made in The Law Journal, a legal weekly, in commenting on the question of the deportation of Harry K. Thaw from Canada.

"In the present conditions," The Law Journal says, "the most dangerous homicidal maniac is a free man when he crosses the borders of any British possession. The moral of the situation is that the Governments of the civilized powers should make a serious endeavor to formulate and adopt a uniform and logical system of international extradition to replace the present cumbrous system which is complicated by imperfect treaties."

BRITISH ENVOY POWERLESS.

Extradition Not a Diplomatic Matter, Says the Ambassador.

DUBLIN, N. H., Aug. 22.—Secretary Bryan's telegram notifying the British Ambassador, Sir Cecil Arthur Spring-Rice, that Harry K. Thaw was held in Canada, the subject of probable deportation proceedings was received at the Summer Embassy here to-day.

"If I find that it is a matter requiring the official attention of the Canadian authorities I shall simply forward the message of the Secretary of State to Ottawa," said the Ambassador. "Extradition is not a matter for the diplomatic department. All those things are arranged by treaty, and I should have no authority to make overtures to the Canadian officials.

"The usual course in such matters would be for the Washington officials to communicate with the Consul at Sherbrooke, Quebec, or call the matter directly to the attention of London."

Later the Ambassador said he must refer all further inquiries on the matter to Washington.

JEROME BACK IN THAW CASE.

Carmody Appoints Him to Lead the Fight to Capture Him.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 22.—Efforts to get Harry K. Thaw into this State engaged the attention of both Mr. Sulzer and Acting Gov. Glynn to-day. After consulting with Mr. Glynn, Attorney General Carmody appointed William Travers Jerome of New York as special Deputy Attorney General to represent the State in the Thaw proceedings. Mr. Jerome was District Attorney of New York County when Thaw was tried and represented the State in subsequent proceedings when Thaw tried to obtain freedom.

Acting Gov. Glynn sent a telegram to Gov. Fletcher of Vermont requesting that Thaw be arrested upon his arrival in Vermont, and held pending the receipt of a requisition from Mr. Glynn. The acting Governor said he had been informed that the Canadian immigration authorities would send Thaw to Vermont next week.

Messrs. Glynn and Sulzer received word from Secretary Bryan in reply to telegrams sent yesterday asking the cooperation of the Federal authorities in the Thaw matter. Mr. Bryan carefully avoided the controversy over the Governorship by addressing each by name and not by title. This was in accordance with the policy of the Wilson Administration announced yesterday when Chester C. Platt, Mr. Sulzer's secretary, telegraphed to Postmaster General Burleson to direct the Postmaster at Albany to deliver the mail addressed to the Governor and to the executive chamber to Mr. Sulzer. It was decided to avoid any action that might be construed as a recognition of either Mr. Sulzer or Mr. Glynn as the acting Governor.

Mr. Bryan's letter to Mr. Glynn said the Federal Government was powerless to act in the case under the extradition treaties with Great Britain, but that steps had been taken to bring the matter in a personal sense to the notice of the Canadian authorities for any voluntary action that appeared to be justified. Similar information was sent to Mr. Sulzer.

It is not the intention to send Mr. Jerome to Canada, where Deputy Attorney General Kennedy is directing the State's case, but to employ his services in procuring the extradition of Thaw from any State to which he may be deported from Canada. Attorney General Carmody said to-night he had reason to believe that Vermont would be the State to which the fugitive would be returned, and that the date would be next Wednesday. Neither Mr. Glynn nor Mr. Carmody would discuss the source of information on this point.

WATCH THAW HEREAFTER.

He Will Get Few Privileges if He Is Taken to Matteawan.

Special to The New York Times.

MATTEAWAN, Aug. 22.—If the authorities succeed in bringing Harry K. Thaw back to the State Hospital, he will not be allowed to have the privileges that ordinary patients enjoy. Dr. Kieb, the Superintendent, made this declaration to-day.

"Thaw did not have any extraordinary privileges when he escaped," said Dr. Kieb. "When I came here I found that he was enjoying privileges which I thought were an injustice to the other patients, and which had been granted to him by a previous administration. I at once cut off these privileges. If he comes back, many of the privileges granted ordinarily to other patients will be taken away from him."

The number of guards at the hospital has been increased and attendants now patrol both inside and outside the walls.

THAW CAR'S WILD RUN.

Machine Shows It Attained Speed of 80 Miles an Hour.

ROCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 22.—Automobile number 36,824 N. Y., in which Harry K. Thaw made his flight from Matteawan, attained at times a speed of eighty miles an hour, according to Richard R. Fox, who to-day took possession of the car for John Collins of New York, the owner. The machine was not badly damaged.

City Marshal Young, who had stood guard over the car since it was abandoned at a barn in Adam's Corner last Monday, surrendered it after he had examined a bundle of papers with which Fox was armed.

These included a message from Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty of New York, who said the police there had no objection to the return of the car. There was a request from Collins and a copy of the car's certificate of registration from the Automobile Bureau in New York.

TRACE BUTLER AND DUFFY.

Police Find They Were Around Town Boasting on Wednesday.

The local police so far have been unable to find any of the men who aided Harry Thaw in his escape from Matteawan. The detectives who had been working on the case reported yesterday that neither Duffy nor Butler was in New York City.

They found that on last Wednesday night Butler and Duffy visited several saloons in the vicinity of West Twenty-fourth Street, and spent considerable money, at the same time boasting of having foiled the police. They said they were going to Atlantic City. The detectives said they found that O'Keefe lived in the neighborhood of Third Avenue and Ninety-third Street and that the man had spent several days at the home of Butler previous to the escape of Thaw.

HAMMERSTEINS FILE ANSWERS TO SUIT

Metropolitan Opera House Under the Ban of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, They Say.

TOOK AWAY THEIR SINGERS

Oscar Hammerstein Maintains He Was Not Responsible When He Made Opera Agreement.

Oscar Hammerstein and his son Arthur filed their answers yesterday through their attorneys in the action brought against them by the Metropolitan Opera Company. Henry A. Wise, as attorney for Oscar Hammerstein, and Stanchfield & Levy, as attorneys for Arthur Hammerstein, filed the papers with Wise & Seligsberg of 15 William Street, who represent the Metropolitan interests. It was the last day the Hammersteins had to make their answer to the application for making permanent a temporary injunction which the Metropolitan people had obtained against their making operatic productions.

The principal point of the Hammerstein argument was that the Metropolitan Company was a trust engaged in interstate commerce in opera and came within the stricture of the Sherman law. Oscar Hammerstein contended that by offering higher prices for the artists he had engaged the Metropolitan people got them away from him and made it impossible for him to compete with them. He named in his answer, which was seventy-eight printed pages in length, Dalmores, Gilibert, Bonci, and others as singers who had been taken away from him by this means. His document said that he was finally reduced to the point where he was forced into signing the agreement which took him out of the field.

In regard to the signing of this agreement he maintained that the stress of meeting the competition had reduced him to a mental and physical wreck, and that he was not responsible for his actions. He said he had given Arthur Hammerstein power of attorney to sign for him, on the understanding that he was to have an interest in the merger. When he found his son had signed an agreement which did not allow him an interest, the answer continued, he was restrained from repudiating it on account of consideration for his son.

Arthur Hammerstein's answer occupied 300 pages of printed matter. It recited that he should not have been included in any restriction from engaging in opera because he was merely an assistant to his father; that he had been engaged in the building business up to 1906, when he went in with his father, and did not know any more about producing or conducting opera than what he learned while in association with him.

He contended that the check, which was the consideration for the Hammersteins abandoning the operatic field, was made out to Oscar Hammerstein and not to him, and that no subsequent payments included his name, which, he said, proved that he had received nothing for his action.

"The whole thing was started," Arthur Hammerstein said last night, "when the Metropolitan people refused to allow my father or myself to engage in producing opera in English. But they allowed the Aborns to do it, instead of my father, who could have made a wonderful thing out of it. The reason why I signed that agreement with the Metropolitan Company will be brought out at the trial."

A. H. EVANS OUT ON BAIL.

Sheriff Approves $1,500 Bond for Lawyer Arrested on Civil Order.

Sheriff Harburger approved yesterday morning a $1,500 bond for the release of Amos H. Evans, a lawyer, of 115 Broadway, arrested at midnight Thursday by Deputy Sheriff Jacob Bier. The civil order for Evans's arrest was obtained by Taylor, Livingston & Co., stock brokers, with offices in Wall Street, who are suing him for $1,249.64.

According to the complaint, Evans was a customer of the company and had a margin account with it. On July 28 Evans bought 300 shares of Union Pacific on margin at 150⅜. The shares dropped to 148, and the next day Evans gave an order to buy 300 more shares on margin, 200 when the ticker quoted them at 149¼ and 100 at 149⅜. The first day's margin deals, the brokers asserted, were on faith of a $1,000 draft which Evans turned over to them, and the second on faith of a $2,000 certified check, which, according to Sidney Wormser of the firm's Hotel Plaza branch, Evans said, he had in his pocket.

The brokers sold out Evans on July 30, two days after he started out on his margin ventures, and then tried to collect on his draft. According to Wormser, they were unable to do so, and they then demanded the certified check of which they said he had spoken, also fruitlessly. Their next step was to have him taken into custody on the civil order of arrest, accusing him of fraud.

I'M "INDEPENDENT"—FOSS.

Betrayed by Democrats, but Has Not Become a Republican.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—Gov. Foss to-day asserted that the Democratic Party had betrayed him and his principles, and that he was through with the Democratic leaders until they "got back to the people."

"I have taken no position," he said, "which warrants any one to draw a conclusion that I have absolutely entered the Republican Party. I could not go with the Republicans unless they changed to my position. I am satisfied that they have not so changed. I have never deceived the people as to my position. The politicians may have been deceived, but I have been true to the people.

"My logical position now is that of an independent."

The Governor refused to say whether he would run for re-election as an independent.

LUNATIC BLAMES THAW.

Former Inmate of Matteawan Held for Attack on a Merchant.

Special to The New York Times.

ALLENTOWN, Penn., Aug. 22.—It was learned here to-day that William H. Gray, who, on Tuesday attacked Frank Musselman, a jeweler, in his store, formerly was an inmate in the asylum at Matteawan, where he was sent after he killed his mother.

The Syracuse, N. Y., police sent Gray's record and photograph to the local police to-day. The record sets forth that on Feb. 3, 1908, when Gray was 18 years old, he was arrested at Syracuse for strangling his mother to death. He was committed to Matteawan on May 26 of that year, and discharged in June a year ago. Gray's father for years was an engineer on the New York Central Railroad.

At Matteawan, Gray knew Harry Thaw, and the local police believe that the escape of Thaw worked on Gray's mind. He entered the store in the guise of a customer, and as Mr. Musselman was showing some clocks to him, Gray sneaked behind the jeweler and hit him with a large bronze lion.

When Gray was searched this note was found in his pocket:

"In case my plan fails, I shall take my life. Thaw is the one to hold for it. He alone is responsible for my downfall. He hired me, and since that time has refused and failed to pay me. He is guilty. Please inform my wife at Saegersville."

Ragpickers Win Strike.

The rag pickers' strike, which was called three weeks ago and involved 2,000 persons, was settled yesterday, after a conference between a committee of the Rag Pickers and Clip Sorters' Union and representatives of the employers. The rag pickers obtain a fifty-four-hour week, a 10 per cent. increase in wages, and recognition of their union.

Warm Reception for Wilson.

It is intended that the President shall have an enthusiastic reception when he appears in the House, and that the enthusiasm shall not be permitted to wane in the course of his reading of the message. Congressmen generally, without regard to party, are eager to show the President that his efforts for peace have the support of the National Legislature, and their cordial attitude toward those efforts will be intended as an emphatic answer to the assertions of President Huerta that he was satisfied from advices received by him from Washington that President Wilson's Mexican policy, particularly his refusal to recognize the Huerta Government, was not popular in Congress nor among the people

It was said to-day by persons who had discussed the Mexican situation with President Wilson in the last twenty-four hours that it was his intention to consult members of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate and probably members of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House before the message should be laid before Congress with the text of the American peace proposals to the Mexican Government and that Government's response.

When the consultation would be held was not indicated. The impression was obtained, however, that the President intended to call to the White House all the members of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, read his message to them, and discuss with them the advisability of placing it before Congress and the country.

Mr. Lind has had two personal interviews with Minister Gamboa since Monday night, when President Huerta and Mr. Lind were closeted for two hours in the National Palace and discussed President Wilson's programme for the restoration of normal conditions in Mexico.

Reports of those interviews have been received by telegraph from Mr. Lind. They were addressed to Secretary Bryan and have been laid before President Wilson.

Keeping the Nations Informed.

Although summaries of the communications concerning Mr. Lind's mission have been telegraphed to American embassies and legations abroad to be laid before foreign Governments, the United States has not gone to the extreme of asking the powers to bring the force of their moral influence to bear on Gen. Huerta with the idea of having him accept the proposals made by Mr. Lind in behalf of President Wilson. There have been rumors that the President would seek foreign aid of that character, but it is apparent that should he do so his course would meet criticism and opposition from Senators and Representatives of both parties.

That criticism would be based on the ground that an invitation to Europe to join the United States in attempting to restore normal conditions in Mexico through diplomatic means would be a part abandonment of the principle enunciated by President Monroe.

It is admitted this Government would not be displeased if European Governments should make known voluntarily to President Huerta that they believe he should show an inclination to cooperate with Washington. There seems to be a feeling that some of the great powers will adopt that course.

MEXICO SEES INTERVENTION.

Capital Believes That We Are Preparing to Take That Course.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 22.—Strong belief prevails here to-day that the United States Government is preparing for intervention in the affairs of this republic, and it is the unanimous opinion that the Penrose resolution authorizing President Wilson to send troops into Mexico means war.

Many Americans are preparing to leave the country. Prominent citizens of the United States living in this capital say that if the Washington Administration is determined not to recognize the Huerta Government, possibly the sooner intervention comes the better for the country and all concerned.

El Pais heads seven columns of political news with the statement that intervention is the plan of the American Government. That newspaper takes as indications of such intention on the part of Washington the appropriation of $100,000 to remove Americans from Mexico and similar proposed expenditures by the Wilson Administration.

It is announced by El Pais that all military movements in the United States have been followed closely by its special correspondent.

Lind and Huerta Reticent.

Ex-Gov. John Lind of Minnesota, President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico City, declined to be interviewed to-night. He refused even to receive a visit from any newspaper correspondent. It is believed that he has received instructions from Washington to pursue that course.

Provisional President Huerta said the situation was too delicate for him to make a statement in connection with Senator Penrose's resolution in the United States Senate looking to the policing of this republic by American soldiers, particularly as the resolution so far merely was tentative.

The situation is regarded as dangerous and almost critical. Little else is discussed in public places.

Americans and Mexicans alike believed that as soon as the discussion of Mexico's affairs on the floor of the United States Senate ended, something would be done to do away with the uncertainty in regard to the intentions of the Wilson Administration.

Uncertainty Blocks Business.

Paralysis of business has resulted from the tension due to the uncertainty caused by the wavering policy of the Washington Administration.

The attitude of Senator Penrose in comparing the Mexican situation with that in Nicaragua has resulted in much feeling among the masses in this city. It is regarded by politicians and foreigners as an indication of lack of knowledge of conditions existing in Mexico on the part of the American Senate.

Although the Mexican Senate is not in regular session, it is meeting informally to discuss the international situation. All its sessions are secret, but it is believed that the Senators have indorsed the stand taken by President Huerta in rejecting the peace proposals sent to him by President Wilson through ex-Gov. Lind.

BRYAN WARNS MEXICANS.

Tells Them Americans in Their Country Must Have Safety.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Curt warning to both the Huerta and Constitutionalist commanders in La Boquilla, Chihuahua, Mexico, that the United States would hold them responsible personally for any violence against Americans by "any one claiming civil or military authority" was sent to-day by Secretary Bryan through American Consul Letcher in Chihuahua City.

Secretary Bryan instructed Mr. Letcher to dispatch his message to La Boquilla by courier and obtain answers. His action was in response to a request by Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania for action to protect S. C. Hulse and other Americans at the plant of the Mexican Northern Power and Irrigation Company. Mr. Bryan's telegram follows:

> Information having been received by this Government that threats of violence and death have been made against Fuller, Hulse, and others at La Boquilla, this Government deems it proper to say that if any violence is visited upon any American citizen there or elsewhere by any one claiming civil or military authority the United States will hold personally responsible the perpetrators thereof.
>
> Courier should ascertain condition of all foreigners at La Boquilla and report with reply the officer in charge makes to this Government's message.

The reference to the protection of Americans "elsewhere" was taken as indicative of the attitude of the United States in the protection of Americans wherever their safety might be threatened.

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Aug. 22.—W. B. Fuller, chief engineer of the Mexican Northern Power and Irrigation Company, who escaped from La Boquilla, Chihuahua, Mexico, was here yesterday. He told a tale of great hardship in getting from La Boquilla to the American line. He left here for New York.

MEXICANS KILL AMERICAN.

Edward Hayes of Buffalo Slain, Refugees Say, by Federals.

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 22.—Edward Hayes of Buffalo, timekeeper for the Madera Lumber Company, was murdered by Mexican Federals under Francisco Cordova in Madera when they took the town from Pancho Villa's rebels last week, according to Americans arriving here to-day. The Federals also killed an American negro because he tried to prevent them from taking the company horses from the corral.

BUFFALO, Aug. 2.—Edward Hayes, 20 years old, a bookkeeper, left here for Mexico last June. His father, Edward Hayes, Sr., of Pascal Street, Buffalo, has not heard from him since then, but is inclined to think the murdered man is his son. Hayes worked for a bookmaker at Juarez race track last Winter and after the racing season closed obtained employment as a bookkeeper with an American firm. He visited home last June for a short time.

NINE FIGHTS NEAR CAPITAL.

All in One Day, and Huerta Says His Troops Won Them.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 22.—Nine fights between the Federals and Constitutionalists are reported to have occurred in the last twenty-four hours. All are recorded as Federal victories. According to the official reports, the military situation throughout the republic is improved greatly. The rebels are said to be generally disheartened, and on the defensive in all quarters.

These official reports practically are the only source of information on which news for local readers is based. The other side of the story rarely reaches the capital because of interrupted communication and censorship of dispatches at points outside the city. In three of the fights reported, 175 rebels are said to have been killed, whereas the Federal loss is given as eight.

The situation about Torreon is admitted to be slightly worse. It is understood the rebels control much of the country there, and that 1,000 more are marching southward from Cuatro Cienegas, Coahuila. Eastward from Cuatro Cienegas Gen. Pena's headquarters at Monclova has reported a part of his men to be cut off by the rebels.

Admissions are made that the rebels are gaining headway in the State of Sinaloa.

Since the followers of Zapata invaded the Federal District Gen. Juvencio Robles has destroyed seven towns within a few miles of the capital, including Ajurco. Only the churches were left standing. Three more towns were ordered destroyed to-day

El Pais reported to-day that there was a greatly increased rebel movement in the State of Jalisco. The State of Zacatecas admittedly is infested by rebels.

The advisability of calling an extra session of Congress to deal with the situation growing out of the representations of President Wilson to President Huerta was discussed to-day by the Permanent Committee of Congress. A proposed amendment to a resolution to call an extra session precipitated a debate. The amendment favored trying for sedtion the introducers of the resolution.

Another amendment providing that the President report to the committee the nature of the negotiations with the United States Government was offered by Manuel Malo Juvera. Failure to pass that resolution under a suspension of the rules resulted in its being referred to a committee, which will be unable to report before next Friday's session, and since the regular session of Congress will begin Sept. 15 the Deputies believe that the calling of a special session is improbable.

SAYS WILSON IS BEING USED.

London Saturday Review Assails His Policy Toward Huerta.

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 23.—The Saturday Review, in a leading article today, savagely attacks President Wilson's Mexican policy. It says President Wilson "unconsciously is playing the game of those in the United States who want control of Mexican politics in order to fill their own pockets."

Concluding, the article says:

"If he wishes to plunge his own country into a war that would last for years, drive Mexico back into anarchy and play the game of his own political enemies, he will continue his present policy and try to break down the Huerta régime. On the other side is the alternative of accepting a trifling reverse of policy. Recognizing facts, he will have to adopt one policy or the other. Neither may be pleasant, but there can be no doubt which one is recommended by humanity and common sense."

DU PONT FOR RECOGNITION.

The only solution of the Mexican situation lies in the recognition of the Huerta administration by the United States Government, according to A. Francis du Pont, auditor of the foreign affairs of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company of Wilmington, Del., who arrived in New York yesterday on the Ward Line steamer City of Mexico. Mr. du Pont made a hasty departure from Mexico City on Aug. 13 with scores of other Americans, who were alarmed by a sudden engagement between a band of Zapatistas and troops of the Huerta Government just outside the city.

It is the belief of Mr. du Pont that if the United States will recognize Huerta he will resign, provided he is assured of a nomination for the Presidency of Mexico. Otherwise, he thinks Huerta cannot be forced to relinquish his place.

In Mexico Mr. du Pont was informed that Huerta had the support not only of the majority of Mexicans but also of American citizens there. He suggested that should the United States recognize Huerta New York bankers safely could supply the funds necessary to liquidate the French loan. In that event, he said, Mexico would become a wonderful field for investment.

The American colony in Mexico, according to Mr. du Pont, is bitterly sore over the action of the Wilson Administration, and most of its members have begun to feel that they will be forced to leave that country unless Huerta is recognized. Mr. du Pont asserted that he believed President Wilson's envoy, John Lind, had made no headway because the Mexican people and the American colony felt he had no knowledge of the situation.

LIND A PUZZLE TO MEXICO.

Dr. Cosio Says His Countrymen Deplore America's Stand.

Dr. Joaquin B. Cosio, Medical Inspector of the Public Schools of the City of Mexico, who arrived in New York yesterday on the Ward liner Mexico, said that when he left the Mexican capital the people, as a general rule, were greatly puzzled as to the exact nature of John Lind's mission. He also said the Mexicans felt deeply the refusal of this Government to recognize the Huerta Government.

The doctor, who is accompanied by Señora Cosio, is on his way to Buffalo as the Mexican Delegate to the International Congress on School Hygiene.

TRANSATLANTIC WIRELESS AND CABLE DISPATCHES TO THE TIMES

MARCONI ASSAILS BRITISH UNFAIRNESS

Telling of Coming Radio Developments, He Denounces Political Attacks on Company.

WIRELESS 'PHONES AT SEA

Isaacs Foresees Passengers Talking to Friends on Shore—Complete System with South America Soon.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—William Marconi, addressing the annual meeting of shareholders of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company to-day, said that when he addressed them last year in reference to the imperial wireless contract he little thought that they were on the eve of a campaign of a nature which he thought was never before experienced by any private enterprise. He said he would not for a moment have believed that the spirit of fair play in England could have reached so low an ebb, nor would he have believed that for such considerations, which had obtained in connection with the whole campaign, a British industry such as theirs should have been so imperiled. It should not be so easily forgotten, he went on, that while the company was carrying on a remunerative business it was also accomplishing work of the highest importance for civilization. He could not learn of an instance where Parliament ever before had had recourse to the sledge-hammer power which it possessed of placing a private enterprise in such a position that its only alternative to making further concessions was the imperiling of its reputation and business throughout the world.

The company's Managing Director, Godfrey Isaacs, he proceeded, had been subjected to a great number of most ungenerous insinuations, which never could have been made by any one personally acquainted with him, and which could not be and were not believed by any one who knew him or who had worked with him. The shareholders cheered this tribute.

But to him it would appear that in England more than in most other countries, when politics were introduced, an atmosphere prevailed wherein there would seem to be let loose some pernicious element destructive of the equilibrium of an otherwise well-balanced mind. Mr. Marconi thought that Mr. Isaacs deserved the most sincere congratulations on having carried on the business so successfully when so much of his time was taken up in defending the interests of the company, and even in protecting his own honor and reputation.

Mr. Marconi announced that wireless telegraphy would soon be fully established between the United States and the South American republics. A fifty-year concession, he said, had been granted by the Brazilian Government, which would enable the company to inaugurate wireless communication between that country and New York and elsewhere in the United States. This, he added, would be followed by a network of communication between South America, the United States, and Europe.

Without desiring to belittle attempts made by others to establish communication by means of wireless telegraphy across the Atlantic, Mr. Marconi wished to point out that no other system had succeeded in establishing a wireless service of any kind across the Atlantic.

Godfrey Isaacs, who seconded the adoption of the report, said it would be idle to pretend that the troubles which they had gone through during the last year had not been of an extremely painful nature to him. Cries of "Shame!" followed this remark. All manner of suggestions and insinuations in a most sinister nature, he said, had been leveled at him, and it had required the assistance, support, confidence, loyalty, and encouragement which he had received to face the situation, which had become well-nigh unbearable.

Mr. Isaacs ventured the prophecy that the date was not far distant when, with the morning cup of tea on board ship, passengers might hear the ring of a wireless telephone and talk to friends on shore of the sort of night they had passed, and express the disposition they felt toward their breakfast.

Various statements, added Mr. Isaacs, had appeared in the papers regarding the progress of wireless telephony. Whatever his hearers had read of experiments being made elsewhere in that direction, the Marconi Company, he said, had done more, but until the company was prepared to show exactly what definite results in a practical way could be obtained from wireless telephony he would remain silent. When Mr. Isaacs went on to say that the company would, perhaps at an early date, be able to turn wireless telephony to practical commercial account, the shareholders cheered enthusiastically.

In view of Mr. Isaacs's statement, it is interesting to note that the company has acquired the rights of what Mr. Marconi himself regards as the most perfect automatic telephone—the Betulander system—which will be in full operation in the Marconi house shortly.

NO CHANGES IN RULES.

International Federation Takes No Definite Action at Berlin.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—The Rules Committee of the International Athletic Federation, which has been endeavoring to formulate a programme and rules for international athletic competition, adjourned this evening without having been able to reach a decision.

The Federation to-day elected an Executive Council with J. S. Edstrom, Vice President of the Swedish Olympic Committee, as President, and Kristian Hellstroem, Secretary of the Swedish Olympic Committee, as Secretary. James E. Sullivan, Secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States; Carl Diem, President of the German Amateur Athletic Union; M. Stankovitz, representing Hungary; M. Roy, representing France, and Mr. Fisher, representing England, were chosen members of the council.

President Edstrom appointed a committee to compile the world's records in track and field athletics. Mr. Sullivan was made Chairman of the committee. Colonel Robert M. Thompson of New York, to-night entertained the delegates at dinner.

The Committee on the Definition of an Amateur to-day drafted rules making an athlete who accepts a pecuniary reward in any branch of sport a professional in all its branches, but allowing, except in track and field sports, amateurs and professionals to compete together for non-money prizes if the rules of the country in which the meet is held permit. The rule classifies all pecuniarily rewarded teachers, trainers, and coaches as professionals, though individual countries may except from this classification a representative or employe of a Government, an army, or an educational establishment who coaches as an incident to his main vocation.

BATTLESHIP SINKS GUNBOAT

All the Crew Rescued After a Collision During Swedish Manoeuvres.

MALMO, Sweden, Aug. 22.—The Swedish battleship Oden to-day struck and sank the Swedish gunboat Urd, during fleet manoeuvres in the Sound. The crew of the gunboat was saved.

The collision occurred to the westward of the Swedish Island of Hven, which lies about eight miles south of Elsinore. The Urd had a displacement of 597 tons. The Oden has a displacement of 3,434 tons.

LUSITANIA REPAIRED SAILS IN NEW TEST

Equipped with New Propellers, the Cunarder Is Expected to Break Transatlantic Record.

HALDANE ON WAY HERE

England's Lord High Chancellor Leaves the Great Seal in Charge of a Special Commission.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—Lord Haldane, the first Lord High Chancellor to leave England since Wolseley, who would probably have lost his head in consequence had he not conveniently died a natural death, sailed for America to-day on the Lusitania to deliver an address before the American Bar Association at the annual meeting in Montreal.

Accompanying him are his sister, Miss Elizabeth Sanderson Haldane, who keeps house for him, and Sir Kenneth Muir Mackenzie, Permanent Principal Secretary to the Chancellor's office since 1880.

During Lord Haldane's absence the great seal will be in charge of a special commission of three.

The party occupies the royal suite on the Lusitania, which is all spick and span after her absence from the service since the accident to a propellor early in the year.

Extensive mechanical changes, some of a novel character, have been made during the Cunarder's stay in the Graving dock, and there are some expectations that she will develop a remarkable burst of speed with her new propellors, if not on this first trip, at least on a later trip.

Lord Haldane is looking forward with keen anticipation to a pleasant experience. He has never crossed the Atlantic, and ocean travel is a novelty to him.

The belief has been expressed by the Captain of the Lusitania and her engineers that the steamship, which has been laid up since January to have her four turbines rebladed and new propellers fitted, will now prove the fastest ship afloat.

The engineers, after a number of consultations, decided that the liner's propellers would get a better grip on the water if they turned outward, as do the Mauretania's, instead of inward, as they were arranged formerly. Various propellers had previously been tried in order to get the maximum speed with the minimum vibration.

The loss in passenger traffic, mails, and express freight to the Cunard Line in the eight months during which the Lusitania has been laid off will amount, it is said, to $575,000, and the cost of the reblading, involving the fixing of over 1,000,000 new blades, may run into $500,000.

The reblading of the Lusitania's turbines has cost more than usual on account of the speeding-up of the work, involving the employment of 600 men night and day at Liverpool. Fully two months were lost at the beginning, while the engineers were deciding what to do—that is, whether it would be better simply to cut off the broken blades on the turbines and replace them with new ones, or to reblade the turbines entirely, as has been done. Part of the work was given out to Cammell, Laird & Co. and Parsons & Co. Great secrecy was observed by the Cunard officials, and no one was allowed on board the ship except the employes.

The Cunard Line hopes to have the new 50,000-ton liner Aquitania ready to enter the Atlantic service next April. She will replace the old-time, record-breaker Campania. There will be no attempt to make the Aquitania as fast as the Mauretania and Lusitania. She will have an average speed of twenty-three knots.

CALLS BEBEL LETTER BOGUS

German Socialist Organ Denies Leader Criticised Kaiser's Army.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—The Vorwaerts, the organ of the German Social Democratic Party, characterizes as "a plain audacious swindle" the letter which appeared in The London Pall Mall Gazette on Thursday purporting to have been written by August Bebel, the German Socialist leader, just before his death at Zurich last week. The non-Socialist newspapers, including even monarchical organs, also expressed the belief that the letter was a forgery.

The letter said that the German Emperor had seen, during the Balkan war, that his army had completely gone to pieces; that the officers were incapable of commanding and the material absolutely impossible, and that if France had wished to attack Germany she probably would have been successful, for Germany was not strong enough at the frontier. It added that the Emperor knew that the military element from Germany which helped the Turks was to blame for the Ottoman defeat.

WE BUY BRITISH TORPEDOES

Government Orders a Large Number of the Whitehead Type.

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 23.—The Standard says to-day that the United States Government has given a large order for improved Whitehead torpedoes.

The torpedoes are similar to those just supplied to the new Japanese cruiser Kongo, with a range of from 10,000 to 12,000 yards at a speed averaging forty-eight knots an hour.

FORCE TO END EMIGRATION.

Galician Governor Orders Arrest of All Seeking to Leave Country.

VIENNA, Aug. 22.—The Governor of Galicia, a crown land of Austria-Hungary, has declared his determination to stop the emigration of adults from his country to the United States and Canada.

To-day he ordered the police to arrest all male persons between the ages of 18 and 36, and liable for military service, who attempted to leave the country, and send them to their homes.

BRITISH LINES TO EXHIBIT.

Some Manufacturers Also to Participate in Panama Fair.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 23.—Referring to the Hamburg-American Line's action regarding the Panama Exhibition, The London Times says:

"It is perhaps unfortunate that the question of exhibiting should come to the front at a time when many leading British shipowners are on a holiday, but it is fully certain that, with or without Government support, such lines as the Royal Mail and the Pacific have their own exhibits, and many British manufacturers will also try to put the occasion to good use.

"There is general recognition of the fact that, whether or not the opening of the Panama Canal is going to be a real benefit to this country, the event will mean the development of much of the Pacific Coast of North America, including British Columbia, and of the South American Coast.

"The present value of British trade with North and South America is so immense, and is likely to become so much greater, that there is undoubtedly a desire for official participation in the exhibition."

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—The Hansa Bund, which has a membership of men in commercial and industrial walks of life, exceeding 325,000, issued a declaration today in favor of German participation in the Panama-Pacific exposition. It asserts that letters received by it show that in leading business circles the opinion is general that German participation would bring actual benefits to Germany.

"The idea of participation, at least by certain especially interested industries, is plainly gaining ground," the statement says, "and, therefore, even if the Government canot participate officially, it is to be expected that our officials will further in every way the efforts of those industries desiring to participate, and that our consular representatives in America will co-operate fittingly. The Hansa Bund will make representations to this end to the suitable Government departments."

TRADES WIFE FOR STAMPS.

Persian Pays Deserting Spouse for Collection She Took.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Murza Hadi, a Persian and an ardent stamp collector, living in Paris, informed the police the other day that his wife had stolen his collection, which he valued at $12,000, and had sold it for $4,000 to a dealer. His wife, he said, had disappeared, and he suspected that she had gone to Germany.

Yesterday, however, Mme. Hadi surrendered to the Paris police. She said she had hidden the stamps in Brussels. She had returned, as she was unable to bear being parted from her two children any longer.

M. Hadi said he married his wife in Persia. They were afterward divorced by Persian procedure. He added that he would much rather have found his stamp collection again than his wife; but since she said she had concealed the stamps, he would give her the children and $4,000 if she would produce the missing collection.

This arrangement was quickly accepted by Mme. Hadi and duly registered by the Magistrate.

NO SLIGHT TO DUCHESS.

Marlborough's Wife Lightly Viewed Non-Admission to Reception.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—It was learned to-day on the highest authority that a published report that the Duchess of Marlborough could not obtain admittance to the American Ambassador's Fourth of July reception at Claridge's Hotel was considerably exaggerated.

The Duchess arrived at the hotel without her ticket of invitation, and, the production of the ticket being required under the regulations for the reception, the attendants refused to admit her. The Duchess thereupon drove on to keep another appointment. She did not, as stated, appeal to one of the embassy Secretaries.

The incident is not regarded here as any more serious than it deserves to be treated.

Pope Receives Natchez Bishop.

ROME, Aug. 22.—Pope Pius to-day received in private audience John Edward Gunn, Bishop of Natchez, who was greeted most cordially.

OPPOSE FORTS AT CANAL.

Peace Delegates Applaud Mrs. Sewall, but Shy at Resolution.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 22.—"Two millions of women in America protest against the fortification of the Panama Canal," was the assertion made to-day at the fourth plenary sitting of the tewentieth Universal Peace Congress by Mrs. May Wright Sewall of Indianapolis. To this remark, which drew a round of applause from the pacifists assembled in the Knights' Hall, the speaker added: "The canal ought to be free for the whole world, and should be adorned with a statue of peace at its entrances."

Encouraged by the good will with which Mrs. Sewall's sentiments were greeted, Dr. William F. Slocum of Colorado Springs, a member of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, asked the Congress to pass a resolution requesting the United States Government not to fortify the waterway. The congress, however, regarded the proposal as a novelty which better be left for action by a future peace congress:

Prof. Feldman of New York obtained the passage of a resolution denouncing war loans, and a resolution introduced by Prof. Slayden of Washington, putting the congress on record as opposed to the construction of military airships, was also adopted.

Victor Hugo Duras of New York presented on behalf of the Mayor of San Francisco an invitation to hold the congress in 1915 at San Francisco.

Henri La Fontaine, President of the International Peace Bureau at Berne, called the attention of the congress to current reports of the probability that The Hague Peace Conference might not be held in 1915 as arranged. A resolution was thereupon adopted urging the delegates, especially those representing the United States and the Netherlands, to exert pressure on their respective Governments against the abandonment of the conference.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Secretary Bryan's peace plan will be laid before the conference of the Interparliamentary Union at The Hague Sept. 1 by Senator Burton of Ohio, who will sail from New York to-morrow as one of the American members. He is also one of seven members of a special committee, representing Russia, Germany, Austria, France, Belgium, Greece, and the United States, charged with planning a permanent Hague court.

Austrian Admiral Dies of Injury.

POLA, Austria, Aug. 22.—Admiral Count von Wellenburg of the Austrian Navy died to-day as the result of injuries received yesterday by the bursting of the breech block of a 30.5-centimeter gun, which was being tested. Both of the Admiral's legs were so badly mangled that amputation was necessary. Admiral von Wellenburg was President of the Naval Technical Commission.

MRS. JAMES TO MARRY.

Friend of King Edward Engaged to Major J. C. Brinton.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—An engagement of special interest to society, announced in The Morning Post, is that of Mrs. William James of West Dean and Major J. C. Brinton.

Major Brinton is one of the most popular men in London society, while Mrs. James and her late husband were great friends of King Edward.

CONSUL SUED IN CHINA DEAL

J. C. McNally Withheld $10,995 in Land Sale, Owner Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—In a suit filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to-day the allegation was made that James C. McNally of Pittsburgh, Penn., now United States Consul at Tsingtau, China, withheld $10,995 from the proceeds of a land sale at Nanking, China, where Mr. McNally formerly served as Consul, when acting as an intermediary between the Chinese Government and J. F. Newman of Shanghai, an American citizen.

The bill of complaint filed in behalf of Newman says that in 1908 he began negotiations with the Chinese Government for the sale of two acres of land at Nanking, and that Consul McNally demanded that the negotiations should be conducted through him, as the Chinese Government could not deal with American citizens except through the American Consul.

It was alleged that at Mr. McNally's suggestion Mr. Newman agreed to sell the property for $15,000, and that this amount was paid to him. The complainant says that later on he learned that Consul McNally received $26,990 for the land, and the suit is to recover the balance of the amount he alleges the Chinese Government paid to Mr. McNally.

Two American bonding companies, sureties on Mr. McNally's official bond, are made co-defendants.

Fire Destroys Chelsea Residence of New York Lawyer.

Special to The New York Times.

BEACON, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Early tonight fire consumed the home of Francis Pollock, a New York lawyer, at Chelsea, a few miles north of here on the bank of the Hudson. Mr. Pollock, who is a bachelor, resided at the home with his sister, Mrs. Mary Mahoney. Both were out of the house, as were the servants, when the fire started.

The loss is estimated at $15,000.

GREAT FLOOD IN ARGENTINA.

Many in Southern Provinces Homeless—Railroad Service Stopped.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 22.—Heavy rains have caused a serious flood in the southern provinces of Argentina.

Crops have been seriously damaged by the downpour.

The train service on some lines of railroads has been suspended.

Many families have been driven from their homes by the rising waters.

AIRMAN DROPPED A MILE.

German Lieutenant's Aeroplane Collapsed High in Air.

HALBERSTADT, Prussian Saxony, Aug. 22.—Lieut. Schmidt of the 148th Infantry and attached to the Army Aviation Corps, met death here to-day by a fall from almost a mile in air.

The Lieutenant was completing an aeroplane flight to and from Goslar, thirty miles west of Halberstadt, and had begun a spiral descent. While the aeroplane was at a height of about 5,000 feet one of the wings collapsed, and the machine plunged to the ground.

GIANTS DEFEAT CUBS AGAIN--YANKEES SPLIT EVEN--BROOKLYN LOSES--TURF--SHAWNEE GOLF

TESREAU SUBDUES GREAT ZIMMERMAN

Cubs' Best Batsman Fails Twice When Bases Are Crowded—Giants Win, 8 to 1.

Jeff Tesreau, the owner of the biggest appetite in the major leagues, inflicted his Herculean frame upon the withered Chicago Cubs at the Polo Grounds yesterday and allowed them as many as five hits and one stingy tally. The Giants assumed another victory by a score, which was all of 8 to 1.

Jeff was especially good yesterday in the vicinity of his right arm. The ball spun from his hand toward the Cub batsman with unusual smoothness, because Jeff had it covered with plenty of slippery elm. Jeff was so pleased with his day's work that last night he turned his appetite loose on two extra porterhouse steaks and a watermelon and a half.

Well might Tesreau be pleased, for twice, with the bases loaded, Heinie Zimmerman came to the bat on the verge of eruption. Both times Jeff made the great Zim roll over and play dead. In the first inning, with the bases crowded and no one out, Zim struck out. After that Zim meant no good by Jeff. In the seventh the bases were again filled with two down, and this time Zimmerman hoisted an inoffensive fly to Herzog.

Zimmerman and Evers both threatened open warfare on Umpire Char'ey Rigler. Zimmerman said enough to exile him for a month, but Rigler was patient and allowed Heinie to talk himself into silence. Evers was warned a couple of times, but Rigler knows as well as anybody else that the Cub firecracker does not believe that he is the best umpire in the world.

After Larry Cheney had relieved himself of several bases on balls, a few hits, and had winged two batsmen, Manager Evers chased him from the lot and called upon Jim Vaughn, a former resident, to see if he could do anything against the Giants. Vaughn was just as natural as ever, and had his usual bad inning, although he didn't give as many bases on balls as he will probably do a little later on.

Larry McLean lasted throughout the game, but this was chiefly because he wasn't asked to run beyond first base. Roger Bresnahan has a highly responsible and important job with the Cubs. Every day he has to put on that old blue uniform and go out on the third base coaching line for at least one inning. It is also his duty to keep quiet when Johnny Evers or Heinie Zimmerman is talking.

Yesterday's offering was played in semi-darkness, which enhanced the value of Tesreau's speed. It did rain a little, but as most of the straw hats one sees nowadays are sunburned and in the last stages of life, no damage was done.

It was probaby because of the darkness that Jack Murray let Wee Tom Leach cudgel out a triple in the first inning. Tom, who still draws his pension for the part he played in the war of 1812, gave the ball a naughty slap and he landed high and dry on the third cushion. Evers and Schulte walked, filling the bases.

Heinie Zimmerman told Tesreau that he was pretty lucky to be able to stay in the League.

Just for that Jeff made the great Zim strike out, and to show how pleased he was, Heinie went over and bit a large piece of concrete out of the grandstand. Then, as Vic Saier was being tossed out at first base by Shafer, Leach scored with the Cubs' only run.

The Giants got a run in the second inning. Merkle singled and stole second base. After Murray and Snodgrass had died, McLean singled to centre, scoring Merkle. In the third inning, with one out, Burns walked and Fletcher was hit in the ribs by a thrown ball. Herzog's double scored Shafer. Merkle struck out, and Murray planted a safety in right field, which scored Fletcher and Herzog.

Herzog made another double in the fifth inning, went to third on an out, and scored on Archer's passed ball. Archer had a bad day all around yesterday, six of the Giants stealing second on him.

With Vaughn pitching in the seventh inning, Burns walked and went to second on a passed ball. Shafer flied to Saier and Fletcher walked. Herzog singled to centre, scoring Burns, Fletcher going to third base when Leach fumbled the ball. Herzog stole second base. Merkle then banged a hit through short, scoring Fletcher and Herzog.

In the meantime Tesreau was pitching so well that all the Cubs did was to parade from the bench to the plate and countermarch. The score:

SUPERBAS LOSE AGAIN.

Indian Johnson Keeps Dahlenites Off Base Paths, Reds Winning, 7—2

Joe Tinker's Redlegs scored their second victory over Brooklyn and their fourth successive win since last Monday when they took the measure of the Superbas at Ebbets Field yesterday by the score of 7 to 2. Wildness by Frank Allen, who opened for the home team, and bunched hitting against Nap Rucker made victory easy for the Rhinelanders.

Allen had the strange experience of lasting until the third inning and then being yanked out of the game before a hit was made by his opponents. He handed out a pass in the first inning, but a double play erased the chance. In the second he hit the first batsman to face him and walked the next one, following this wildness by retiring the side in order. The first two Reds to face him in the third inning drew passes and he hit the third, filling the bases. That ended Allen. Rucker came in, and Egan hit the second ball Nap pitched to him for a single to left field, scoring two runs.

In the sixth inning the Reds went the full length of the batting order, picked up three more runs, and went out with the bases filled. Marsans fouled out and Hoblitzel fanned before the batting bee began. Then Tinker, Dodge, Kling, and Johnson landed on Rucker for successive singles, netting three runs. A pass to Bescher and Bob's speed to second base when Bates grounded to Fisher filled the bases again, and Egan ended the rally with a fly to Stengel. With two out in the ninth inning and Egan on first base after beating out a bunt Hoblitzel hit to the flag pole for a home run.

Brooklyn's first run came in the second inning on Daubert's triple to left centre and Smith's grounder to Dodge, Daubert beating the latter's throw to the plate. In the fourth Daubert singled to centre, went to second on a wild pitch, and scored when Bob Fisher's fast hopper got away from Egan. In the sixth, after the Reds had made their rally, Wheat opened with a pass and Daubert walked, but the next three batsmen could do nothing with Johnson.

The batting of Daubert and a catch by Marsans in deep centre field were the features. The score:

HEAVY STICK WORK IN YANKEES' GAMES

Detroit Takes Opener, 7 to 4, and New York Slugs to Victory in Second.

DETROIT, Aug. 22.—After losing the first game of a double-header to Detroit to-day, 7 to 4, because the Tigers knocked Russell Ford off the mound in less than four innings, New York evened up by winning the second contest, 12 to 7. In the last game North, a South Michigan League recruit, made his début in a Detroit uniform, and when he wasn't issuing passes he was yielding base hits.

Three hits, an error, and Willett's two bases on balls gave New York their four runs in the early innings of the first game. Detroit batted in two tallies in the third, and found Ford and Keating for seven safe drives in the fourth. These produced five runs, and were enough to win. McConnell displaced Keating in the sixth inning and pitched good ball.

Schulz, in the second game, shut Detroit out until Cobb's daring base running broke New York's defense in the seventh. The Georgian singled, took two bases on Beach's short single, and set sail for the plate when Maisel dropped the ball. The throw to the plate was high, but Gossett tagged Cobb out and then dropped the ball. Four hits, including Cobb's triple, gave Detroit three more in the eighth, and four hits in the ninth gave the Tigers another trio of runs, but Hartzell cut the rally short by retiring Veach. New York hit safely only in the innings when runs were made. The score:

RETAINS CHILDS TROPHY.

Virginia Wins Yachting Prize for Atlantic Yacht Club.

In a snappy wholesail breeze from the south, the Atlantic Yacht Club successfully defended the Childs Perpetual Challenge Trophy on Gravesend Bay yesterday. The Sea Gate representatives finished first and second over a course that was made up of a run from the starting line to Fort Hamilton, followed by a stiff beat to Buoy No. 7, and another reach home. The defending club was represented by Virginia, the property of J. Stuart Blackton, and Spider, which belongs to Hendon Chubb.

Virginia led the fleet at every mark, finally winning by 38 seconds from her team mate Spider. Then came Alice, the property of Gherardi Davis, representing the Larchmont Yacht Club, followed by Arvia, the first representative of the Bensonhurst Yacht Club. The challenging boat, Suelew, which belongs to Edgar F. Luckenback, Crescent Athletic Club, was the next to finish. Only 43 seconds separated the four leading boats. The sixth boat in the race was Cyric, a Class S craft, which on corrected time finished well up with the leaders.

The lower bay yachtsmen lost the Sound and Sea Trophy. The latter trophy was captured yesterday by the representatives of the Bayside Yacht Club, which finished first, second, and third over a 12.3-mile course. The winner was Loon, the property of A. W. Knapp.

The most interesting race was a special match among the Star boats. The conditions of the contest called for the skippers to change craft at the end of each race. During the third contest J. G. Alley, sailing Vega, the property of L. F. Johnson, called for room at the leeward mark. The boat that refused to give him room was his own craft Twinkle, sailed by G. G. Fry.

Not getting room, and having the right of way, Capt. Alley calmly rammed his own boat and stove in a hole on the starboard quarter. The boat rapidly filled with water, but it was towed ashore before it sank. Capt. Alley continued on as though nothing had happened and won the third race. It gave him the series, with 17 points.

DISTURBER A CHALLENGER.

Chicago Motor Boat Picked to Go to England for Harmsworth Races.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Disturber III., the 40-foot hydroplane owned by Commodore James E. Pugh of Chicago, today was named as one of three boats which will be sent across the Atlantic in an effort to regain from England the Lord Harmsworth trophy. The selection was made following the Disturber's performance yesterday in the preliminary heats for the free-for-all speed boat championship, run under the auspices of the Associated Yacht and Power Boat Clubs of America. Count Mankowski's Ankle Deep and one other, not yet selected, will represent America.

While the Disturber averaged only a fraction better than 42 miles per hour for the 14 miles, running in a choppy sea, Commodore Pugh, who was at the wheel, reserved the power of his 600-horse power engine, and experts are of the opinion that the boat is capable of much more speed.

BARBARA WINS RACE.

New York 50-Footers Again Compete at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—The New York 50-footers had one of the liveliest races of the Summer off Brenton's Reef Lightship to-day in a working topsail breeze that at times blew more than twenty knots an hour. It was the second of the races given by the Newport Yacht Racing Association, and was won by the Barbara, owned by Harry Payne Whitney and sailed by John Parkinson of Boston in the absence of Robert W. Emmons, 2d. The Iroquois was second and the Pleione third.

GERMANS VISIT BROOKLYN.

Athletic Commissioners Inspect Armories and Public School Fields.

The German Imperial Athletic Commissioners continued their tour of inspection yesterday under the guidance of Daniel J. Ferris, who represents the Amateur Athletic Union in the absence of James E. Sullivan and Gustavus T. Kirby, who are in Europe attending the congress of the International Athletic Federation. The commission, which has been sent to this country to investigate the method of training athletes, consists of Carl Diem, Secretary of the German Imperial Olympic Games; Lieut. von Reichenau of the War Department; Joseph Waitzer, and Dr. Martin Berner.

Indoor training is one of the features of athletics in which the visitors are interested. This method of keeping athletes in condition during the Winter is not followed in Europe, and the use of armories for athletic meets appealed to the Germans as a novelty. They visited the big armories in Brooklyn, where the method of conducting competitions was fully explained to them, and they took copious notes of the many details. The value of Winter training made a pronounced impression on the visitors, and they said it would be embodied in their suggestions when they presented their report to the German authorities.

Another point of interest which was noted by the Germans was the public school athletic fields in Brooklyn. Capt. Dean then accompanied the Commissioners to the Thirteenth Regiment Summer camp at Bath Beach. Owing to their [illegible] ably the [illegible] tour of inspection.

The Commissioners were entertained at night at the Atlantic Yacht Club at Seagate, as the guests of Supreme Court Justice Barton S. Weeks. They will visit a public school children's playground this afternoon at Central Park.

REYBOURN SHOWS IN FRONT AGAIN

Frederick Johnson's Horse Wins Third Consecutive Victory at Saratoga.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 22.—A programme devoid of a stake was offered by the Saratoga Association this afternoon, but the racing was first-class and an overnight handicap at a mile served the same purpose as a stake. The association's good fortune in the way of bright skies had a break and all day there were lowering clouds, while during the running of the fifth and sixth races rain fell and the crowd returned to the village in a steady downpour.

The mile handicap went to Frederick Johnson's Reybourn, and it marked his third consecutive handicap victory. Aug. 12 he took the measure of Ten Point over the mile distance, carrying 92 pounds. He followed this two days later by winning at seven furlongs under 99 pounds, and to-day Handicapper Vosburgh let him in the mile handicap at 103 pounds. On each occasion he was ridden by Johnny McTaggart, who has a knack of keeping him in at the stretch corner, and he has proved himself the best horse of his inches.

Forum, a colt that has been touted as faster than Pennant, was sent to the post under the Harry Payne Whitney silks in the last race, but he failed to race up to expectations and only finished fourth. The race was won by John Sanford's Brumley after a sharp stretch battle with Charles J. Quinn's Harvest Queen.

To-night Philip J. Dwyer was entertained at a dinner in the clubhouse, the occasion being the celebration of the sixty-ninth birthday of the President of the Brooklyn Jockey Club and the Queens County Jockey Club. Edgar Gibbs Murphy was the ruling spirit in arranging the dinner and Andrew Miller, Secretary of the Saratoga Association, acted as toastmaster.

The guests of the occasion were Dr. Moriarty, Philip J. Dwyer, August Belmont, Schuyler L. Parsons, James Butler, Richard T. Wilson, H. K. Knapp, Thomas Monahan, Robert Bull, C. K. G. Billings, Thomas C. McDowell, Edward R. Bradley, Andrew Miller, Francis R. Hitchcock, Woodford Clay, Lawrence Smith, David Stephenson, F. E. Howard, Thomas J. Healey, Edgar G. Murphy, E. Berry Wall, J. Shevlin, Capt. E. B. Cassatt, Charles Quinn, George Johnson, Jr., George Johnson, Sr., Frederick Johnson, W. G. Murphy, B. Walker, Commissioner J. Fleming, W. McMahon, Frank Fogarty, Mars Cassidy, H. C. Hallenbeck, John G. Cavanagh, John Walters, William C. Edwards, Algernon Daingerfield, Chief Thomas Lally, J. O'Day, M. Brennan, J. MacManus, Frank McKee, E. Kearney, G. Perkins, Richard F. Carman, Thomas Costigan, C. E. Longley, Frank Moore, H. Hogan, Fred Rehberger, A. Silz, Samuel C. Hildreth, A. J. Goldsborough, John W. NO RACING AT YONKERS.

Complications Arise in Bankruptcy Proceedings and Meet Is Called Off.

There will be no Grand Circuit meeting at Yonkers. The text of the bankruptcy laws, it has been decided, will prevent the Government from conducting its horse racing enterprise, which was scheduled for the Empire City track next week. Federal receivers of the National Fair and Exposition Association had been authorized by the United States District Court here to hold the Grand Circuit races, and the court had enjoined all creditors from attaching the receipts or interfering with the meeting in any way.

The National Trotting Association, however, it was announced last night, has refused to sanction the meeting or collect the $19,380 in forfeits due unless the receivers will agree to recognize unpaid claims of horsemen who raced at the first meet on the same track, early this month. To comply with the association's demands would be a violation of the bankruptcy statutes, it was decided, and the receivers called the races off.

DILLON AXWORTHY'S STAKE.

Pennsylvania Colt Takes Futurity at Salem in Straight Heats.

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 22.—Three races, all stake events and all for trotters, were on the card at Rockingham Park to-day. The feature race was the three-year-old trotting division of the American Horse Breeder Futurity, worth $6,000, which was won by the Pennsylvania colt Dillon Axworthy in straight heats. He took the lead in each heat and held it to the end. Peter Johnson was the only one of the field to give him an argument, and the Pennsylvania colt could handle the mount of Cox with ease.

Tom Murphy kept up his winning career in the 2:09 trot, in which he started two horses, driving Marigold himself and obtaining Geers to drive Ruth McGregor. Marigold won in straight heats, and Ruth got second money. Summary:

AMERICAN GOLFERS LEAD AT SHAWNEE

Vardon and Ray of England Do Not Finish Among First Half Dozen.

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Aug. 22.—American golfers triumphed in the first thirty-six holes of play in the open tournament over the Shawnee Country Club's links to-day, Alec Smith of Wykagyl, the metropolitan open champion, leading a record field of fifty-four starters with two rounds of 72 for a total of 144. This was five strokes better than the effort of John J. McDermott, the national open champion, who had scores of 76 and 73.

Harry Vardon and Edward Ray of South-Herts and Oxhey, England, respectively, did not make such a remarkable showing. Vardon's 78 and 77 for 155 total tied for seventh, eighth, and ninth places with Isaac Mackie of Fox-hills and J. J. Green of Hot Springs, while Ray's 79 and 77 was tied with the 77, 79—156 of Wilfrid Reid of Banstead Downs, England, and Jack Hutchinson of Allegheny for tenth, eleventh, and twelfth positions.

Vardon and Ray found difficulty on the greens, particularly Vardon, who wasted many strokes through indifferent putting. Ray's driving was the feature of his rounds, but at times he hashed a hole. Vardon was paired with McDermott, and this combination carried a gallery of enthusiasts from New York and Philadelphia, many of whom came here in automobiles. Vardon was not in trouble to any extent nor was he bothered by the rain.

Ray explained in an interview to-night that he and Vardon wanted $400 to play exhibition matches, declaring the price was not exorbitant, for Vardon was paid $250 for a day's play thirteen years ago here. "This matter is of no moment," said Ray, "for we are here primarily to compete for the American championship and to win it, if possible. We have plenty of matches besides and see no reason for lowering that figure."

The scores were:

Alec Smith, Wykagyl, 72, 72—144; J. J. McDermott, Atlantic City, 76, 73—149; M. J. Brady, Wollaston, 74, 76—150; Fred McLeod, Columbia, 73, 78—151; George Sargent, Chevy Chase, 76, 78—154; Tom Anderson, Oakmont, 78, 76—154; Isaac Mackie, Fox Hills, 78, 77—155; J. G. MR. MURPHY PLAYS FOR THE HIGHEST STAKES OF HIS LIFE.

So Mr. MURPHY is to nominate EDWARD E. MCCALL for Mayor. A trained and obedient organization man, Mr. MCCALL will accept. That at once fixes attention upon Acting Governor GLYNN. Mr. MCCALL is Chairman of the Public Service Commission. His transfer to the Mayor's chair will create a vacancy in the Commission. Gov. SULZER being by that time disposed of, Mr. GLYNN will fill the vacancy. Mr. MURPHY will expect him to name a good organization man. The Tammany chieftain will then have the Mayor and three of the five Public Service Commissioners—the new appointee, Mr. CRAM, always a Tammany man, and Mr. WILLIAMS of Brooklyn, a political chattel of MCCOOEY, who himself is Mr. MURPHY'S humble servant. It is a game of desperate hardihood, but the stakes are magnificent. Mr. MURPHY is stretching forth his hand to the $250,000,000 the city will expend for the new subways during the new Mayor's term.

Mr. MURPHY plays with quite unaccustomed boldness, but his game is altogether transparent. The least observant man can see the very workings of his mind, and his motives are in plain view. He and the men about him have made fortunes out of city contracts, and he is now after his share of the enormous sum to be spent by the city for subways. With the Mayor and the Public Service Commission subject to his orders, and with the Board of Estimate in his control, for he expects that, too, nothing would stand in the way of his plan for looting the city.

He puts aside Mayor GAYNOR, the strongest candidate he could name, the one candidate who could be elected; he puts aside Judge DOWLING, and fixes his choice upon Mr. MCCALL. Exhibiting that stupidity with which in the beneficent way of nature men like MURPHY are often richly endowed, he reasons that the Fusion ticket is weak. With Mayor GAYNOR as a candidate the head of the Fusion ticket might be weak. But against a Murphy candidate, and with MURPHY'S predatory designs exposed in the sight of all, the Fusion ticket will be strong, with the support of every man in the city who hates thieves and who desires to exclude them from access to the public funds.

Doubtless Mr. MURPHY feels that this is his last, his greatest, opportunity. He wants to get at the $250,000,000. That being his dominant motive, candor compels us to approve his decision to set aside Mayor GAYNOR. Mayor GAYNOR has his faults, but conniving at public theft is not one of them. Mr. MITCHEL, Fusion candidate for Mayor, holds opinions with which many good men differ, but the years of his Administration would be lean ones for the thieves. The public confidence in his absolute honesty and the advantage accruing to him from the great strength of his associates on the ticket would carry him into the office against a candidate chosen for the furtherance of Mr. MURPHY'S purposes. And there would be the additional joy and satisfaction of knowing that for four years no Tammany man would see the inside of a public office except as a visitor. Mr. MURPHY has chosen the right way to provoke the greatest uprising against Tammany in a generation.

A HIDEOUS SPECTACLE.

The slimy trail of the serpent Avarice is over the proceedings to keep THAW in Canada and out of Matteawan. Two grave professions, law and medicine, are disgraced by the capers of this degenerate lunatic with money. The lawyers and medical experts who are selling their services to the colossal vanity of him and his lawless family are stultifying themselves, they are holding up two Governments to ridicule.

The lunatic stalks in an international opera bouffe, a leading figure, with Secretary of State BRYAN, Secretary WILSON of the Department of Labor, ex-Gov. STONE of Pennsylvania, the "Hon. WILLIAM SULZER, Albany, N. Y."; Sheriff HORNBECK of Rockland County, and the Canadian immigration officials are his swaying, if not supporting, company. All these personages are played like automatons to amuse the megalomaniac. And there are men who, making light of the terrible scandal of his case, will do the amusing for money.

Is there no way to put a speedy end to this hideous business?

ANOTHER SULZER INVESTIGATION.

Evidence of Mr. WILLIAM SULZER'S activity on behalf of the men in whose interests the State Department at Washington was induced to compel the Cuban Government to recognize and pay a large sum of money on a claim which it did not wish to recognize, evidence brought out in a suit now pending in the Supreme Court of this State, is so strong that another investigation of Mr. SULZER'S conduct while holding public office is inevitable, this time by the legislative branch of the Federal Government. The revelations made thus far in the suit of the Latin American Company, as assignee of JOSE ANTONIO FRIAS, against the former partner of FRIAS, HUGH J. O'REILLY, a contractor, printed elsewhere in THE TIMES this morning, can only be interpreted as indicating that Mr. SULZER may have found much profit in his employment on the Committees on Military Affairs and Foreign Affairs while he was a member of the House of Representatives.

Characteristic letters and cablegrams included in the testimony show very clearly that Mr. SULZER was the friend and adviser of both FRIAS and O'REILLY while they were engaged in their operations in Cienfuegos, Havana, and elsewhere, and was at pains to help them in his official capacity. The charge that a part of the money collected from the Cuban Government through the United States Government in settlement of claims of FRIAS and O'REILLY, then believed in Washington to be legitimate, was used to reward the services of "a well-known American legislator" was made some time ago by Bishop BONAVENTURE BRODERICK. The inference from the testimony elicited since the two former partners fell out and went into court, that this American legislator is the politician who last Fall was elected Governor of New York State, is so strong that a further investigation into the past history of WILLIAM SULZER is, as we have said, inevitable. At present it is not necessary to say more.

THE MEXICAN DANGER.

The change in the attitude of President WILSON toward the Mexican problem is not encouraging. The promise of a message on the subject to Congress at this time, to be delayed three or four days, indicates a desire to get an expression of public opinion, to shift, in some measure, the burden of responsibility which hitherto he has insisted upon bearing without help. The intimation that the forthcoming message will suggest a "show of force" by the United States in Mexico is, we hope, made without authority. Already the international situation is so involved that only wisdom and prudence in every succeeding action of our Government can avert trouble. A "show of force" in the sister republic at this time would have perilous results. HUERTA'S followers would then have the support of Zapatistas, Carranzistas, Vasquistas, of the Church Party, and the remnant of the Cientificos against any outside interference.

The President's action in sending a personal envoy on a secret mission to Mexico has been generally approved, or at least not harshly condemned, because of the common belief that the President's information regarding the Mexican situation was more complete and sounder than the people's; in short, that he knew what he was doing. Somewhat disturbing reports as to the plans of the mission have been ignored. But it seems that the reports were well founded. Mr. LIND has made proposals to the Mexican Executive which have been rejected, and the negotiations are possibly at an end. It is obvious that in the present critical situation no proposal which could be thus rejected should have been made. The mission is a failure, and our relations with Mexico are more delicate than ever.

In the circumstances a full report of the conditions in Mexico, as Mr. LIND sees them, seems to be called for. He is believed to be a man of clear vision and practical common sense. If his report should indicate that the Government of Gen. HUERTA is strongly supported, that his control of affairs is reasonably firm, the duty of our Government is obvious. The mistake that has been made should be rectified. Pride should not influence President WILSON longer to withhold recognition. The acknowledgment of his error would be more manly than to persist in a wrong course. If, on the other hand, Mr. LIND could show that HUERTA'S power is waning, that fact should be made known to the American public.

Inevitably the promised message to Congress recalls Mr. MCKINLEY'S message before the outbreak of the Spanish war, just as Mr. LIND'S visit to Mexico is a reminder of the visit to Cuba of Senator REDFIELD PROCTOR of Vermont, whose report on his return was so enlightening to the Senate and the people. The two cases, however, are not otherwise similar. No humane reason could justify our interference in Mexico as matters now stand, yet our present course is tending toward more or less interference, if not positive intervention. Whatever the President's intention may have been, and we have no doubt that he was assured that his efforts as a mediator were well advised, the action of our Government thus far has increased Mexican hostility to us. We must reckon in all our dealings with Latin America with the bad influence of the ill-judged acts of previous Administrations. That our proffer of good offices should be subject to suspicion is inevitable. It is surely not our business to dictate to the Mexican people who should govern them, or to take sides against an established Government, whatever opinion we may entertain of the means of its establishment. The opponents of the Government at the Mexican capital are split up into many factions without community of interest. They have no coherence, and the sole object of some of them is plunder.

Continued interference with Mexican affairs must tend to a rupture of all international relations, if not to war. If war is precipitated, the Administration will have a difficult, an impossible, task to justify itself before the people, and the political party it represents will need many years to live down the evil repute thus fastened upon it. It is a part of good statesmanship to recognize frankly its own errors, if errors have been committed, and rectify them in the most generous manner.

WHAT FOLLOWS DEATH?

It is announced that the scientists of the British Association who will assemble at Birmingham on Sept. 10 next will discuss the things in heaven and earth not dreamed of in material philosophy. Of the thirty papers already announced, including that of Sir OLIVER LODGE, who is the new President of the association, twenty-seven will treat of the soul. Five years have elapsed since Sir OLIVER startled his colleagues and the world with the solemn statement:

> The boundary between the two states—the known and the unknown—is still substantial, but is wearing thin in places; and, like excavators engaged in boring a tunnel from opposite ends, amid the roar of water and other noises, we are beginning to hear now and again the strokes of the pickaxes of our comrades on the other side.

However the pickaxes of the spirit world are striving, the strokes of those working on this side of the grave—of those, that is, whose sense of humor will permit them—have been redoubled. What new message will the learned President of the British Association deliver, transmitted from regions unvisited by the moon's pale glimpses? His address, rumor has it, will base itself on the hypothesis accepted by science, that mass and energy are the same things in changing forms; that a universal medium pervades all space through which light, electricity, gravity, and things having dimensions interplay, imparting their attributes to each other. Prof. SCHAEFER, the last President of the British Association, treated the subject of life on this planet as still in process of creation. Since the reading of his paper Sir WILLIAM RAMSAY and Profs. NORMAN COLLIE and H. PATTERSON have announced before the British Chemical Society the artificial "birth of the atom"—the transmutation of matter by electrical means. Sir WILLIAM CROOKES had said, so recently as the meeting of the International Congress of Applied Chemistry in Berlin in 1903:

> A hundred years hence, shall we acquiesce in the resolution of the material universe into a swarm of rushing electrons?

That is acquiesced in already. And the men of science are looking into the invisible for evidence of human personality, disembodied but alert and intelligent, and seeking communication with embodied souls. The trend of scientific effort to-day toward the unseen and the intangible can hardly be more remarked than in this selection of an avowed spiritualist to head one of the world's most august bodies of seekers after facts.

BANKERS ON BANKING LEGISLATION.

Every department of banking is represented in the conference at Chicago of the heads of institutions in forty-seven States. There have been more numerous councils of bankers in the history of the country, but none more authoritative, nor at a more interesting time. Legislation of general and fundamental character is under consideration, at a stage so advanced that a caucus is considering its adoption as a party measure. Yet bankers have not been consulted at any stage. On the contrary, bankers' advice has been openly rejected, their patriotism challenged, their motives impugned, when proposals are pending threatening the future of the national system without offering any sure substitute, nor with anything like certainty regarding the working of whatever substitute may be solved upon.

It is not to be imagined that the bankers alone, or chiefly, are concerned to see a way through this murky outlook. On the contrary, none are more interested than taxpayers and savings bank depositors, who hardly imagine it, or perceive how they are concerned in the doings of the politicians at Washington or the bankers at Chicago. There are ten million savings bank depositors and many more millions pay taxes on municipal bonds whose credit is attacked by the pending legislation. That is not the intention of the legislators. It happens apparently through inadvertence in quite casually fixing a limit of indebtedness for cities which would disqualify the bonds of New York City at one extremity, and of many cities of population just below 25,000 at the other extremity. To spoil the credit of the deserving cities in this large class, and to depress the price of the bonds of cities of the first class, and which so largely are owned by countless banks and individual investors, is a blunder of no mean proportions. It is not mentioned because it is the chief danger threatened in the pending legislation. Certainly Congress needs bankers' advice, and popular admonition, when it is capable of even allowing such legislation to come before it or before a caucus.

The counsel of bankers is valuable because it is experienced and disinterested. Many of them are well to do, but they are not money kings. They are trustees of other people's billions, and they see themselves confronted by projects of laws conflicting with their duties. They believe that their depositors' interests would not be safe if they were subject to orders regarding the investments they must make. They believe that commerce would not be safe if they were ordered to place their reserves under political control. They do not feel justified in silence at a time when it is proposed that those who do not own the banks shall control them, and not simply regulate their operations according to established standards.

It is instructive to contrast the debates in Congress with the remarks of Mr. HEPBURN before the bankers. Rancor toward the rich, and considerations of partisanship and territorial sectionalism, are uppermost at Washington. The lawmakers are thinking chiefly of other things than those which interest the bankers. Banking laws are being framed on methods resembling those rejected in framing the tariff. Wall Street is assailed for its privileges, which are to be taken away and conferred upon those who have neither knowledge how to create and use credit nor the moderation which would make it safe to intrust them with it. In the background is the spectre of politics, the appeal to the electorate, to the prejudices of the ill-informed, who are lured by promises of what the laws will do for them, with no responsibility for the results if the laws are passed.

The qualities which make the bankers' advice worth while handicap them in the competition with Congress for the approval of those who are more directly in the care of the bankers than of the Congressmen. The bankers know that the politicians and the lawmakers cannot produce the results they promise, and that the methods they propose are calculated to produce disillusionment and disaster. The bankers are responsible every minute of every business day, but when the politicians are held to their responsibility they draw another herring across the trail. The bankers are thinking last, or not at all, of the political results of their advice, and the politicians are thinking first of the next election. Mr. HEPBURN speaks without a trace of rancor or even of criticism. There is more praise than blame in his remarks, upon the whole, but he makes it plain that upon the points of objection which the bankers find it necessary to make their position is that of the Old Guard. They may be overcome, but they will never surrender. It is for the country to say whether it will support the bankers or the politicians. The country can bring the politicians to the bankers' way of thinking, because it is easy for politicians to change their position. It is their business to keep their ears to the ground, just as it is a necessity for the bankers that they should do nothing of the sort. It is neither pride nor prejudice which makes the bankers such hard fighters. It is confidence based on knowledge and experience. The country can see to it that the bankers have their way, or the country can take charge of prosperity. Nothing could be simpler, and nothing can be surer than the result of banking without bankers in charge of voters and vote seekers.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Big Forest Fires for 1913? The loss occasioned by forest fires in the Catskill and Adirondack regions last year was a little over $11,000, as against a loss in 1908 of $757,000. This speaks well for the Conservation Commission, to which credit is due for 1912's minimum record for damage by forest fire. The protection which is now offered to the forest sections testifies to the energetic efforts of Supt. PETTIS. The tops of fifty prominent mountains have been connected by telephone, the number of observation stations has been trebled in the last four years, and there are twice as many rangers as in 1909, aided by about 300 wardens.

The Conservation Commission calls attention to the fact that, in spite of the increased opportunities for detecting and fighting fire, 1913 will be a bad year unless the camper who is the cause of most of the trouble is especially on his guard. Records show that a bad fire season comes about once in every four or five years. The years 1899, 1903, and 1908 were marked by the most disastrous fires New York State has ever known. Every indication points to 1913 as another unlucky year. The fall of snow last Winter was light and disappeared early. The Summer has been long and unusually dry, and the danger of another conflagration such as that of 1908, where the damage exceeded $1,000,000, is all too apparent to those who watch from the conservation tower. Not only is the danger of loss of life, similar to that horrible affair in the Porcupine region of Canada in 1911, to be feared, but the careless camper or the automobilist who leaves fires and tosses lighted cigarettes into the brush might well think on the advance in the price of lumber. The commission estimates that at the present rate of cutting the standing timber in the State will last but twenty-five years, and that another fire season like 1908 would bring the time of timber famine four years nearer. This is a heavy price to pay for carelessness. Campers know the law; in all fairness let them obey it to the last letter.

To Every Horse His Drinking Cup. A year ago the Bureau of Municipal Research announced a campaign to secure better drinking accommodations—individual cups, in fact—for horses. The importance of the reform urged at that time has become more and more apparent to the serious and thinking public. According to a recent issue of The National Humane Review, application has been made by the Water Supply Commissioner for an appropriation of $40,000 to erect 100 granite water troughs throughout the city. The troughs are to be swept with a "whirling" current of water, making less likely of lodgment the green slime which used to gather on the bowls of the old fountains. The slime harbors the bacilli which spread the most devastating of diseases among horses, the glanders.

But the individual horse drinking cup, such as is seen everywhere in Boston, is not to be a feature of these fountains. Yet the bubbling cups are found to lessen the danger of glanders contagion still more, for the bacilli get their start in the nostrils of the animal, and the touching of noses in the public fountain has come to be regarded as one of the most frequent methods by which the disease is communicated. When statistics are consulted and it is found that glanders carries off over 6,500 of Manhattan's 90,000 horses every year, the importance of the water-trough crusade seems obvious enough, and the need of troughs fitted with the cups is manifest.

There are about 130 of the old troughs of the city that need to be retired to the junk heap, and many of them must be shifted to districts where the teaming has become heavy. Since new troughs must be bought, why not get the approved and most sanitary kind?

The Giraffe Dies of Apoplexy. We are glad the hot spell is broken. Not so the giraffe. We are through with our collapsing and our prostrating, but in the midst of our relief and our coolness the giraffe stands getting hotter. According to the vigilant keepers in the Zoological Gardens, the whole trouble with this particular giraffe was the fact that you never could tell when was the right time to apply the ice pack to his head. As a result the giraffe, an expensive one, too, costing we forget how many thousands, died the other day from heat prostration with the mercury at a comfortable 78 degrees or so. Heat rises. Probably the giraffe saw it rising, and, in a forth-stretching and anticipatory way, deplored his demise at a time when the sweltering of humans would be over and done with and there would be none with memory of 90 in the shade vivid enough to sympathize. Maybe heat increases as it rises, too, for it seems as if a cranium accustomed to the temperature of African deserts ought to be apoplexy-proof when a mere 96 degrees, or thereabout, is the limit.

It may be indeed that our readers, flippantly inclined, see only the gelastic possibilities of this incident, and perhaps, if they know the author, can quote Titus Andronicus about bringing up a neck to a fair end. But go to the Zoo some time next December, the more tender hearted of you, and sympathize with the poor giraffe—there's only one left now—who is getting the first returns on the July hot spell.

A CONDUCTOR'S STORY.

Old Passenger Rides Regularly to Meet a Sunken Steamer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

For the last five years I have been a street car conductor in New York City, and most of that time I have been in charge of cars on the Amsterdam Avenue line. The repetition of a curious occurrence during the last three years has interested me and might interest your readers.

In June, 1911, on a southbound trip an old gentleman boarded my car at Fifty-seventh Street and Ninth Avenue. He asked me if I would let him off at the French Line pier. I told him we did not go to the waterfront, but that I would transfer him at Fourteenth Street. A week later the same gentleman asked the same question of me, and when I asked if he found the pier all right before, he said, "Yes, but the boat wasn't in." He said his wife and son were due to arrive on the French boat La Bourgogne.

Since then he has ridden with me at least twenty times—always to meet a liner which, if I remember correctly, went down off the Banks of Newfoundland in 1898. Three other conductors on the Amsterdam Avenue line have had the same experience with the old gentleman. The last time he rode with me was last Thursday, the 14th.

Mob Psychology.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As has often been said, human nature is indeed queer. Here's further evidence: it is reported that when Thaw arrived at Sherbrooke most of the town's 18,000 population turned out and welcomed this insane fugitive degenerate with such a rousing cheer that it even drowned out the rumbling of the train.

Puzzle: What under heaven were they cheering about? That's what I'd like to know.

MISTY FIDE.

New York, Aug. 22, 1913.

A BALLAD OF NASSAU STREET.

(With apologies to all the rest.)

We approached him with awe, till we saw his old face
Crinkle deeper where Time had left dints;
And we asked of the Oldest Inhabitant then,
"How did Nassau Street look without splints?

"We have walked its nine blocks, till we know all its parts.
We've been through it with friends and the girls of our hearts.
We have strolled through at lunch-time, we've rushed for a train,
And we know it by lamplight, in sunshine, in rain.
But in all of the years we have walked through the street
We have never yet seen it when work was complete.
They have put in new water pipes, relaid the pave
And each one of its buildings has had a clean shave,
Which has widened the sidewalk a foot, perhaps two.
They have torn down the old and then built up the new.
We have walked o'er its planking, and under the sheds
They put up to keep derricks from bumping our heads.
We have asked all our friends, but not one of them knew
About how it will look when the work is all through.
So we've hunted you up, to describe, if you can,
Just what Nassau Street looked like before they began."

But he shook his gray head, and the smile left his face
As he answered in slow, mournful tones,
"True, my mem'ry is long, but I cannot recall Seeing Nassau Street lack broken bones."

AUGUSTA FIELD.

LA FOLLETTE OFFERS NEW WOOL SCHEDULE

ASSAIL DEMOCRATS' RATES

Warren and Penrose Lead Opposition—Tariff Bill Favors British Interests, Says Latter Senator.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, for the Progressive Republicans, introduced his substitute for the wool schedule of the Democratic Tariff bill in the Senate to-day. He proposes rates substantially lower than those in the amendment offered some time ago by Senator Smoot of Utah, the tariff expert of the regular Republicans, and they are believed to be the lowest wool rates ever proposed by a Republican.

Mr. La Follette divides raw wool into two classes, instead of the traditional triple classification. Class 1, which includes merino, down clothing, and combing wools generally, is subjected to a duty of 15 per cent., the rate the Democrats agreed to before President Wilson insisted on free wool. Other wools of the coarser grades, including camel's hair, are put on the free list.

Corresponding heavy reductions from existing law are made in rates on improved and finished grades of manufactured wool. Wools of Class 1 on the skin and top waste, slubbing waste, and the like are protected by a duty of 12½ per cent., while shoddy, yarn waste, and woolen rags are reduced to 10 per cent. The duty on tops is proposed at 25 per cent., on carded woolen yarns 30 per cent., and on worsted yarns 32½ per cent. Woolen cloth and ready-made clothing are protected by duties ranging from 40 to 45 per cent.

It is expected that when the voting begins on the woolen schedule, some time next week, Mr. La Follette's substitute will not draw much support, even from Republican ranks. The regulars at first will rally to the support of Mr. Smoot's proposals, and only after they have been defeated will they vote for Mr. La Follette's rates as the best in sight. But Mr. La Follette's proposals are certain to be defeated by the solid vote of the Democratic majority.

In the Senate debate to-day on the schedule, the Republicans kept up a running fire of stubborn opposition to free raw wool and the radical reductions in woolen manufactures proposed in the Democratic bill.

Senators Warren of Wyoming and Penrose of Pennsylvania spoke for six hours, the former characterizing the proposed bill as "tariff-for-politics-only, instead of for revenue-only," and the latter asserting that the woollen schedule as prepared by the majority was "distinctly against America and for Europe."

"From the British standpoint," said Senator Penrose, "this bill is almost too good to be believed. It actually carries many rates of duty much lower and more favorable to British interests than the New York importers representing the foreign manufacturers dared to ask for."

Senator Warren, in a lengthy analysis of the wool situation, said that under the proposed law immense sums would be lost to the producers of wool, without benefit to the consumer. Free wool he described as "uncalled for, cruel and unwise."

Responding to a recent resolution by Senator Sutherland, Secretary McAdoo estimated that importers having merchandise in American warehouses under bond awaiting the new tariff rates would save about $10,000,000.

Aid for the Friendless.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When recently there appeared in THE TIMES an article headed "Lone Girl Attempts Suicide in Despair," the citizens of New York asked themselves, What are all our charities and social workers doing that such a thing is possible in this city? New York is teeming with charities and aid societies to meet all cases of those who need assistance. The young woman coming a stranger to New York, as so many young girls do, had not learned where to apply for aid. Lying in the prison ward in Bellevue Hospital, kind hands are stretched out to her from many directions. The child, for she is little more than a child, only 17, has learned that when she leaves the hospital there is money for her immediate needs and offers of a home from many sources.

The Bureau of Social Service at Bellevue has had many visitors making inquiry and offering a home to this girl, because in her loneliness she did what brought her into public notice. These good women of the Social Service Department who carry on this work under the City Government work independent of creed. Those who would help the young women and girls and boys who are thus stranded can go to the office of Social Service at Bellevue Hospital, where charity is carried on along practical lines. Many of these children if they were given help or a home, knowing some older person was taking an interest in them, might grow into happy, successful men and women.

ELIN STARR.

New York, Aug. 22, 1913.

An Issue of Distinct Merit.

Now, that Harry Thaw's sensational escape from Matteawan has focused attention on that institution, it is noted that this is the twentieth that has been made from there. On the front page of the Magazine Section of to-morrow's SUNDAY TIMES the escapes from Matteawan will be described in detail.

Dr. Dudley S. Sargent, Harvard's celebrated physical culture expert, declares that militant suffragists should devote themselves to exercise instead of throwing bombs, and he talks about what women should do to be happy and healthy.

As a preliminary to his marriage to Princess Augustine of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, King Manuel of Portugal will be obliged to ride on a pole through the streets of the village of Sigmaringen, to conform with a custom dating back several centuries. A Veteran Diplomat describes this ceremony and tells about the bride and her family.

Is Secretary of State Bryan a shirker of his duties? Or is he a hard worker? Many people have been asking these questions since Mr. Bryan took to giving lectures far from his Washington duties. The answer will be given in an article by Charles Willis Thompson.

Turkey Trot and Tango have made plenty of trouble in New York, and now they are bothering London. There will be an article telling how they have moved many English people to protest against them and to defend them.

Three of the distinguished foreigners who have come here to be present at the International Congress of School Hygiene at Buffalo have set down their views. They say school problems here are more difficult than those of Europe.

There will be an interview with Milton Aborn, impresario, about the season of popular opera to be given at the Century Theatre.

"Hands Off!" That, says Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard, has been the policy of the great powers for many years toward the Balkans, since "the laying on of one hand would mean the laying on of six hands"—in other words, a general mix-up.

Another lecture by William Jennings Bryan—one of those which, when delivered before the Chautauqua Society, caused such a stir throughout the country—will appear in to-morrow's Magazine Section. Its title is "The Value of an Ideal."

Bertram G. Goodhue, builder of cathedrals, describes the wave of enthusiasm for cathedrals that is sweeping America, and says that we are rivaling the great architectural period of the Middle Ages.

These are a few of the articles of distinctive merit to appear in to-morrow's SUNDAY TIMES.

FEDERAL JOBS GO BEGGING.

Civil Service Board Issues Coaxing Appeal for Applicants.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Jobs under the Government are going begging, and the Civil Service Commission to-day issued announcements of examinations to be held for several places. Almost every announcement bore this significant statement:

"As the commission has experienced considerable difficulty in securing a sufficient number of eligibles for this position, qualified persons are urged to enter this examination."

Among the places which the commission seeks to fill is that of preparator in the Bureau of Entomology of the Department of Agriculture. It pays $60 a month.

The real prize place is that of professor of pharmacology in the Public Health Service. The salary is $4,500 a year.

"The specific position mentioned," says the commission, "is one of much responsibility, and it is desired to secure the services of a man who has had broad training and extensive practical experence in various branches of pharmacology, physiology, physiological, and pharmaceutical chemistry, and chemotherapy."

MITCHEL MAY CUT FORCE.

Collector Recommends Many Savings to Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Assistant Secretary Hamlin of the Treasury Department to-day began consideration of a long report involving recommendations for changes in the Custom House at New York looking to an annual saving of about $250,000 and a considerable decrease in the working force. The report was submitted by Collector Mitchel after an investigation that consumed several months.

It is understood the report recommends that the force of Inspectors of incoming baggage be reduced from about 450 to 200. In the place of these men it is proposed to have five Inspectors who would work practically continuously upon passengers' baggage, assisted by a force of laborers to actually handle and unpack baggage.

Another recommendation is that the Debenture Room in the Custom House be abolished as unnecessary. The report says it now is only used for clerical work that may readily be dispensed with.

AN AMERICAN PARTHENON

Senator Jones Would Dedicate as Spot for Statues of Women.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Intended as a harbinger of woman suffrage, Senator Jones of Washington has offered a bill setting aside a space in the proposed piazza between the Capitol and the Union Station solely for statues and memorials to women. He would have it known as the "Parthenon."

"I suppose they'll be erecting statues to the inventors of bloomers and slit skirts," said an anti-suffragist House member. "It will be a pretty sight—a lot of female statuary all in a clump. Those who don't mistake it for a marble reproduction of a fashionable young ladies' seminary out for a walk will think it's a female burying ground."

Senator Jones is in earnest in his proposal, however, and he has the support of other members of Congress who come from equal suffrage States.

NEW POLITICAL BODY.

Citizens' Municipal Committee Gets Incorporation Papers.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 22.—The Citizens' Municipal Committee, with headquarters in Manhattan, was incorporated by the Secretary of State to-day. The objects of the organization, set forth in the incorporation papers, are "to maintain the principle of non-partisanship in municipal affairs and promote the non-partisan election of honest, efficient, and independent public officers within the City of New York, and to that end to use any and all lawful and proper political means therefor, including the nomination and election of candidates or otherwise."

The affairs of the corporation are to be managed by twenty-nine Directors. Those named in the papers are:

Allison L. Adams, Edward W. Allen, Edward M. Bassett, Darwin R. James, Louis H. Pink, F. B. Shipley, F. S. Tomlin, Alexander M. White of Brooklyn; Henry De Forest Baldwin, Charles L. Bernheimer, Lloyd G. Griscom, John Henry Hammond, Norman Hapgood, Timothy Healy, William Loeb, Jr., Henry Moskowitz, Joseph M. Price, William Jay Schieffelin, Fred M. Stein, Henry L. Stimson of Manhattan; George E. Blackwell, Frank L. Ferguson, Richard W. Higbie of Queens; John Davis, Richard W. Lawrence, F. A. Wurzbach of the Bronx; William G. Willcox and Nathan A. Smyth of Richmond, and William H. Hotchkiss of New Rochelle.

The Citizens' Municipal Committee is the Fusion Committee of 107 which was organized to fight Tammany Hall in the city election this Fall. It was stated at the time the committee was formed that it would be made "a permanent municipal party," so that it would be unnecessary to form a fusion anti-Tammany organization at every city election.

BROOKLYN TAXES LOWER.

Mayor Cites Figures to Prove Bills Less Than Before Consolidation.

Mayor Gaynor has said frequently that taxes in Brooklyn were lower than before consolidation, and to prove his contention this letter from the Mayor was printed yesterday in Brooklyn in The Standard Union:

City of New York,
Office of the Mayor,
Aug. 21, 1913.

To the Editor of The Standard Union:

I have several times pointed out that the owners of property in the built-up sections of Brooklyn are paying a smaller tax bill now than they did before Brooklyn became a part of the City of New York. And yet many of such owners continue to say that they are paying twice as much now as before Brooklyn came into the greater city. It is not true. Before such annexation improved property in Brooklyn was valued for taxation well up to its full value, and the rate ranged from $2.98 in the 100 to over $3 in the 100, whereas the present rate is about $1.84. I have had the President of the Tax Board pick out at random a list of such improved property in various parts of Brooklyn to illustrate what I mean. It shows that such property owners are now, as they have been ever since Brooklyn was made a part of New York, paying much less in taxes than they paid while Brooklyn was a separate city. The list is as follows:

Owner or Occupant.	Location.	—Taxes.—
		1897.	1913.
St. Clair McKelway	21 Monroe Pl.	$686	$407
A. A. Low	3 Pierrepont Street	2,288	1,665
John Pierrepont	1 Pierrepont St.	3,433	2,312
E. H. Litchfield	2 Montague Ter.	2,288	1,572
W. C. De Witt	127 Remsen St.	629	416
Col. W. Hester	158 Remsen St.	715	536
James Shevlin	69 8th Av.	543	407
David A. Boody	206 Berkeley Pl.	460	342
J. R. Maxwell	78 8th Av.	2,861	2,590
J. D. Fairchild	845 Carroll St.	414	351
Edward M. Grout	860 Carroll St.	314	240
Don C. Seitz	310 Stuyvesant Av.	220	138
Agnes B. Ormsbee	435 Macon St.	160	148
Charles Pratt	252 Clinton Av.	3,605	3,459
Herman A. Metz	253 Clinton Av.	1,287	1,128
A. J. Pouch	345 Clinton Av.	2,174	1,850
C. A. Schieren	405 Clinton Av.	1,001	888
Lincoln Club	Putnam Avenue	858	555
William Berri	401 Grand Av.	211	175
Rev. T. L. Cuyler	180 S. Oxford St.	286	259
J. Jourdan	174 Washington Park	271	231
W. N. Dykman	171 Wash. Park	314	296
Hamilton Club	Remsen Street	2,575	2,146
Oxford Club	Lafayette Avenue	1,144	923

Of course the outlying sections are paying larger taxes now than they paid then. But vacant land there which was then selling for $100 or a few hundred dollars an acre is now selling for thousands of dollars an acre, and of course is assessed accordingly on the tax roll, and is paying a higher tax, as it should.

I shall be glad to have you publish this letter with this list so that every honest person over in Brooklyn can see the facts and cite them on occasion.

Very truly yours,
W. J. GAYNOR,
Mayor.

BRYAN LETTER ROUTS CURRENCY RADICALS

Sways Caucus to Exclude Bar on Interlocking Directorates from Money Bill.

PLANS SEPARATE MEASURE

Amendments Extraneous to Money Legislation Are Unwise, Secretary Wrote to Glass.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Secretary Bryan intervened in the currency legislation issue to-day, effecting a victory for the Administration against the radicals, who wanted to attach to the Money bill a provision prohibiting interlocking directorates among banks in the proposed reserve banking system.

Chairman Carter Glass of the House Banking and Currency Committee read a letter from him to the caucus this afternoon as an argument in favor of eliminating this prohibition as a part of the currency measure.

The letter was loudly cheered and showed Mr. Bryan to be unmistakably loyal to President Wilson on the currency question. It swung the Bryan men almost solidly into line. This, with the support given by the followers of Mr. Glass and Mr. Underwood, enabled the advocates of the bill to exclude the interlocking dictorate prohibition by 132 to 60, or a two to one vote, on a motion by Mr. Underwood referring the question to the House Judiciary Committee with instructions to report legislation next Winter.

This action gives ample assurance that the Democrats plan to bring forward then a bill prohibiting all interlocking directorates in corporations over which the Federal Government has jurisdiction as part of the Administration's anti-trust programme.

Representative "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma tried to amend this resolution so as to provide that the question be excluded from reference to the Judiciary Committee, which should be limited to reporting a bill that would prohibit interlocking Directorates in railroad and other corporations. The purpose of the Murray amendment was to have the caucus place in the Currency bill a prohibition against interlocking bank Directorates, and have the Judiciary Committee follow this up with a bill extending the same prohibition to other kinds of corporations. The Murray amendment was defeated by a vote of 157 to 52.

Chairman Glass also read to the caucus extracts from an interview with Samuel Untermyer, which appeared in a Washington dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES, published May 31 last, in which Mr. Untermyer expressed himself in favor of currency legislation at this session, adding that "nobody but a vicious marplot would deliberately seek to delay or complicate that result under the existing tense and delicate conditions, which demand immediate relief."

Mr. Unermyer was counsel for the Pujo Money Trust Committee, which recommended a prohibition against interlocking Directorates in the National banking system.

Representative Henry of Texas and others said after the caucus that if the vote had been taken yesterday, before the Bryan letter was written, the Neely amendment barring interlocking Directorates would have been adopted and the Underwood motion defeated.

Speaker Champ Clark voted against the Underwood motion to refer, in defiance of Mr. Bryan's views.

The Bryan Letter.

Here is the text of the Bryan communication:

Washington, Aug. 22, 1913.

Hon. Carter Glass, House of Representatives.

My dear Mr. Glass: Replying to your inquiry, I beg to say that I have for many years advocated a law preventing a duplication of directorates. While the principle applies to banks as well as to trusts, although I think in a less degree, the plan has been considered mainly as a means of dealing with the trust evil. Competition can be effectively prevented when the same men act as Directors of competing companies. I am as much in favor of the remedy now as I was when I began to advocate it; in fact, more so, because recent disclosures have given further proof of the employment of this means of eliminating competition, but I do not think it wise to make it a part of the pending Currency bill.

In attempting to secure remedial legislation, care must be taken not to overload a good measure with amendments, however good those amendments may be in themselves. A boat may be sunk if you attempt to make it carry too much, however valuable the merchandise. A bill is usually the result of a compromise; the President and Secretary McAdoo, in conjunction with the Chairman of the Currency Committees of the House and Senate, have formulated a tentative measure. It was prepared after extended investigation and the comparison of views. It embodies certain provisions of great importance and is, I believe, fundamentally sound.

The provision in regard to the Government issue of notes to be issued by the banks is the first triumph of the people in connection with currency legislation in a generation. It is hard to overestimate the value of this feature of the bill.

In the second place the bill provides for Government control of the issue of this money—that is, control through a board composed of Government officials selected by the President with the approval of the Senate. This is another distinct triumph for the people, one without which the Government issue of the money would be largely a barren victory.

The third provision of the bill, which I regard as of the first importance, is the one permitting State banks to share with national banks the advantages of the currency system proposed.

These three provisions are, to my mind, of such transcendent importance that I am relatively very little concerned as to the details of the bill. I do not mean to say that the details are unimportant, but whatever mistakes are made in details can be corrected easily and soon; a wrong step in the matter of principle would be more difficult to retrace. There are, doubtless, differences of opinion over matters of detail, and it was to adjust these that the caucus was held; but I take it for granted that no one who is really in favor of the bill will permit a difference of opinion on a matter of detail to lead him to jeopardize the bill.

The papers have, in a few cases, reported members of Congress as presenting views which were alleged to be mine. I do not know to what extent these reports may exaggerate what has been said and done, but you are authorized to speak for me and say that I appreciate so profoundly the service rendered by the President to the people in the stand that he has taken on the fundamental principle involved that I am with him on all the details.

If my opinion has influence with any one who is called upon to act in this measure, I am willing to assume full responsibility for what I do when I advise him to stand by the President and assist in securing the passage of this measure at the earliest possible moment. I am sure that the President will be ready to join in making any change in detail that can be made to advantage, and being sure of his singleness of purpose, I am willing to leave to future action the correction of any provision which he may now regard as essential to the plan and purpose of the bill.

Congratulating you upon the splendid manner in which you have presented the merits of this bill, I am,

Very truly yours,
W. J. BRYAN.

Afterward Mr. Glass read a postscript to the letter which Mr. Bryan later sent as an after thought, saying that on examining the platform of the party adopted at Baltimore, he found that the plan against interlocking Directorates was a part of the anti-trust plank.

The President expressed to-night his warm admiration of the work the House caucus was doing under the guidance of the Committee on Banking and Currency.

"I am proud," he said, "as every Democrat must be, of the way in which the committee and the caucus have accomplished a consistent piece of constructive work. With the frankest discussion and under the ablest leadership, the Democrats have shown their capacity as a party to serve the country by an admirable piece of business legislation. It must stimulate the country to see such evidences of harmony along with constructive purpose in a work of no small complexity and difficulty."

NARRAGANSETT BALL GAY WITH COSTUMES

Summer Colony Dances in a "Forest of Versailles" Under Many-Colored Lights.

A RANGE OF CHARACTERS

Dinners Given by A. G. Vanderbilt, Capt. I. E. Emerson, and Others Before the Dance Begins.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 22.—Narragansett's third annual costume ball was held in the ballroom of the Casino to-night, and proved to be the most notable entertainment of the season.

The ballroom was transformed into a grove arranged to represent the forest of Versailles and vari-colored electric lights and Japanese lanterns illuminated the scene. Pierrettes and daughters of the Orient danced about and participated in the grand march, which started at midnight. Among the souvenirs distributed were French horns, toy balloons, kettle drums, imported fans, fantastic caps, and masks for the dancers.

Members of the Committee of Arrangements were Henry B. Kane, Otto L. Mersman, and William H. Coombs.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt made his first visit to the Pier this season, and arrived here with a party of twelve from Newport. Mr. Vanderbilt entertained at dinner at the Casino. Capt. Isaac E. Emerson also arrived from Newport with a party of twelve on the yacht Margaret. Capt. Emerson was host at a Casino dinner party.

Mrs. William Disston of Philadelphia gave a dinner at her villa before the ball, and among her guests were Count d'Adhemar, Count Manio, and Robert Graves, who arrived here from Newport, and Mrs. William G. Cochrane of Philadelphia. Mrs. Disston and her guests after dinner attended the ball. Mrs. Disston and Mrs. Cochrane wore French Court costumes.

Mrs. Irving H. Chase of Waterbury, Conn., entertained a dinner company at Miramar, and among her guests were Steele Wotkyns, Everett Hawley, Clayton Demott, Miss Frederika Kellogg, Miss Marjory Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin K. Gatins, Miss Emily Randolph, Miss Marguerite Prescott, Miss Julia Addison, Miss Isabelle Mersman, Miss Agnes Duryea, Philip Stevenson, Philip Randolph, Jr., and Scudder Mersman. The hostess and her guests attended the ball. Mrs. Chase wore a Spanish gypsy costume.

Among those entertaining at dinner on the plaza of the Casino were Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fell, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac H. Clothier, Jr., of Philadelphia, Mrs. T. A. Baldwin of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. S. Hinman Bird of New York, Earle Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Alexander, Lloyd Jones, Mrs. R. F. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Kane, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Mersman, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kavanaugh, S. T. Thacher, Mrs. Arthur L. Bliss, E. I. Prickett, and John Carter Brown Woods, who was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Douglas Pearce.

ETHEL LEVEY ARRIVES.

Her Ambition, She Says, to Appear on the Legitimate Stage Here.

Ethel Levey, the musical comedy actress, arrived yesterday on the Cedric with her daughter Georgette, and went to the Ritz-Carlton, where her former husband, George M. Cohan, was expected last night to see his daughter. Miss Levey said she had made the trip for this purpose, as Mr. Cohan had found himself unable to go abroad.

The actress was full of her plans for the season in London, having been engaged as leading woman for Gerald du Maurier in a new play by Hubert Henry Davies, which takes her out of the musical field and gives her an important position on the legitimate stage. She said that when she reached Liverpool on her way here she had received an offer to appear for a single week at the Colonial Theatre when it opens on Labor Day, and had accepted. She will then return immediately to London to resume her part in the J. M. Barrie skit she is appearing in at the Hippodrome revue.

"I love England," she said, "because they gave me my chance there. America is good to actors and actresses, but it insists on retaining them in the field wher they started. If I appeared here in a serious play I would be laughed at. But it is the ambition of my life to return here, if I can make a success abroad, and be received as a serious actress. The same thing is shown in the case of Joe Coyne. They would not have him here in anything but silly English Johnnie parts, but abroad he has made himself an important figure as a legitimate comedian."

SOCIAL NOTES.

Devereux Milburn, who is to marry Miss Nancy G. Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele, on Nov. 1, has leased the house at 110 East Sixty-first Street. Miss Steele is now in Europe with her parents, whose town house is at 11 East Sixty-second Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Monell, Jr., of Tuxedo Park are being congratulated on the birth of a son at the Plaza last week. They plan to go to Tuxedo the latter part of this month.

Miss Estelle Sherlock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reginald Sherlock, whose engagement to Amédée Spadone was recently announced, is cruising with her sister, Mrs. Paul Plunkett, on Mr. Plunkett's yacht, Sappho. Mr. and Mrs. Sherlock are spending August at the Mount Washington in the White Mountains.

Miss Priscilla Alden Delano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Delano, is entertaining Miss Pauline Savage at a week-end party at the Delano country home at Garden City, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hillard Benjamin of 21 West Eleventh Street are in Buffalo, N. Y., for a week's visit.

Col. Moreton F. Gage, Military Attaché of the British Embassy, and Mrs. Gage are at the Vanderbilt for an extended visit.

Sir Thomas Robinson of Dublin is at the Knickerbocker for a visit.

The Misses Eva Buckinham, Frances Henry, and Dorothy Morrison are in town for a visit, and are at the Plaza.

Mr. and Mrs. James Herman Aldrich of 150 West Fifty-ninth Street, who have a Summer home at Sag Harbor, are at the Garden City Hotel.

The wedding is announced of Miss Helen Margaret Zabriskie, daughter of Mrs. N. V. B. Zabriskie of Englewood, N. J., to Luther M. Pease of Philadelphia, which took place on Wednesday in St. Paul's Church, Englewood. Mr. Pease, who is the son of Mrs. Mary L. Pease of Tenafly, N. J., and his bride will reside in Philadelphia.

FED GOATS ON LOVE LETTERS

Central Park Angoras Relished Epistles a Sad Youth Gave Them.

A dejected-looking young man stood in front of the Angora goat pen in the Central Park Menagerie yesterday morning, sorrowfully reading a letter which he held in one hand. In the other hand the young man held a package of letters tied with a blue ribbon. His only observers were an early morning visitor and the eight Angora goats which occupy the pen.

The young man sighed as he finished the letter. Then with tears in his eyes he gazed at the signature for a moment, and then handed the letter and envelope to one of the Angoras. The goat apparently relished the letter, and in a few moments had it devoured.

The other Angoras saw that there was something doing, and they grouped about the space in front of the dejected visitor. Tenderly taking the letters one by one, the young man fed each of the goats with them.

About this time the early visitor who was observing the young man told Bill Snyder, head keeper, and that official hurried over to the goat pen. On the way over Snyder explained to the citizen that many persons were in the habit of using the goats for a garbage can and a waste basket, and that the keepers had their hands full in trying to prevent this.

"What are you doing?" asked Snyder, as he approached the young man.

"I am feeding the goats love letters," said the young man with a sigh.

"What do you mean by feeding these goats with love letters? Do you want to make them sick?" asked Snyder.

MONKEY HALTS THE SHOW.

Jumps from Show Girl's Arm and Over Footlights at Roof Garden.

One of the monkeys that play leading parts in Lew Fields's Summer show, obviously envious of the attention attracted to a neighboring roof garden by a recent spectacular escape from captivity, selected the most wriggly moment in the "Wriggly Rag" number during the first act last evening to make a dash for liberty.

Ten monkeys are carried on the stage in this number by as many showgirls, and the one last evening in the arms of May Willard (left side of stage) is known to his friends as Baldy. All the monkeys wear little black velvet jackets to keep them from twisting or scratching, but Baldy got loose from his and the number was abruptly halted by a shriek from Miss Willard, testifying to the good scratch he had given her. She dropped him like a hot coal and over the footlights he went, bounding across the startled orchestra—which kept on playing manfully—and sailing up the aisle.

The laughter in the audience was blended with little squeals of alarm, until finally, after much hubbub, Baldy was captured by the joint efforts of a girl usher and Walter Moore, Vice President of the H. C. Miner Lithograph Company.

INVALID KILLED BY FALL.

Plunge from Window Fractures William T. Hubbard's Skull.

William T. Hubbard, a retired business man, died at the Polyclinic Hospital shortly after 1 o'clock this morning from a fracture of the skull caused by his fall from a window of his apartment on the second floor of 110 West Seventy-ninth Street.

Mr. Hubbard was 64 years old and was an invalid. Roy L. Smith, a nurse, was his constant attendant. Shortly before midnight last night Mr. Hubbard rose from his bed, told Smith that he was going to the next room, and walked out. Smith was startled a moment later by the sound of breaking glass and reached the parlor in time to see that his patient had plunged from the window and fallen to the areaway below.

Detectives of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station were busy this morning searching for some material on the basis of which they could decide whether to report this as a suicide or an accidental death. Sidney E. Sargent, Hubbard's brother-in-law, who lives at the Hotel Lucerne, could give them little information.

AIRMAN IN 2-MILE SLIDE.

Wood Stops Engine 9,000 Feet Up and Makes Safe Descent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Officers of the army Signal Corps to-day are discussing the 9,000-foot "slide" of C. Murvin Wood, the aviator, who stopped his engine nearly two miles above the earth late yesterday and plunged down through the gathering dusk to a successful landing on the parade ground at Fort Myer, Va. The descent occupied only four minutes.

The officers were preparing to have beacon fires lighted to guide the aviator back to his landing place when Wood began his spectacular slide. He had been aloft one hour and forty minutes and had sailed above the Virginia hills and far out into Maryland before he decided to come down.

Wood is demonstrating his monoplane for the army officials. The military aircraft at present are all biplanes.

BOY SAVES GIRL BATHER.

Police Lieutenant's Son Makes Rescue at Rockaway Beach.

After a battle in a heavy sea yesterday afternoon at Rockaway Beach 16-year-old Edward Schmid, son of Police Lieut. John C. Schmid of the 151st Precinct, Brooklyn, rescued a girl who got beyond her depth and was being carried out into the ocean.

Schmid is camping at Tent City, near Rockaway Beach. In the afternoon he was tossing a medicine ball around on the beach with several companions when the screams of a group of women bathers attracted him. He plunged into the water, and, after swimming out some distance, found Miss Rose Byrnes, 17 years old, living in Washington Avenue, Rockaway Park, in a helpless state. Despite the offerings of aid which came from the men swimmers who had appeared, Schmid waved them aside and carried the girl to shore. The sea was rough, and it was all the boy could do to get his burden from the water.

Miss Byrnes was revived and taken to her home.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

H. H. Frazee has obtained from George Bronson-Howard and Wilson Mizner the rights to "The Double-Cross," a White Slave play which was produced four years ago for a short time as "The Only Law." It will be presented on Sept. 7 at the Cort Theatre, Chicago, with Emmett Corrigan and Florence Rockwell. Arnold Daly, by arrangement with the Lieblers, will play one of the important roles of the piece for a short time.

John Emerson arrives on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria on Sunday from London, where he has been for the past four weeks directing the English production at the Comedy Theatre of "The Conspiracy," called there "The Scarlet Band." Marie Doro is in the leading part.

Gustav von Seyffertitz has been engaged by Arthur Hopkins to stage the version of Longfellow's "Evangeline," which he will offer at the Park Theatre on Sept. 29 with Edna Goodrich in the title role.

Rehearsals of "The Leopard's Spots," Thomas Dixon's dramatization of his novel of the same name, have started, with Viola Fitzpatrick, Edith Chase and Fred J. Adams in the principal roles.

The Edward MacDowell Association is conducting a festival of music on the pageant stage and in the Town Hall of Peterboro, N. H., which will continue through Sunday. Eusebius Godfrey Hood of Nashua is the conductor of the concerts, of which a feature is the performance of American compositions conducted by the composers.

M'LOUGHLIN EASILY DEFEATS CLOTHIER

Tennis Champion Eliminates Strong Player in Straight Sets at Newport Tourney.

WILLIAMS IN GOOD FORM

Davis Cup Player Wins from Law—Strachan and Niles Among the Survivors.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, Aug. 22.—Champion Maurice E. McLoughlin, the brilliant young Californian, defeated William J. Clothier of Philadelphia in decisive fashion today, winning in straight sets, and once more put an end to the efforts of the champion of 1906 to regain his title. It was the first time in thirty years that the singles champion has appeared on the championship court, and a big gallery was out to witness the sight of a present and a former title holder battling for premier honors. Except for a brisk breeze, which bothered both players conditions were all that could be desired, the day being bright and sunny and just warm enough to be pleasant.

There was no doubt of McLoughlin's superiority. Clothier had a chance to win the second set, but he failed to rise to the occasion when everything favored him, and once the opportunity slipped by Clothier was out of the running. The match was disappointing in many respects. It was brilliant in spots, both men having their good and their bad times, but it lacked the sustained hard hitting that marked the Williams-Johnston match of Thursday, and the thrilling moments were much less numerous. McLoughlin played below form in the first two sets, but in the third he increased his speed markedly and his service became quite unbeatable, being terrifically fast and placed with remarkable precision. Clothier was very slow in covering court, and only his phenomenal reach prevented him from being much more badly beaten. He made many amazing "gets" and did his best playing when in difficult positions. Most of his shots lacked place, and many of his most beautiful places went over so slowly that McLoughlin got to them and had another chance to win the point.

The tennis in the first set was mediocre. Both men were uncertain and disinclined to hit out. McLoughlin's service was slow and was broken through twice, but in spite of this he won the set at 6—4, after leading at 4—1. The misses were many, and both men handled difficult shots better than easy ones. Clothier was especially good on cross-court shots, and some of his back handers made when seemingly beaten went across the net with irresistible speed.

Clothier braced in the second set, getting the first game and leading at 2—1, 3—2, and 4—3. The Philadelphian was making many fine passing shots and playing his best games. In the eighth game Clothier broke through McLoughlin's service, the Californian erring badly and seeming to be in trouble. At that, however, it was slow tennis, both men frequently patting the ball over and appearing to be unable to go in and finish the point. At 5—3 Clothier got to 40—0 on his own service, and the set seemed his. But McLoughlin rose to the occasion and got to 30—40 on earned drives. Clothier then double-faulted and the score was deuce. McLoughlin netted, but Clothier double-faulted a second time. Again Clothier got to advantage on a pretty drive to the corner, and once more after that was within a point of the set. Three successive drives out lost him the game, and his chance was gone. McLoughlin won his service easily and then captured Clothier's, ending the set with the win of his own service.

In the third set McLoughlin won the first four games, and the match seemed over. Then Clothier made a remarkable spurt and climbed up to 5—4, although McLoughlin was playing better than at any time during the match. He could not keep up the pace, however, and McLoughlin won the tenth game easily, and with it the set and match at 6—3, 7—5, 6—4.

Three other matches were played, reducing the survivors to Niles, Washburn, Williams, Strachan, Johnson, and McLoughlin. Niles defeated Beekman in straight sets, but in the second was forced to a 9—7 score by the youngster, who led at 7—6. Beekman made many clever passing shots, and his service was very good. Williams had some trouble with Law, another Philadelphia youngster, who hit out in the second set and got six games. Williams was rather slack and made many errors. Strachan's win from E. H. Whitney was also in straight sets. Whitney was late in arriving, and Strachan, who wanted to watch the McLoughlin-Clothier match, was inclined to hurry matters.

To-morrow the Strachan-Johnson match will be put on the championship court. Efforts made to catch up the two matches which are behind—Williams-Washburn and Johnson-Strachan—were unsuccessful, and consequently the final round cannot be played before Tuesday. The summary:

All-Comers' National Championship.—Fifth Round—R. Norris Williams, Philadelphia, defeated E. C. Law, New York, 6—4, 8—6, 6—1; John S. Strachan, San Francisco, defeated E. H. Whitney, Boston, 6—4, 8—6, 6—1.

Tenth Round—Maurice E. McLoughlin, San Francisco, defeated William J. Clothier, Philadelphia, 6—3, 7—5, 6—4; N. W. Niles, Boston, defeated Leonard Beekman, New York, 6—0, 9—7, 6—2.

20,000 PAINTERS TO STRIKE.

Walkout Will Tie Up Renovation of Houses in This City.

Members of the International Painters and Paper Hangers' Union of this city decided yesterday to call a general strike on Monday, for a minimum wage scale of $20 a week, a working week of forty-four hours, a union agreement, and a guarantee from the master painters that they will assume responsibility for accidents to painters while at work. According to the officers of the union some 20,000 men will be involved in the strike.

Many of these painters are known as "alteration" painters and work in private houses. The strike will tie up renovation work in Fifth Avenue homes and in other districts where houses are renovated while their occupants are away from the city. The International Painters' and Paper Hangers' Union is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, but its officers said they had a promise from the A. F. of L. unions that their members would not take the places of the strikers.

Ruth Hamilton Dies of Wounds.

Ruth Hamilton, the seventeen-year-old girl, who was shot and mortally wounded on Wednesday night in Yonkers by her nineteen-year-old suitor, Charles Rich, who then killed himself, died yesterday morning in St. John's Hospital. From the time she was wounded until her death she did not cease to bewail the fact that his aim had not been sure enough to have them die together as they had planned. The girl's plea for a double funeral will not be heeded by the families.

Asks Aid for a Stricken Woman.

The Widowed Mothers' Fund Association appeals for aid for a poor widow and her three children. For some time prior to her husband's death and for two years afterward she had maintained the family. Recently she became consumptive. She has been well cared for in the last six months, and her physicians promise that she will be able to resume work if she follows their treatment for another three months. To do this it is necessary to assist her with $15 per month. The association plans to expend this aid. Donations will be welcomed by Mrs. Henry Zuckerman, 80 Broadway.

CLOAKMAKERS' DEMANDS.

Employers Must Put Up Bond to Carry Out Peace Terms.

New conditions were prescribed yesterday by the Settlement Committee of the striking cloakmakers in the settlements with a number of the sub-manufacturers. One of these conditions was that in the places where the irons used in pressing the garments were run by gas, machinery to run them by electricity must be used. Those whose shops are not equipped with electric power were required to give cash bonds to have their shops so equipped in a given time, failing in which their bonds would be forfeited.

Benjamin Feldman, one of the lawyers in charge of affairs for the Settlement Committee, at its headquarters in the Broadway Central Hotel, said that all the sub-manufacturers who settled were each required to give a promissory note for $1,000 as security for their observance of the terms of settlement, which included a clause to the effect that if the arbitrators to whom a demand for higher wages made on the Cloak, Suit, and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association had been referred granted the increases, these increases must be paid by the sub-manufacturers. If, on the affidavits of five of the employes of a sub-manufacturer, it is shown that he has violated any part of the agreement, the union, according to the agreement he is required to sign, can negotiate the $1,000 promissory note he has given. It was stated that about 4,000 of the strikers had gone back to work up to date under these agreements.

ATTACK STRIKEBREAKERS.

Reserves Out to Disperse Angry Knitters on Bridge Plaza.

A fight between several hundred striking knitters and strikebreakers, mostly women, on the Brooklyn plaza of the Williamsburg Bridge yesterday furnished excitement for hundreds of men and women going to their work over the bridge. The strikers had gathered early in the morning to intercept the non-union workers as they went to their work in the Kaiser Knitting Mills, 242 Broadway, directly opposite the plaza. As the workers appeared the strikers carried or dragged them to the open space of the plaza. About 100 of the strikebreakers gathered in a group to defend themselves from the attacks of the infuriated men and women, who have now been on strike for several weeks.

Policemen Toepfer and Shepard of the Clymer Street Station were on duty and fought to defend the knitters, but the strikers turned on the police and both men were badly scratched, punched and kicked and their uniforms torn. Business men about the plaza telephoned to the Clymer Street Station of the riot and the reserves were hurried out. After a lively fight the strikers were dispersed, three of them being arrested. The prisoners were Annie Schneider of 26 Montieth Street, Mary Waxman of 524 Bushwick Avenue, and Annie Britchoff, 176 Varet Street. They were held on charges of assault.

Knitters Returning to Work.

Of the 20,000 knitters, who went on strike in this city, 2,500 had returned to work up to yesterday evening, officers of the union announced, under settlements based on the demands.

ROBERT C. OGDEN LEFT $2,000,000

Will, Filed for Probate, Gives More Than $1,000,000 to His Two Daughters.

BIG BEQUEST TO BROTHER

Codicil Cuts Off Hampton Institute as a Residuary Legatee—Ogden Horses Remembered.

Specific legacies of $600,000 from an estate estimated to total more than $2,000,000 are made in the will of Robert C. Ogden, formerly one of the heads of the Wanamaker store in New York, and prominent in the educational movement in the South. Mr. Ogden died on Aug. 6 at his country home, Kennebunkport, Me. His will was filed for probate yesterday in the Surrogates' Court. His residence was at 125 East Fifty-sixth Street.

Although in the original will, dated Feb. 5, 1912, the residuary estate of more than $1,000,000 was divided in equal shares among his two daughters, Mrs. Julia Ogden Crary and Mrs. Helen Ogden Purves, and the Hampton Normal and Educational Institute of Hampton, Va., of which he was a Director, this institution was cut off from this legacy in a codicil dated Dec. 20, 1912, and that share bequeathed to a brother, Willis L. Ogden. No reason was assigned for this change, and other legacies to the Hampton Institute, one for $20,000 and a contingent interest in property valued at $100,000 was allowed to stand.

Each of the daughters receives under the will a life interest in a trust fund of $200,000, with power of appointment at death. In addition, Mrs. Purves gets a life interest in the house at 125 East Fifty-sixth Street and the country home at Kennebunkport with all its furnishings. For the upkeep of the town residence there is set aside a sum of $50,000 and for the country home $20,000. In case Mrs. Purves desires to sell the city residence the proceeds of this sale and the maintenance fund are to be divided equally among the two daughters and the Hampton Institute.

The personal effects not included in the furnishings of the two houses are divided equally between the two daughters, only children, but they are directed not to sell the horses he owned. When they become unfit for use they are to be given to friends who will care for them in the country and provide them with a "comfortable death." The testator also said, "if in any case the time should come when neither my children nor grandchildren care particularly to keep for their own pleasure the bronze testimonial given me on my seventieth birthday, or my birthday book, or the bronze Minerva given me by the City Park Sunday School, or my silver loving cup or similar presents, they shall give them to the Museum of Hampton Institute."

In addition to the one-third of the residuary estate bequeathed him under the codicil to the will, Willis L. Ogden receives a legacy of $25,000. He and two nephews, Willis D. and Howard O. Wood, are made executors of the estate and trustees of the funds set aside for the daughters. The executors are empowered to reinvest the assets of the estate in such manner only as is permitted by New York State laws for the investments of chartered banks. A sister, Mrs. Fannie Ogden Ide, receives a bequest of $20,000.

Other bequests include $2,000 to each of five nephews and nieces, $5,000 each to two grandchildren, Ruth and Robert Purves; $1,000 to Mr. Ogden's coachman, William H. Haney, and $500 to each of two domestics, Kate Lynch and Bridget Spellman. Besides the $20,000 legacy to the Hampton Institute, the other charitable bequests consist of $1,000 to the Dixie Hospital at Hampton, Va., and $8,000 to the Harriet Holland Memorial Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia.

VAMPS WANT BARS LOWERED

Queens Volunteers Ask Concessions for Entering Paid Fire Department.

Eleven out of thirteen companies of the Volunteer Fire Department of the Second Ward of Queens, which are to be mustered out of service on Sept. 1, when the paid department of the city will be installed there, have joined in a petition which is to be presented to Mayor Gaynor, Fire Commissioner Johnson, and the Municipal Civil Service Commission, asking that special arrangements be made to admit into the paid department members who have served as volunteers in the eleven companies. Mayor Gaynor several days ago directed that the requests of the volunteers be put in writing.

The Newtown volunteers have decided to ask that the age limit be increased from 25 years to 40 years; that the height be reduced from 5 feet 7½ inches to 5 feet 7 inches, and that all mental examinations be eliminated.

These concessions are asked on the ground that nearly every one who wants to enter the paid department has served from ten to twelve years as a member of the volunteer department and without pay.

ARREST PRINCE'S ACCUSER.

Los Angeles Immigration Officials Lock Up Mrs. Clara Melcher.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Clara Melcher, the Viennese laundress who accused Prince Stanislaus Sulkowski of Austria of having induced her to come to this country for immoral purposes, was taken into custody here to-day by immigration officials.

Mrs. Melcher was placed under arrest by Capt. Charles T. Connell, head of the immigration service in this city, on receipt of a warrant from Washington charging the woman with having come to this country for an immoral purpose.

Capt. Connell was unable to say whether she would be deported or held as a witness for the Federal Grand Jury in its investigation of her charges against Prince Sulkowski, who was married in this city recently to Miss Marie Louise Preese, a wealthy Los Angeles girl. The Prince and his bride left Vancouver for the Orient last week.

Miss Evelyn Tyson to Marry.

Mrs. James Wood Tyson of Baltimore has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Evelyn Bayly Tyson, to Herrick Faber Kidder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Camillus G. Kidder of Orange, N. J. Mr. Kidder makes his home in Winnipeg, Canada. The wedding is to be quietly celebrated at the country home of the bride's mother at South Strafford, Vt., on Sept. 10.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

BANKERS OPTIMISTIC ON CURRENCY LAW

Chicago Conference Told That Administration Will Make Compromises.

HEPBURN URGES CHANGES

Criticism of Framers of Owen-Glass Bill by Banker Forgan Brings Rebuke from Congressman Glass.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—A spirit of conciliation and compromise toward the Owen-Glass Currency bill as it is believed it will be amended was manifested at a conference of leading bankers from all parts of the country held here to-day. Before the conference adjourns to-morrow it is expected that the resolution recommending a number of important changes in the Currency bill now pending in Congress will be adopted and that the bankers will use their influence to assist President Wilson in obtaining currency legislation.

The change in the attitude of the bankers developed after George M. Reynolds, President of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, had addressed the meeting and told of an important conference he held in New York yesterday with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo at which amendments to the currency bill desired by the bankers were discussed and assurances given that the Administration was willing to remedy every reasonable objection to the measure. Mr. Reynolds was summoned to New York to confer with Secretary McAdoo last Wednesday to discuss the attitude of the bankers toward the proposed legislation. Mr. Reynolds outlined the principal objections of the bankers to the measure, and when he returned to Chicago to-day he felt confident the Administration would make a number of concessions in the final draft of the bill.

"Secretary McAdoo, in New York yesterday," said Mr. Reynolds in addressing the conference, "assured me the Administration desired to do all in its power in remedying the defects of which we have complained. Many amendments to the original bill already have been made. Several important defects pointed out by us have been corrected, and I think we can get other concessions if we go about it in a spirit of conciliation and compromise and express a willingness to meet the Government half way. I have had considerable contact with those in control of this bill in Congress, and I have found they are willing to listen and want to be fair. I predict that if we meet the Government in the proper spirit a bill reasonably satisfactory to the bankers and business men may be passed at the present session.

"We probably will not be able to get everything we want, but we may get legislation on the subject. I believe President Wilson can put through some kind of a currency bill and I favor cooperating with him in securing the best measure that political exigencies will permit.

"I believe we can get the number of Federal reserve banks reduced from twelve to five or six. I believe we can have changes made in the working of the clause referring to the Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board which will remove it from politics. I believe we can have the Advisory Committee of bankers clothed with the power of veto in connection with the management of the reserve banks."

Mr. Reynolds was vigorously applauded, and a moment later the attitude of the bankers toward the new Currency bill had apparently changed from opposition to willingness to compromise.

500 Changes Already Made.

F. J. Wade of St. Louis, also urged a policy of conciliation and endorsed everything Mr. Reynolds had said.

"If we cannot agree among ourselves in regard to the kind of a currency law that is needed, what can we expect of Congress?" he said. "We endorsed the Aldrich currency bill by a unanimous vote and it never got out of committee. Now we have a chance to get a bill passed and we should endeavor to get the best measure possible under the circumstances. There already have been 500 changes made in the bill since it was introduced, and I believe we can get many more if we go about it in the right way."

In his speech as Chairman, A. Barton Hepburn of New York sounded the keynote of the attitude the bankers are to maintain in their consideration of the pending currency measure. Mr. Hepburn gave "high praise" to the Administration for its earnestness in taking up the subject. He commended many features of the bill, but did not hesitate to indicate that there were others which in his opinion needed revision.

"I think we should consider the bill topic by topic, or section by section, in the spirit of helpful co-operation, and see if we cannot aid the Government to accomplish wise and wholesome legislation that will place our industries and our people on a par with other great commercial nations," said Mr. Hepburn.

The failure to develop fully the central bank idea, which he said was recognized in principle, and its consequent effect on many of the provisions of the bill was the criticism of greatest emphasis. The establishment of twelve banks instead of one, he pointed out, for the purpose of bringing together the money reserves of the country had made it necessary in order to make these reserves effective to provide a central board with powers greater than would be necessary for one central bank to possess. However, the recognition of the principle, Mr. Hepburn said was reason to rejoice.

Attacks Chairman Glass.

James B. Forgan of Chicago opened the discussion by introducing a set of resolutions pointing out numerous defects in the bill, and advising that Congress be asked not to pass any currency legislation at the present session, but defer action until a new bill, drafted by a commission composed of representatives of the Government, the bankers and business men of all classes appointed by the National Chamber of Commerce, had been given an opportunity to prepare a new bill. The resolutions were read, and after they had been discussed, were referred to the Committee on Resolutions for consideration. The committee will submit its report to the conference to-morrow.

"The present Currency bill is unworkable, impractical, and fundamentally bad, and, in my opinion, it cannot be remedied by amendment," said Mr. Forgan.

"An attempt to enforce it in its present form would bring about the most damnable contraction of currency ever seen in any country. It should be rewritten from the ground up. It is not our fault that the bill was drafted by men who knew nothing about the subject they were dealing with. I talked with the Chairman of the House Committee in charge of the bill, and he wrung his hands in despair and admitted he was incompetent to deal with the problem."

The following Committee on Resolutions was appointed to-day:

Representing the Currency Commission of the American Banking Association: A. Barton Hepburn, New York; James B. Forgan, Chicago; George M. Reynolds, Chicago; John Perrin, Los Angeles; Sol Wexler, New Orleans.

Representing the State Banking Associations—F. J. Hill, Connecticut; Nathan Adams, Texas; George A. Holderness, North Carolina; H. A. Moehlenpak, Wisconsin, and R. S. Hawes, Missouri.

Representing the Clearing House Associations—R. F. Maddox, Atlanta; Stoddard Joss, Los Angeles; S. D. Pitton, Hamilton, Ohio; E. F. Swinney, Kansas City, and Graham G. Lacey, St. Joseph, Mo.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—As a result of the criticism of the Owen-Glass Currency bill at the Chicago conference of bankers to-day, the Democrats of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency are considering the advisability of inviting a few well-known banking authorities to present their views to the committee. No definite action has been taken on this suggestion, but if the proposal is agreed to the hearings will be public.

At to-day's meeting of the majority members of the committee, the academic discussion of various phases of currency legislation was continued, but Chairman Glass of the committee made a brief reply to the personal criticism by James B. Forgan at the bankers' conference in Chicago.

"I modestly said to Mr. Forgan," said Mr. Glass, "that not being a practical banker, I felt myself at great disadvantage in dealing with the question. That was all, said in the privacy of my room. His statement as quoted is as false as his violation of personal privacy is gross."

SEE END OF HEALY INQUIRY.

Dropping of Investigation Predicted, Due to Gaynor's Rejection.

Although the investigation by the additional Grand Jury into the recent police raids on Healy's restaurant was resumed yesterday with the calling of four more witnesses, it was freely predicted about the corridors of the Criminal Court Building that in view of Tammany's rejection of Mayor Gaynor's candidacy for Mayor there would arise among the jurors a disinclination to continue the inquiry.

The real purpose of the investigation, it is generally admitted, is not so much the prosecution of the subordinates in the Police Department who were actually engaged in the ejection of patrons as the fastening of responsibility on the men higher up, who gave the orders. That there were such orders few doubt, but, it is pointed out, it would be difficult to prove the authorization for such treatment of Healy's patrons as is alleged by the witnesses whose testimony the Grand Jury has been reviewing.

The probable wording of the orders, it is said, was "Go up and see that the law is being obeyed. Eject all who are breaking the law."

Before the Grand Jury began its session yesterday morning John J. Dillon, the foreman, and five of the members conferred for nearly an hour with District Attorney Whitman. This gave rise to the rumors that there was some doubt whether the investigation would be continued. The attitude was that there was small chance of Mayor Gaynor's continuing in public life, and there was no object in carrying to the end an inquiry directed against his official acts.

Should the investigation be continued there is little doubt that Deputy Commissioner Newburger and possibly Deputy Commissioner McKay will be summoned to testify. Deputy Newburger, who was present when one of the raids took place, will be asked to waive immunity, it is said. Mr. McKay was acting Commissioner at the time, during the absence of Commissioner Waldo.

The four witnesses yesterday were Arthur Corrigan and George Kivil, reporters; James Hebron, an actor, and Frank Forsythe, a theatrical manager. Included in the evidence submitted was a flashlight photograph of one of the raids, in which Hebron is shown in the arms of a policeman, who lifted him up and was carrying him out bodily. Further hearings were postponed to Monday.

All through the investigation Mr. Whitman has made it plain that he is not taking the initiative, and that he will leave it entirely to the Grand Jury whether bills shall be found. His attitude is that the case should be considered entirely on its merits.

PUBLISHER DENIES GRAFT.

Wasn't in Chicago Voting Machine Deal, Says A. M. Lawrence.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 22.—Andrew M. Lawrence, publisher of The Chicago American, in an affidavit made in San Francisco, has denied the charges of graft made against him by Lloyd L. Duke, City Attorney of Ottumwa, Ia., in a written statement to the Butts Legislative Committee, which has been investigating alleged frauds in connection with a contract by which the Empire Voting Machine Company of Syracuse, N. Y., was permitted to install $1,000,000 worth of voting contrivances.

The statement of Mr. Duke, published in THE TIMES and other newspapers throughout the country, was entered on the record of the Butts Legislative Committee on Aug. 14. In his statement Mr. Duke charged that H. W. Barr, agent of the Empire Voting Machine Company, through officials of the city of Ottumwa, the home town of Charles A. Walsh, organizer of the Hearst Independence League, arranged to meet Mr. Walsh, and through him to get into personal touch with Mr. Lawrence, thereby obtaining the Hearst-Harrison influence, which controlled the Chicago administration. The statement further asserted that Mr. Barr had said that the deal cost his company $200,000, and that Mr. Lawrence was down on the list for $105,000.

In his affidavit, Mr. Lawrence says: "I never had any knowledge of such an agreement. I do not know H. W. Barr, and to the best of my knowledge and belief have never met him. He was never introduced to me by Charles Walsh or by any other person. All statements with reference to any interviews between myself and H. W. Barr and Charles Walsh, with reference to the sale of these machines, are absolutely and entirely false, and no such interviews ever took place.

GANGSTERS PELT POLICE.

Patrolman Catches Youths Who Assailed Him and His Companion.

Sheltered from the rain by the elevated railroad steps at 154th Street and Eighth Avenue, Patrolmen Lilly and Clancy of the West 152d Street Station were making plans last evening for a campaign against the gangsters and rowdies who have been baiting the police of late, when suddenly on the sidewalk close to them there crashed a beer bottle. It had been dropped either from the roof or from one of the upper stories of the five-story tenement on the southeast corner.

Lilly and Clancy jumped out and looked upward. Their assailants had evidently planned thus to get them out from under cover, for their appearance was the signal for a downpour of bricks. Struck by one of them, Lilly fell. Clancy dodged and ran up the stairs of the tenement. On the roof, he caught two youths, who said they were Martin Timmons of 266 West 153d Street and John Edmunds of 600 West 192d Street. He sent them to the station on a charge of assaulting a policeman, and then took Lilly, who was bruised and cut, to the Washington Heights Hospital for treatment.

FIRE FRIGHTENS GUESTS.

Grab Their Valuables and Flee When Chimney Blaze Starts.

CROTON LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The Colonial Hotel, a four-story frame structure, caught fire this evening to the great alarm of 100 guests. The blaze started from a chimney. The chemical engine at Mount Kisco responded to an alarm and the flames were put out after damage of $4,000 had been done.

When the fire started many of the guests, in their alarm, grabbed their valuables and fled to the open. The guests were able to return to their rooms after the fire was put out.

WHOOPING COUGH A GERM DISEASE

VACCINE TREATMENT HELPS

But Further Study Is Necessary to Perfect It—Results of Laboratory Tests.

It has just been definitely established that whooping cough is caused by a germ which has been named the bacillus pertussis by Bordet and Gengou, its discoverers. This organism was suspected some time ago and a vaccine treatment undertaken on this basis. Laboratory findings have confirmed the belief of the two physicians named. Whooping cough is known in medical nomenclature as pertussis.

Commenting editorially on the discovery, The Medical Record says:

"It was over a year ago that we had occasion to call attention to the vaccine treatment of pertussis which had apparently exercised a favorable influence over the course of the disease in a number of instances. At that time the Bordet-Gengou bacillus had been found constantly in certain stages of the disease, and complement fixation tests with this organism were fairly constantly positive. Whether this bacillus was the true causative agent or merely a secondary invader had not been definitely determined.

"Of late, however, evidence to this end has become conclusive. Mallory and Horner at first demonstrated 'that the primary essential lesion of whooping cough consists in the presence of masses of minute bacilli between the cilia of the epithelial cells lining the trachea and bronchi. Their action is chiefly mechanical; they interfere with the normal movements of the cilia by sticking them together; in this way the microorganisms furnish a continual irritation which results in the symptoms peculiar to the disease.' They used this lesion as a criterion in their later animal experimentation, and they report now some very important results (Journal of Medical Research, XXVII., 391, 1913.)

"It had previously been demonstrated that puppies were susceptible to the disease. These animals were inoculated intratracheally with sputum from patients in the active stage of the disease, and when killed six weeks later the characteristic lesion was found in the trachea. This lesion in all the infected animals corresponds in every way with that found in man. Sections show clearly that the cilia are not destroyed and that the cells are not injured in any noticeable way. Pure cultures of the organism were then obtained from the sputum of suitable patients and a culture of the original Bordet-Gengou strain was used for comparison and control. They corresponded in every way.

"The authors inoculated several puppies and rabbits with these pure cultures by injecting them into either the nares or the trachea. In practically every instance they were able to demonstrate the characteristic lesion in the trachea of the animal and in several instances were able to recover the organism, not only from the trachea, but also from the nares. It is interesting to note that normal puppies were readily infected if kept in more or less intimate contact with inoculated animals.

"By this work all the demands of Koch's laws are satisfied, and the bacillus pertussis of Bordet and Gengou is definitely and conclusively proved to be the etiological factor in whooping cough. These findings should not only stimulate investigation of the vaccine treatment of the disease, a treatment which has already met with a certain measure of success, but should also arouse the attempt to find a specific antibody which might be suitable for therapeutic purposes.

"In animals and man the bacilli diminish and finally disappear in the course of a few weeks, and the complement deviation tests are regularly positive, two observations which would indicate the presence of some antibody. It should be a fruitful field, and it is to be hoped that it will not be neglected."

PATIENT INSISTS ON CURE.

Won't Leave Hospital and Is Arrested for Trespassing.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—Forcibly ejected from Grace Hospital, which he had refused to leave because, during a treatment of seventeen months he had not been made whole, Thomas Walsh, a cripple, will be committed to the State Hospital at Tewksbury.

Walsh, who is 45 years of age, was an iron worker when he suffered a fracture of the thigh. He entered the hospital, a private institution here, on March 25, 1912. He was operated upon several times, after which repeated attempts were made to discharge him as nearly cured as he could be. But the iron worker, insisting that his helpless leg be restored, refused to be discharged. Yesterday the hospital authorities preferred a charge of trespass against him, and he was carried by police into police court. Walsh's hospital bills have been paid by his former employers, and he says he will fight to the end against becoming a public charge.

CONVICTS ARE REWARDED.

Prisoners Who Helped Pull Missouri Out of Mud Freed.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 22.—Gov. Major to-day released from the State Penitentiary twenty-two convicts who worked on the roads during the goods roads movement Wednesday and Thursday. The commutations were in accordance with the Governor's promise to take fifteen days off the sentence of every man for each day he worked. The twenty-two men had earned thirty days' commutation.

Seventy-eight other convicts worked on the roads, and they also will receive a commutation of sentence.

278 Business Failures This Week.

Bradstreet's reports 278 failures for the week ended Aug. 21, against 272 for the previous week and 264, 198, 235, and 201 for the corresponding week in 1912, 1911, 1910, and 1909. Canada had 55, against 25 of the previous week. The Middle States had 82, New England 27, Southern 59, Western 55, Northwestern 13, and Far Western 32. In the United States about 81 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had $5,000 capital or less, and 11 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

Sues Hotel for False Arrest.

George B. Mott of 18 West 104th Street started a suit yesterday in the Supreme Court for $100,000 damages for false arrest against the Hotel Marie Antoinette, charging that the hotel officials had him locked up on a warrant signed by Magistrate Campbell on May 18 last, and that he was discharged on the following day. Mott could not be reached last night, and there was no one at the hotel who would admit that he knew anything about Mott's arrest.

Big Navy Radio Station for Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—One of the largest wireless stations in the world will be established at the United States Naval Training Station at Lake Bluff. Capt. E. R. Clark, commandant, announced to-day that $100,000 will be spent in its construction. The station will be able to communicate directly with San Francisco and New York.

CRUSADERS IN FREIGHT CAR.

"Root" and "Parkhurst" Also Passengers with the Suffragettes.

Special to The New York Times.

HIGHLAND MILLS, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The Votes for Women crusaders rode into this village to-night, but not on horseback. Instead they arrived here in a freight car, "Senator Root" and "Dr. Parkhurst" also being occupants. The horses seemed to enjoy this mode of hiking better than any other. The suffragettes and the horses left Goshen this afternon for Highland Falls, but when they got here, rain was falling, and they decided to put up here for the night.

The Orange County Designating Committeemen of the Republican Party met in Goshen to-day, and the crusaders waylaid them at the St. Elmo Hotel, where they were dining. The chief victims were Alexander Sutherland, ex-Sheriff of Orange County, and Henry Hallock, Jr., of Highland Mills, each being inveigled into parting with a dollar for buttons and pencils. The two crusaders stationed themselves on either side of the dining room door, and every man that came out was forced to pay a quarter for a button and a quarter for a pencil. If a man objected, the ex-Sheriff rifled his pockets of the requisite cash and pinned a "Votes for Women" hat band on him to boot.

Among those who submitted willingly were George F. Gregg, Chairman of the Republican County Committee; Mayor Cox of Middletown, Robert E. Hock, President of the village of Goshen, and other county celebrities. Then Mr. Wilson of The Newburg News offered his motor to the crusaders for a speech, and the Republicans were told they should vote for votes for women in 1915. At 2 o'clock the suffragettes said good-bye to the bebuttoned and enthusiastic men and made their way to the freight car.

Two hoboes who had watched the collection came up and offered to take care of Parkhurst and Root entirely free of charge throughout the journey, but Capt. De Forest said "No." An hour later the votes for women special was ready for the start. With a votes for women flag flying from the engine and every one of the crew with a button, the train pulled out with two terrified suffragettes hanging on to the heads of two terrified horses and a water bucket effectively soaking the votes for women literature unhindered.

On the long journey to Highland Mills the crusaders were cheered at every station as they waved their banners from the door of the freight car. When they got to Central Valley at about 7 o'clock, they found there was no way of unloading the horses. So the car had to be taken to Highland Mills to unload. A drizzling rain was falling, and with fifteen miles of mountain roads to travel in the dark, the crusaders decided to put up at Highland Mills for the night and will start for Highland Falls early to-morrow morning.

NORA BLATCH DE FOREST.

ST. ANDREW MEN TO MEET.

4,000 Expected to Attend Brotherhood Convention Oct. 1 to 5.

Committees holding final meetings at Zion and St. Timothy Church, Fifty-seventh Street, near Eighth Avenue, completed plans last night for a national convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, to be held in this city Oct. 1 to 5, immediately preceding the opening of the Episcopal General Convention, which assembles on Oct. 8. It is expected that about 4,000 men will attend. Delegations largest in number will come from Philadelphia, where the brotherhood is strong, but Chicago, Pittsburgh, Washington, Boston, and cities of the Southwest, St. Louis, Louisville, Nashville, and Cincinnati are also planning big delegations.

The brotherhood is a men's organization in the Episcopal Church, started twenty-five years ago, pledged to pray for the spread of Christ's kingdom, and to make stated efforts to bring other men to Christ through the Church. There are about 15,000 members, and their national conventions, like the one here, are great rallying times for men engaged in spiritual work. Mass meetings will be held in Carnegie Hall and the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Bishop Greer of this city will preside at a number of the meetings, and prominent clergy to be heard include Bishop Brent of the Philippines, Bishop Woodcock of Kentucky, Dean Sumner, the eugenic leader of Chicago; the Rev. Dr. James E. Freeman of Minneapolis, and the Rev. Dr. T. W. Powell, President of King's College, Canada. Dean Rousmaniere of the Boston Cathedral will conduct a service in preparation for the communion service. Leading laymen who will speak include George Wharton Pepper and Edward H. Bonsall, Philadelphia; Robert H. Gardiner, Boston; Courtney Barber, Chicago, and Dr. W. C. Sturgis, Colorado.

JOHANN CAUGHT IN PIPE.

Ritz-Carlton Barber Paid Dearly for Thirst for Knowledge.

Anybody who applied for ministrations at the barber shop of the Ritz-Carlton yesterday morning must have noticed that something was wrong with the forefinger with which Johann, the Austrian artist, guides a careful razor over resisting stubble. Inquiry revealed that the afternoon before Johann had developed a thirst for knowledge, and if anybody heard the shrieks and moans that emanated from him while he was trying to investigate how deep the hole was in the pipe on the wall, this is to inform him that no tragedy was in progress.

A fixture had been removed from the pipe, and Johann, in a playful, adventurous spirit, poked his finger into the aperture that was disclosed. He stuck it down, and then further. Having attained the depth permitted by the circumference of his digit and the same of the hole, he became minded to withdraw. He could not. The finger stuck, and Johann began to lament. The other occupants of the shop got hold of Johann and tried to pull him away from the pipe, but he roared the louder. Wherefore, applying a physical principle, they tried cold water on the finger, but the pipe contracted as well. Not until the boss barber thought of cold cream and applied it with a liberal rubbing was Johann released.

BUSINESS RECORDS BROKEN

Foreign Trade of U. S. Last Month Greatest Ever Known.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—As an international department store the United States is rapidly becoming the shopping centre of the world, for in July the business done with other nations exceeded all records for any single month in the history of this nation. The Department of Commerce, in a statement made public to-day, takes added satisfaction in the showing because this record was established in spite of the fact that the imports fell below those of July, 1912. The balance of trade was all in favor of American manufacturers and producers.

Last month the exports were more than $11,000,000 greater than in the corresponding month of last year, while in the twelve months ending with July 31 the goods sent abroad exceeded in value by more than $252,000,000 the merchandise and product sold to foreign buyers in the preceding twelve months.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The low prices ruling during the past season stimulated Greek purchases of American cotton, and the total importation during 1912 amounted to 6,500 bales of good middling quality. The importation of American cotton is now effected under favorable conditions, because buyers now purchase direct from New Orleans and Galveston instead of through European markets.

At the close of the week ending July 26, 1913, the total output of sugar for the island of Cuba was 2,254,232 long tons, according to the semi-official figures announced. This is in excess of the largest preliminary estimate of the sugar output made at the beginning of the season and is over 850,000 tons greater than any previous production.

Interest has been aroused in Vancouver over the recent discovery of large coal areas on Smoky River in Alberta Province, near the British Columbia border, along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. If this find proves valuable, it is thought it will eventually add to the shipping of Vancouver.

The Water Committee of the Birmingham (England) City Council is considering recommending to the council the expenditure of $3,000,000 to $3,650,000 for constructing a third pipe line of seventy miles from the Elan Valley in Wales, to provide for the city's future growth.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Small Dealers Should Buy Small.

"More small business ventures come to grief because their owners overstock on merchandise that does not sell quickly than for any other reason," said a well-known wholesaler of small wares yesterday. "Let me show why small merchants, as well as large, should buy often and in small lots. Take a slow-selling article that wholesales, for example, at $9 a dozen, or 75 cents each. Suppose that buying this article single means that it costs 78 cents. The 36 cents saved on the dozen purchase looks fine at the time of buying, and often swings a sale. Suppose, however, that it takes six months to sell the twelve articles at a profit of 25 per cent. This means that the $9 spent earns $3.25 in six months. Suppose, on the other hand, that one article had been bought at 78 cents, had been sold at the same profit, and the remaining $8.22 had been put into more active merchandise. It is not unusual in this business to turn stock over four times in six months on certain goods. This $8.22 in stock, turned four times with a 25 per cent. profit, would mean that the merchant would take in about $42 with a $9 investment, instead of $11.25 as on the dozen purchase."

⁂

Two Popular Fabrics in One.

A Fourth Avenue firm of silk-selling agents, which sprang into commercial prominence several months ago as the creators of "Nellrose," has again put something new on the market. This time it is a fabric which combines the much-worn plain and crinkled crêpes with plaid designs, thus uniting two of the most popular features of the Fall demand in silks. It has been named "Wildfire" plaid crêpe.

⁂

Men's Wear Fabrics Down.

On Wednesday some of the large textile manufacturers brought out some Spring lines fully 10 to 20 per cent. cheaper than the prices quoted when Spring goods were first opened. A line of fancies at 47½ cents was offered, the quality of which, according to a clothing manufacturer, was as good as, if not better than, a corresponding line for which 55 cents was asked at the opening. Last week a line of serges was shown at 72½ cents that compared favorably with a line originally opened at 77½ cents. Worsteds will be largely used for the coming Spring, as they are about 15 per cent. cheaper than formerly. The same manufacturer said that any such idea as that worsteds would constitute 75 per cent. of the Spring fabrics used was ridiculous, as mills in this country are run to turn out fully 90 per cent. woolens and could not produce that amount of worsteds. He considered that 15 per cent. worsteds and 85 per cent. woolens would more nearly represent the ratio.

Mannish Dress Goods Popular.

According to reports heard in the Worth Street dry goods district yesterday, mannish effects in dress goods will be featured by a number of manufacturers of ready-to-wear garments later in the season. A widening demand for stripe and check effects has already been seen in some houses. Trading with the jobbers of dress goods is keeping up well, despite the advancing season. Staple fabrics are seasonably active, with matelasses, plaids and duvetyn leading the buying in fancies for Fall.

⁂

Exporters to Meet Here.

Plans are now being formulated for the fourth annual convention of the American Manufacturers' Export Association, of which Secretary of Commerce Redfield was a former President. Secretary Douglass of the association said yesterday the convention will be held at the Hotel Astor on Sept. 25. The morning session will be given over to the election of officers and other business matters. Several prominent men will make addresses at the afternoon session. The association's annual dinner will be given at the Astor in the evening.

Shoe Styles Coming from West.

The West is making itself felt this year in Fall styles of women's shoes. A model known as the "Baby Doll" in that part of the country is said to be finding its way East with surprising rapidity. It is a low-heeled, broad-toed strap effect. Some of the most popular types of this model in the West are of the spring-heel variety, and modifications of them are already being shown here. Strap effects and combinations will be much worn here this Fall. Buckles will continue to be used extensively as shoe garnitures.

Store Has College Room.

A clothing house in the Middle West has set aside part of its salesroom for the use of students in colleges and schools during vacation periods. The room is decorated with college pennants and pictures, and is provided with writing materials and files of college papers. Of course, that portion of the concern's stock in which young men would be interested is not far away.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Collector Sustained on Velvet Belting—Clerical Errors Costly.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday settled a dispute between the Government and G. W. Sheldon & Co. over colored cotton velvet belts adversely to the importers. The Collector at Chicago levied 47½ per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 325, Act of 1909, on manufactures of cotton velvet. The importers asserted that the velvet was belting for machinery, dutiable at 30 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 330, or as manufactures of cotton at 45 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 332. Testimony failed to establish that the belting was used for machinery.

A. S. Lascelles & Co. presented to the Collector invoices of peppers, in which the value of the tin coverings was not included. The Collector added to make foreign market value and assessed under Sub-Section 7 of Section 28 of the present law. The importers asserted that the omission of the tins was a manifest clerical error. The board, following a recent ruling of the Court of Customs Appeals, held that it had no power to correct errors other than those manifest upon the face of the invoice.

Other protests involving clerical errors overruled were by M. J. Corbett & Co., C. H. Wyman & Co., Crowley Brothers, Smith & Schipper, John L. Vandiver, George Lueders & Co., Farbenfabriken of Elberfeld Company, Ernst Wiener Company, North American Mercantile Company, and Jordan, Marsh & Co.

DRY GOODS TRADE STRONG.

Marshall Field & Co. Find Desirable Merchandise Scarce.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Immediate business is keeping up strong, and, as the Fall season opens up, there is more evidence of the scarcity of desirable merchandise, the increase in road sales during the week, together with market purchases, indicating that retailers are beginning to anticipate their needs liberally for the coming few months. Our shipping department is working overtime to get out current and Sept. 1 shipments.

"Buyers have been in the market in unusual numbers from the South and Southwest, particularly from Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas, and eastern Oklahoma, where crop conditions are much improved, and they report an increased confidence among the dry goods trade."

CONDITION OF TRADE.

Discussing the trade news of the week Dun's Review says in its issue of today:

Recent expansion in commercial activity is generally maintained, although more or less irregularity is manifest in reports from the leading trade centres. The holiday season tends to restrict current demands, yet the movement of merchandise continues liberal and the low position of stocks at all points leads to increased preparations for future requirements.

The demand for wool textiles is increasing and mill operations are expanding. Spring openings of dress fabrics have commenced and prices show less reduction than is noted in men's wear. Tanners of leather are not carrying burdensome stocks, but current trade is quiet as purchases are closely confined to actual wants.

Bradstreet's summarizes the situation thus:

Optimism concurrent with good buying furnishes the keynote for this week's trade report. Visiting buyers have held sway in most of the country's leading markets, and while those from parts of the drought afflicted Southwest have operated rather conservatively, the general run have bought with more or less liberality. In consequence house trade, especially in dry goods and allied lines, has broadened perceptibly.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

HENRY STONE and HARRIS COHEN.—A petition has been filed against Henry Stone and Harris Cohen, individually and as copartners trading under the firm name of Stone & Cohen, jewelers, at 43 Maiden Lane, by the following creditors: Max Banwey, $312; Alexander Forstein, $525, and Morris Glassman, $80.

CHARLES FLOYD, a wood turner, residing at 120 Down Street, Kingston, N. Y., has filed a petition here, with liabilities of $1,758 and no assets.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

A new white felt sailor hat is being shown. At the base of the crown is a narrow black cord ribbon, edged at the top with a white narrow breast. On the left side, toward the back, is a plaited black ribbon rosette with a white wing extending from the centre.

Strong items in the lace market now are shadow allovers and nets. They are called for in every part of the costume, from the nightgown and underclothing to the evening wrap.

A black charmeuse gown with a wired net tunic embroidered with beads in pastel colors and having a jet border and girdle is attracting favorable comment.

The fichu with a medici ruff is one of the more popular models in the neckwear field at present. Some of the most dainty fichus are developed in sheer net with filmy net frills.

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL PATTERNS

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns

are fast becoming the fashion authority of the country. Any style can be expressed in a pattern. The feat is to secure the correct style. Our organization is in the closest touch with the fashion centres of the world. It has both the means and the ability to offer the women of America the latest and most authoritative styles in the form of practical paper patterns.

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns,
615 West 43rd Street, New York

It takes more than three hundred stores to distribute Ladies' Home Journal Patterns in New York City alone.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, SECOND DEPARTMENT.

In the matter of the application of The City of New York to acquire certain real estate at Valley Stream, Lynbrook, Rockville Centre, Baldwin, Freeport, Merrick, Bellmore, and Seaford, in the Town of Hempstead, in the County of Nassau, for purposes of water supply.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE report of Franklin A. Coles, Edward S. Fowler, and William J. Youngs, the Commissioners of Appraisal appointed herein, was filed in the office of the Clerk of the County of Nassau on the 31st day of July, 1913, and that the said report will be presented for confirmation to the Supreme Court at a Special Term thereof for contested motions, to be held in and for the County of Kings, at the County Court House, in the Borough of Brooklyn, City of New York, on the 25th day of September, 1913, at the opening of Court on that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard.

Dated August 11, 1913.

A SERIES OF ABSTRACTS OF THE REPORTS of the inquiry into New York Schools will be issued by the Public Education Association during the latter part of August and in September. These abstracts will comprise "The Compulsory Attendance Service of New York City," by Dr. Jessie D. Burks; "Problems of the Elementary School," by Dr. Frank M. McMurry; "The System of General Supervision and the Board of Examiners," by Dr. Edward C. Elliott; "Course of Study in the High Schools," by Dr. Calvin O. Davis, and "Commercial Education," by Dr. Frank V. Thompson. The report of Dr. Frank Goodnow and Dr. Frederic C. Howe upon the administrative machinery of the education system will follow. The abstracts are free to members, and additional copies may be obtained at fifteen cents each from the Association, 40 West Thirty-second Street.

MADE LAKE ON HOTEL ROOF.

Browser Children Sailed Boats at the Waldorf in Portable Tank.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Y. Browser, their two children, and a maid, left the Waldorf yesterday, after a short stay. They had been spending some time at Atlantic City, where the two little boys, aged five and seven years, had taken up navigation, on a miniature scale, and among the family baggage were two small sailboats and a motor boat, likewise diminutive.

Thursday afternoon the clerk at the information desk got a message from the roof that made him turn pale and call for one of the managers. The latter put the telephone receiver to his ear.

"Water, you said?" he asked. "Ten gallons of it! What's the matter?"

He couldn't make out the reply, and he hurried to the nearest elevator and ordered the attendant to run to the end of the line without stops at way stations.

When the manager reached the roof he found the two Browser children and their nurse, with the Browser squadron standing by, while a porter unfolded a large piece of canvas, which turned out to be a tank.

The reason why the manager had not been able to understand the order given over the telephone was that the maid had said they wanted the water to make a lake with. Teddy and Buster Browser wanted to sail their boats, and there was no stream on the roof, so they had taken up their portable tank, which Papa Browser had purchased with the two schooners and the motor boat.

It was the first time, it was said, that water had ever been ordered at the Waldorf for such a purpose.

TRAP CATCHES HOLD-UP MEN

Police Emerge from Hiding and Chase Fugitives in Woods.

Andrew Murdock of 231st Street and Bailey Avenue was driving a wagon on Kingsbridge Road near Hub Terrace yesterday afternoon when, at a lonesome spot, two young men jumped out of the bushes and bade him halt. Instead, he whipped up his horse and got away.

Murdock went directly to his friend, James Madio of 3,446 Heath Avenue, who was driving a butcher's wagon along the same road on Friday afternoon, when two young men held him up at the point of a pistol, took his cash and his stick-pin and ran into the woods. Taking Madio along as a witness and getting two policemen from the Kingsbridge Station, Murdock returned along the road and out from the bushes came two young highwaymen. The policemen at once appeared from the bottom of the wagon, where they had been hidden from view. There was a chase through the woods and Lawrence Ricci of 2,450 Belmont Avenue, the Bronx, was caught. He will be examined in the Morrisania Court on Monday.

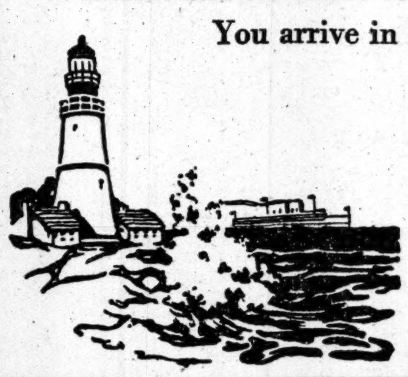
The OUTSIDE Line
TO BOSTON

You go aboard shortly before 5 o'clock. The rest of the long, summer afternoon you breathe salt breezes on deck, and watch the unfolding shores of the Sound.

As twilight deepens, you find you have a real appetite. You eat a dinner that does it justice. Finally you turn in for a glorious night's sleep out at sea.

If you are wise, you will be up early to view the romantic islands and sea-traffic of Massachusetts Bay.

You arrive in Boston refreshed, ready for the day.



Leave Pier 18, North River, foot of Murray St., at 5 P.M. weekdays and Sunday. Due Boston 8.30 next morning. Fare $4.00; inside 2-berth staterooms, $1.00; 2-berth outside rooms, $2.00. Electric fans in inside rooms. Tickets and staterooms at Wharf Offices, at 290 Broadway, also Tourist and N. Y. Transfer Co. offices.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Recover After Sharp Decline—Mexican News a Large Factor—Money Improvement.

More reassuring reports from Washington regarding the Mexican situation had a good deal to do with turning prices upward yesterday after the market had, for the first couple of hours of trading, been under sufficient pressure to cause some sharp declines. It was not that the volume of liquidation was large, but that the buying support was insufficient to enable the list to stand firm under a moderate amount of selling. Both the retreat from the low prices of the session and the previous selling which had brought these prices about, seemed to represent professional trading operations. As on previous days the market became extremely dull in the afternoon, and the fact that even under these conditions prices rose suggested that there was little or no outside pressure. The early morning news regarding Mexico had been variously interpreted, but the decline which began when the Stock Exchange opened probably reflected the prevailing view that the proposed submission of information regarding the negotiations with Mexico to Congress indicated that those negotiations were in very unsettled state. The later reports included a statement attributed to the President himself that the outlook had improved and these served to offset the impression which the news in the morning papers had left on the minds of traders.

Further evidence was supplied yesterday of the favorable tendency which has lately prevailed in the money market. More was heard of time loans running to the close of December at 5 per cent., and some purchases of commercial paper, also maturing in December, were made as low as 5¼ per cent. Sentiment has played a large part in the change which has occurred in the money market, and some bankers are beginning again to urge caution less the relatively easy rates prevailing now in August, a season normally of easy money, should lead to a condition of over-confidence regarding the money position later in the year. There are plenty of signs that notwithstanding the Treasury aid to the banks in the South and West, the banks here will be called upon to provide a large amount of cash for the interior. The pressure upon the New York banks for loans has greatly lessened, but arrangements continue to be made for accommodation to interior banks this Fall. It is plainly necessary for the banks which are receiving cash from the Treasury to bear in mind that this money is intended merely to supply temporary relief, and that it must in due course be surrendered to the Treasury. That is something which it is easy for banks which are being pressed by their customers for loans to forget, but they are under ample notice that it should not be forgotten. Much has been recently gained regarding the position of the money market, but inflationary tendencies should be discountenanced for the sake of the orderly readjustments which are still needed, and to assure the handling of the Autumn's business with a minimum of friction.

Reports of cooler weather and some rains in the Southwest played a part in the afternoon's recovery in prices. The weekly trade reviews made it plain that the drought in the Southwest has caused the adoption in the districts particularly affected of a conservative attitude toward commitments for Fall trade. But the merchandise demand, taking the country at large, seems to bear out fully the hopeful view which merchants have taken of business prospects for the balance of the year. There are some important facts, such, for example, as the declines which have occurred in steel prices, which are at least cautionary influences, but it continues to be true of business as a whole that it is better than had been expected. The country's foreign trade figures for July again reflected the influence of the coming change in the tariff. Imports were smaller than last year, but exports were larger, the largest in fact on record for the month of July. The excess of exports for the month was by far the largest since July, 1905. The new fiscal year thus starts excellently in our foreign trade.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2@2⅛ per cent., with the last loan at 2⅛ per cent. The renewal rate was 2¼ per cent.

Time money rates were 3¼@3¾ per cent. for sixty days, 4½@4¾ per cent. for ninety days, 4½@5 per cent. for four months, 5@5½ per cent. for five months, and 5@5¼ per cent. for six months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 6 per cent. for the best names.

Clearing House exchanges, $262,141,760; balances $16,239,810; Sub-Treasury credit balance, $886,833.

The local banks lost $4,844,000 on their Sub-Treasury transactions this week.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 3¾ per cent. for short bills, and 3⅞ per cent. for three months' bills. Paris, 3⅜ per cent., and Berlin, 5 per cent. Money was 4@4¾ per cent. in Berlin, and 2¾ per cent. in London.

The Berlin check rate on London was 20 marks 44 pfennigs. The Paris check rate on London was 25 francs 25 centimes.

Foreign exchange rates at the points noted were quoted as follows:

THE TREASURY STATEMENT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The Treasury statement issued to-day gives receipts and expenditures for the present month and for the fiscal year as follows:

	Month.	Fiscal Yr.
Customs	$21,279,587	$49,086,241
Int. rev. ordinary	17,222,535	42,943,383
Corporation tax	198,014	2,051,313
Miscellaneous	2,544,961	7,395,683
Total receipts	41,246,098	101,476,622
Expenditures	44,708,101	114,622,308
Deficit	3,463,003	13,145,685

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Guaranteeing Money Rates.

Money brokers in placing time loans sometimes guarantee personally to lenders reasonable rates of interest for a short period beyond the maturity of the loan which they are making. This is by way of extra inducement to the borrower, and is very apt to be done in the case of loans maturing late in December, when there is more or less probability of relatively high rates for call money due to the preparations for the January disbursements. Many loans maturing in December are being put out at this time. These guarantees do not always work out well for the money broker. A Stock Exchange borrower cited an instance yesterday in which he had been guaranteed against abnormal interest rates for thirty days beyond the period covered by the time loan. On that occasion the loan matured in a period of very high money, and it cost the money broker $1,200 to make good his guarantee on a $200 loan. That could only happen in time of money stress. The prevailing opinion in banking circles is now that we shall get through the rest of the year without any great strain.

Southern Pacific Certificates.

Under the terms of the Union Pacific's offer, payment can be made for the Southern Pacific certificates at any time up to Sept. 2. In a few instances payments have been made in full, and an inconsequential number of the certificates have been exchanged for Southern Pacific stock. These advance payments are not likely to assume large proportions. Unless precedents are broken, most of the money falling due on the certificates offered by the Union Pacific will not be paid until the last few days of the time allowed to the stockholders.

Underwriting Commissions.

Inquiry made at the special meeting of the New Haven stockholders brought out the fact that J. P. Morgan & Co. as organizers of the syndicate which underwrote the $67,000,000 issue of New Haven debentures will receive one-half of one per cent. for their services in addition to the two per cent. which will be paid to the members of the underwriting syndicate. It is understood in the case of the Southern Pacific underwriting that in addition to the two and a half per cent. which the members will receive, the bankers forming the syndicate will be allowed one per cent., with a quarter of one per cent. for expenses.

Gold Imports and Discounts.

The aspect of the London discount market was altered materially recently by the extensive movement of gold from South America, which has now been under way for several weeks. London comment on the position of the discount market asserts that the effect of these gold arrivals was anticipated in the decline in discount rates and that a further decline on the actual arrival of the gold could not be expected reasonably. It would seem that the answer to the question whether the money market has yet felt the full effect of this gold inflow would depend on the extent of the movement. It has already been checked to some extent, but there are reports of further engagements.

The New Haven Meeting.

When stockholders of the New Haven Railroad began to straggle yesterday into the large front room on the second floor of the "Yellow Building," as the company's headquarters in New Haven are known, they told one another that it would be nothing but a perfunctory session for the ratification of a bond issue already settled. Never in the history of the New Haven, and seldom, if ever, in the history of any other big company, has such a gathering turned out for a stockholders' meeting. Most of those present were well along in years. They had held New Haven stock for a long time, and had never before thought it necessary to attend a meeting. With the cut in their dividend they were aroused to the fact that they had a duty to perform. There were several women of advanced years there to vote their shares in person; farmers and merchants in the company's territory had left their business; trustees alarmed over the securities of their wards came to be reassured. The grandson of the New Haven's first President told the other stockholders that his grandfather had often asserted that no corporation had the right to run up a floating debt without carrying a surplus in cash sufficient to extinguish it.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Reading was a feature of activity on the Consolidated Stock Exchange, with its sales totaling 15,200 shares out of a grand total for all stocks of 46,463 shares. Other stocks prominent in the dealings were United States Steel, Union Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and Third Avenue. Early in the day the market was influenced by what was described by some of the traders on the floor as a "minor" Mexican war scare, with prices declining sharply. Later, however, a better view was taken of the Mexican probabilities, and the whole market rallied. Renewed ease in time money rates and a lower tendency in grain prices helped the improvement. Dealings on the 9:30 o'clock opening call reflected very general fractional losses from Thursday's closing figures.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Business Restricted in London—Paris Unsettled—Berlin Boerse Active.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 23.—The Times, in its City article this morning, says:

"There was little demand for day-to-day advances yesterday, and the rate was easier. The supply of money was very abundant, and at the close balances were difficult to place till to-day or Monday, even at 2¼ per cent. Terms for short fixtures were unaltered.

"The discount market showed a very weak tendency. Bills were scarce and rates were fully one-sixteenth of 1 per cent. lower than on Thursday. Several houses, however, refused to work below 3 13-16 per cent. for three months, at which figure they obtained enough paper for their requirements.

"This further decline in the discount rate is regarded with some uneasiness in well-informed quarters, because it is based on the idea that, owing to the receipt of gold from abroad since the end of June, the Bank of England is now so strong that there is no longer any need to fear an unusual Autumn stringency. What really has taken place is that the Bank, which was in a very weak position as regards its reserve during the first half of the year, has succeeded in attracting enough gold to place it in a moderately strong position on the eve of the Autumn foreign drain of gold, which, according to the best information obtainable, is likely to be on a large scale.

"The market lowered its rates on the news that gold was ordered. It recently lowered them further on its arrival.

"The stock markets were idle and featureless."

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Trading on the Bourse to-day was unsettled on New York and Mexican advices.

Three per cent. rentes, 88 francs 22½ centimes for the account.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—Trading was more active on the Boerse to-day, but the public is still reserved, despite easier monetary conditions. German petroleum shares advanced about 8 points.

MEXICAN ROAD HARD HIT.

Northwestern Forced to Defer Payment of Interest on Its Bonds.

The Mexico Northwestern Railroad Company, which serves the heart of the region infested by Mexican revolutionists, notified bondholders and stockholders through a circular letter yesterday that the payment of the semi-annual interest of 2½ per cent. on its $24,800,000 first mortgage bonds would be deferred on Sept. 1, because of reduced earnings. At the company's offices it was said that income had fallen away more than 50 per cent. in comparison with last year, owing to the continued depredations, while much of the road had not been in operation for several weeks. This railroad is the first of those south of the border to report inability to meet its obligations when they fall due.

The Directors' action in postponing payment of interest does not imply that the interest will be defaulted. The road was organized under the laws of Canada, which permit such a step when serious objection is not made by the bondholders. The National Trust Company, Ltd., of Toronto is trustee of the company's bonds, and it was said in the circular that the bondholders would be protected.

The Mexico Northwestern was organized and operated by Dr. F. S. Pearson, a member of the Pearson-Farquhar syndicate, whose efforts to establish a new transcontinental route in this country came to disaster in 1910. The company owns some 500 miles of road and extensive timber lands in Northern Mexico, with a valuable terminal in El Paso, Texas. Two sawmills with an annual capacity of 125,000,000 feet of lumber are owned by a subsidiary concern, the Madera Company, Ltd., and the practical wiping out of revenue of this company contributed nearly as much as the road's own difficulties to its present financial troubles.

In addition to the first mortgage bonds there is outstanding an issue of $8,000,000 6 per cent. prior lien bonds, which were sold last January and the proceeds used, in large part, to retire the company's floating debt and to meet the March interest on the first mortgage bonds. In June, 1912, the stockholders received the privilege of subscribing to $3,750,000 6 per cent. cumulative convertible income bonds. The company has outstanding $25,000,000 stock, upon which no dividends have been paid.

ANDREWS SEEKS $330,000.

Asks to Have Damages in Suit Over Pacific Stock Increased.

Edward L. Andrews filed an amendment to his suit against Otto H. Fuerth, head of the Fuerth Syndicate of Paris, in the Supreme Court in this city yesterday. In his amendment Mr. Andrews asked to have the amount of damages sought from Mr. Fuerth increased from $10,000 to $330,000. The suit grew out of the division of $88,357,000 worth of Southern Pacific stock owned by the Union Pacific.

Mr. Andrews asserted in his complaint that if the Fuerth syndicate, which he represented in the negotiations for the purchase of the stock, had stood by its offer, the stock would have been turned over to it and he would have received $325,000 in commissions and $5,000 as pay for negotiations which he conducted with the Union Pacific Company and the Department of Justice. According to the complaint, Mr. Andrews was authorized by the Fuerth syndicate to offer $80 a share for $65,000 worth of the stock with an option for six months at $82.50 for the rest of the block. The suit was filed in August, before the Union Pacific Company had announced that the price agreed upon for its Southern Pacific holdings was $92 a share, with 4 per cent. of accumulated dividends to accompany each share.

Mr. Andrews set forth in his complaint that when the time came to appear with his offer before the Federal court in St. Paul, the offer was withdrawn suddenly. The terms under which the stock was sold, Mr. Andrews asserted, were substantially the same as those he offered.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

All the grains declined in yesterday's market, recessions running from ⅛ to ⅝ cents a bushel. Weather conditions ruled sentiment. Corn was believed to have been helped by precipitation in Missouri and the Ohio Valley, while wheat beans were helped by warmer temperature in Canada. Cotton also retrated in a rather quiet market, although conflicting weather reports imparted a nervous tension to trading throughout the day. Cottonseed oil receded and provisions were soft.

WHEAT.

Trading in wheat was of moderate proportions, and the undertone was slightly easier, final prices being ¼ to ⅝c lower. The movement at interior points was again moderate, but, according to The Modern Miller, this was due partly to the fact that farmers are now busy with their Fall plowing, the rain having made this possible. New Spring wheat is beginning to move more freely in the Northwest, and private advices from Minneapolis predicted that receipts will continue to increase and that stocks will accumulate from now on. The foreign markets were irregular, Liverpool being steady to firm owing to small offerings on account of fears of crop damage in Canada, while the continental markets were generally lower on improved weather conditions.

Shipments from Argentine were moderate, amounting to 592,000 bushels for the week, as compared with 1,088,000 last week and 224,000 last year. Broomhall estimated world's exports, exclusive of North America, at 4,400,000 bushels, which, with Bradstreet's American figures, indicated a total of 11,483,000, compared with actual shipments last week of 13,936,000 and 10,082,000 last year.

In the local cash market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at 94⅛c, cost, insurance, and freight, export basis, and 96c, free on board; No. 1 Northern Spring $1, free on board.

CORN.

Rains occurred in Kansas as well as in Missouri, and quite generally throughout the Ohio Valley, and the market was easier, closing at a net decline of ⅜ to ½c. The selling pressure was not as great as some traders had anticipated early, but there was a lack of buying power and sentiment was influenced by more favorable reports regarding the condition of the crop in some of the States in the central belt and by an estimate by a leading Western railroad official which placed the total indicated yield at 2,800,000,000 bushels, or fully 500,000,000 bushels larger than some of the recent private estimates. In the local cash market export corn was quoted at 83¼c, free on board.

OATS.

The oats market was easier in sympathy with wheat and oats, closing at a net decline of ⅛ to ⅜c. Receipts at primary points were fairly liberal, but so far this week the movement has not kept pace with last week's figures.

The local cash market was steady; standard white quoted at 47½ to 48c; No. 2, 48½c; No. 3, 46½ to 47c; No. 4, 48 to 46½c; ordinary clipped white 46¼ to 48c; fancy clipped white 48½ to 49½c; all elevator.

COFFEE.

Price changes were narrow, with the undertone fairly steady. Opening prices were 6 to 10 points higher, and the close at a net advance of 3 to 5 points on total sales of 34,750 bags. Havre gained ¼ to ½ franc, while Hamburg was ½ to ¾ pfennig higher. Brazilian cables covering Thursday showed a decline of 75 reis in Rio, while the Santos spot market was 50 reis lower and futures there were unchanged to 25 reis lower.

COTTON.

The cotton market was less active yesterday, but was nervous and unsettled owing to better weather accounts from the Southwest. Closing prices were a shade up from the lowest and business showed a tendency to slacken on a setback of about 25 points from the high levels of Thursday, with the final tone steady at a net decline of from 9 to 11 points. During the entire day the market fluctuated between a feeling that the private reports of showers and lower temperatures in the Western belt reflected a breaking of the prolonged drought and a fear that these reports might again prove a false alarm, and that the precipitation would prove nothing more beneficial than scattering showers, followed by a renewal of dry, hot weather.

The market opened steady at a decline of 6 to 7 points and sold about 10 to 15 points under the closing figures of Thursday late in the forenoon. A considerable demand developed around 11.40 for December, but the market later was quiet, with fluctuations irregular. It was felt after the close that the immediate course of the market depended largely upon whether the unsettled conditions reported in the Southwest led to an effective breaking of the drought, or whether light showers were followed by renewed heat. Aside from developments in this connection more or less nervousness is expected pending the publication of the September Bureau, which is due at noon on Tuesday, two hours after the opening of the market following the Labor Day adjournment.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The cottonseed oil market was irregular and the near positions declined sharply under liquidation on the part of speculative holders owing to indications of increased offerings of crude oil for September and October delivery. The weakness in cotton resulting from reported rains in the Southwest also had considerable bearing on the situation, and aside from covering the demand was light. At the close the near months were 7 to 62 points lower on bids, while the late positions showed declines of 2 to 9 points.

PROVISIONS.

There was a very quiet trade in the market for hog products, and a somewhat easier tone prevailed, owing to a less active demand from packers notwithstanding a firmer feeling in the Western hog markets. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 13,000, estimated for Saturday 9,000; Kansas City received 3,500, and Omaha 5,600.

$250 A WEEK FOR LOBBYING.

Watson Got That to Push Tariff Board Bill, Says Witness.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Herbert E. Miles of Racine, Wis., testified to the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee to-day that, acting for the Tariff Commission Association, he employed former Representative James E. Watson at a salary of $250 a week to work for a tariff board bill in Congress in 1909. He confirmed Martin M. Mulhall's testimony that Mulhall advanced the first $500 paid to Watson, who was not then a member of the House. Miles denied that the National Association of Manufacturers sought to elect or defeat candidates for office.

Miles said he would not have permitted Mulhall to advance the money had he known the National Association of Manufacturers was to reimburse him. The witness was asked to explain a letter from Mulhall saying that he (Miles) expected him to control Speaker Cannon.

"The only explanation I can give is that of exaggerated ego," he said. "Mulhall could not lift the Capitol or control the Speaker.'

Miles charged Mulhall with stealing a letter he had written in 1909, saying Speaker Cannon was against a Tariff Board. He said Mulhall used the letter to make it appear that Miles was assailing Cannon.

Martin M. Mulhall, former lobbyist of the National Association of Manufacturers, again on the stand, swore that he used the "secret room' in the Capitol in the Summer of 1911 to help former Representative Coudrey of Missouri. Representative Stafford suggested that Mr. Coudrey had ceased to be a member of the House several months before that time.

CROP LOSS EXAGGERATED.

Only Corn Hurt by Drought—Bumper Wheat Yield in Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 22.—The drought in Kansas and its effects have been exaggerated, according to a report made to-day by the Tax Commission of Kansas. Only corn, among all the farm products, says the report, is harmed, and there is a bumper wheat output, 43 per cent. more than any other State, with a million acres in alfalfa.

Kansas millers have reported to F. D. Coburn, State Secretary of Agriculture, that this year's wheat is the best that ever came to mill, the berry being round, full and hard. This was caused by the dry weather and the warm sun of the last weeks of ripening.

"Personal discomfort is largely responsible," says the Tax Commission's report, "for the despondent feeling now prevalent in some parts of Kansas. Six months from now the present experiences will be almost forgotten.

"Because of the shortage in parts of the crops some citizens will fail to make gains, and doubtless others will lose to some extent; but on the whole there will not be much lasting hurt."

After nearly a month of high temperatures that broiled Kansas and parts of Missouri and Oklahoma, the heat wave throughout the three States was broken to-day. According to reports to the United States Weather Bureau, a drop of 10 to 20 degrees in temperatures that daily have ranged above the hundred mark followed heavy rains over wide sections. More rain is predicted.

The Tome School
WITH its endowment of over two and a half million dollars, it can limit its enrollment to boys of high character. It has a faculty of unusual strength and size. It has created an unique type of school life. It can give much individual attention through its special tutors. Its graduates take high honors in the leading colleges and technical schools. Each boy has his own room.
It has the most beautiful school buildings and grounds in America.
It has one hundred and seventy-five acres, on which are a nine-hole golf course, five athletic fields, swimming pool, quarter-mile cinder track, tennis courts and batting cage.
Its tuition of $700 would have to be fifty per cent. greater were it not for its endowment.
The LOWER SCHOOL FOR LITTLE BOYS offers all the advantages of the Upper Forms with the special benefit of a separate formitory and a separate organization.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The disturbance over the North districts has moved Eastward across the lake region, attended by showers during the last twenty-four hours which extended into the Ohio Valley and the North and Middle Atlantic States, except New England. It has caused brisk winds with squalls over the Great Lakes and on the North Atlantic Coast. There were scattered showers also in the Carolinas and the East Gulf States. The weather was fair west of the Mississippi.

Temperatures have fallen in the great Central Valleys and the Southern plains States, and it is moderately cool over the Eastern half of the country. In the West temperatures are rising slowly, and it is unseasonably warm in the Pacific States.

The weather will be generally fair Saturday and Sunday in all the Northern and Western districts, except for showers Saturday along the Atlantic Coast. Local showers in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States Saturday will probably be followed by fair weather in most of these States on Sunday.

Temperatures will rise slowly Saturday in the Plains States and remain about stationary Sunday. In the Central and Eastern districts temperatures will be moderate Saturday and Sunday.

Winds along the North Atlantic Coast will be brisk to high south; Middle Atlantic Coast, brisk south; South Atlantic Coast, moderate to brisk, variable.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Showers Saturday. Sunday fair and cooler; brisk south winds, shifting to northwest Saturday and diminishing Sunday.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Showers in the morning, followed by fair Saturday. Sunday fair and cooler; brisk southwest to northwest winds, diminishing Sunday.

Western New York—Generally fair Saturday and Sunday; brisk northwest winds, diminishing Sunday.

Northern New England—Showers Saturday. Sunday fair; brisk southwest winds, shifting to northwest Saturday, becoming moderate Sunday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1912.	1913		1912.	1913
3 A. M.	71	63	4 P. M.	80	72

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces for Sept. 3 an open competitive examination for senior animal husbandman, for men only, to fill a vacancy in the Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., at a salary of $2,750 a year, and vacancies as they may occur in places requiring similar qualifications. The duties will be to conduct research and extension work pertaining to sheep, goats, wool, and mohair. Competitors will not be assembled at any place for examination, but will be rated on general education and training, practical experience and fitness, and publications or thesis. An educational training equivalent to that required for the bachelor's degree in agriculture from a college or university of recognized standing, and not less than five years' experience in teaching or research, or both, in animal industry, in a State agricultural college or State experiment station since graduation from college are prerequisite for consideration for this place. Applicants must have reached their twenty-fifth but not their forty-fifth birthday on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Upper Broadway Front to be Improved with Apartments Costing $1,200,000—John Street Corner at Broadway in $945,000 Lease—Big Deal for New Building in Brooklyn.

Plans were filed yesterday for two new west side apartment houses to cost $1,200,000. They will occupy the entire block front on the east side of Broadway, between Seventy-eighth and Seventy-ninth Streets, the situation being a particularly favorable one, right at the Seventy-ninth subway station. Opposite is the big Astor Apthorp apartment, erected several years ago.

These two new houses, which will be a marked addition to the high-class residential places below Eighty-sixth Street, are being erected by the Paterno Brothers, of which Joseph Paterno is president. The builders have been active apartment house operators in the Morningside Heights locality, and lately sold the twelve-story Rexor, on the southwest corner of Broadway and 116th Street, for about $1,000,000.

The new houses on Seventy-eighth and Seventy-ninth Streets will each have a Broadway frontage of 102.2 feet and 92.2 on the street. There will be accommodation for fifty-one families in each house. Schwartz & Gross are the architects.

The old taxpayer buildings formerly on the property, have been cleared away within the last month. The purchase was made last May from Mrs. Truman H. Newberry and Alfred V. Barnes.

$945,000 Broadway Corner Lease.

The lease was recorded yesterday by Elizabeth Chesebrough to the Convent Park Construction Company of the property on the southeast corner of Broadway and John Street, being 182 and 184 Broadway and 4 to 10 John Street. It has a Broadway frontage of 41.2 feet and 137 on John Street. The old buildings on the site have lately undergone extensive alterations.

The lease has been made from May 1, 1913, and is to run for twenty-one years, at an annual rental of $45,000, an aggregate rental of $945,000 for the term. At the same time a mortgage of $40,000 was recorded given by the Convent Park Construction Company to Elias A. Cohen.

New Bronx Flats.

Plans are being prepared by Lucian Pisciotta for one five-story apartment house, 66 feet by 96 feet, to be erected at the northwest corner of 166th Street and Hall Place, for the Angel Construction Company, of 1,228 Hoe Avenue, to cost $65,000, and for one five-story apartment house, 66 feet by 88 feet, to be erected at the east side of Mapes Avenue, twenty-five feet south of 181st Street, for John J. O'Keefe, to cost $60,000.

Brooklyn.

The Jerome Property Corporation sold for Patrick J. Clarke, 507 Dean Street, between Sixth and Carlton Avenues, a four-story, eight-family apartment house, on a lot 28 by 110, to a client for investment.

Wood, Harmon & Co. sold at Kensington Park, one lot on East Second Street, near Avenue F, to James L. Simpson; one lot on Gravesend Avenue, near Avenue F, to R. W. White; one lot on East Second Street, near Avenue F, to W. G. McGee; two lots on Coney Island Avenue, near Johnson Street, to Alfred Grey; one lot on East Twenty-seventh Street, near Avenue I, to H. S. Jones; one lot on East Twenty-seventh Street, near Avenue I, to J. F. Burdashaw; one lot on East Twenty-seventh Street, near Avenue I, to Mrs. R. V. Salinas; one lot on East Twenty-seventh Street, near Avenue I, to E. M. Matthews and one lot on East Twenty-seventh Street, near Avenue I to H. F. Michel.

Mrs. Amelia Thompson sold, through Ketcham Brothers, to John McIntyre, the two-story and basement brick dwelling, 18 by 100, at 760 Hancock Street.

The Fort Washington Construction Company has sold 176 to 182 Montague Street, Brooklyn, a plot 100 by 100, situated about 300 feet west of Court Street, being the site of the old Academy of Music, which was converted at a cost of $50,000 into a two-story taxpayer.

The Gibson Steingart Construction Company, the buyers, intend to erect a twelve-story office building equipped with four elevators, the ground floor to be divided into two large stores for banking purposes. The valuation of the land is $400,000, and the estimated cost of the building $600,000. Nelson & Lee were the brokers in the sale. Schwartz & Gross have been selected as the architects to prepare the plans.

Frank A. Seaver has sold for Joseph Sessa to Thomas Bennetts, the four-story double brick flat, at 76 Rapelyea Street. Mr. Bennetts has given in part payment the one-family detached stucco house at 241 Seventy-sixth Street, on plot 60 by 100.

Long Island.

The T. B. Ackerson Company has sold to Bernhard Ruhe an eleven-room house, on a plot 100 by 200, at Brightwaters. The property is located on the East Concourse, in the bay section.

The Windsor Land and Improvement Company sold at Oceanside to G. & T. Johnson and W. H. Hendry, each a plot 40 by 100, Oceanside Parkway; to W. H. Hendry a plot 60 by 100, Oceanside Parkway; to H. Haemer a plot 40 by 100, Messics Avenue; to C. F. F. Grosse a plot 40 by 98, Windsor Parkway; to H. Timmermann a plot 60 by 98, Windsor Parkway; to P. Frankenback and W. & E. Moeller each a plot 40 by 100, Yost Parkway; to M. Kelly a plot 20 by 123, Lincoln Avenue; to M. Kelly a plot 20 by 91, Lincoln Avenue; to J. D. Bose a plot 40 by 100, Perkins Avenue.

New Jersey.

Samuel Kraft sold for the Hasbrouck Park Land Company at Hasbrouck Heights to the following: John Clark and Louis Cannell a plot of 50 by 100, each on Hasbrouck Avenue, and to Ludwig Borstrom in addition to his previous purchase a lot 25 by 100 on Burton Avenue.

Staten Island.

Cornelius G. Kolff has sold for Hugh Reilly of Brielle, N. J., to Joseph Scardino of Manhattan a large plot of ground on Richmond Avenue, along the Staten Island Railroad and near Ocean Avenue, at Arrochar, S. I. Mr. Scardino will improve it with a business building in the near future.

Sale of Olympic Club To-day.

The Olympic Club at Bay Shore, Long Island, with its extensive water front on Great South Bay, is to be sold at auction to-day, by Bryan L. Kennelly. The sale will take place on the premises at 3 P. M., and is being held by order of the Supreme Court at foreclosure sale under direction of Selah B. Strong, Esq., referee. Several other parcels of realty in the Far Rockaway section will be sold by Mr. Kennelly at the same time.

168 New Buildings for Queens.

Supt. Moore of the Queens Borough Bureau of Buildings reports that up to Aug. 20 plans for 168 buildings have been filed. The estimated cost of the structures is $670,662. This is slightly behind the record of last month.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TEAR OFF BOTTLE SEAL COMPANY, Bankrupt.—Adjourned Sale.

Notice is hereby given that on Wednesday, August 27th, 1913, at 11:30 A. M., Charles Shongood, U. S. Auctioneer, will sell at public auction at 269 Thirty-seventh Street, Borough of Brooklyn, City of New York, the remaining personal property belonging to the estate herein, consisting of tin plate, machinery, and fixtures, raw material, supplies, castings, forgings, machine parts, tools, implements, patterns, lumber, shop equipment, drawings, tracings, punches, dies, jigs, scrap machinery, bottle seals, leather belting, installation of transmission fixtures, office and drawing room furniture and fixtures.

The said machinery, etc., was purchased and used in connection with the manufacture of a patented article for the removing of a cork from a bottle without the use of a corkscrew, and the machinery and other appliances cost many thousands of dollars.

The property can be seen each day except Sunday from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M., but the keys must be first obtained at the receiver's office.

Further details can be had from the receiver or his attorney or from the auctioneer.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of ISIDOR J. EPSTEIN and SAMUEL SPINDEL, individually and as copartners doing business under the firm name of EPSTEIN & SPINDEL, Alleged Bankrupts.

It appearing to my satisfaction and by the petition of Benjamin B. Greller, verified on the 8th day of August, 1913, that a petition in bankruptcy was duly filed in this court on the 28th day of May, 1913, praying that the above named Isidor J. Epstein and Samuel Spindel be adjudicated involuntary bankrupts, both individually and as members of the firm of Epstein & Spindel, and that the subpoena directed to them was duly issued out of this court to the Marshal of this district, and said Marshal has been unable to serve the same and that the said alleged bankrupts are not within this district so that personal service may be made upon them or either of them, and that diligent efforts have since been made to ascertain the whereabouts of the said alleged bankrupts, but that they are not within the jurisdiction of this court.

It is on motion of Benjamin B. Greller, attorney for the petitioning creditors,

Ordered that the above named alleged bankrupts, Isidor J. Epstein and Samuel Spindel, plead, answer, or demur on or before the 9th day of September, 1913, to the petition herein filed in the office of the Clerk of this court on the 28th day of May, 1913, and that in case of their failure to plead, answer, or demur to said petition it is further Ordered that this order be published in The New York Times once a week for two successive weeks, said publication to be commenced no later than the 16th day of August, 1913, and that a copy of this order be mailed to said alleged bankrupts at their last known place of business, No. 90 Prince Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on or before the date of first publication.

Dated New York, August 11th, 1913.

ONE COMPANY QUITS IN CAB LAW FIGHT

Mason-Seaman Concern Agrees to Obey New Ordinance and Applies for Licenses.

Its Officers Announce They Will Continue the Contest to Prove Law Unconstitutional.

The confusion in the taxicab situation which has existed since the new ordinance went into effect, was relieved somewhat yesterday when the Mason-Seaman Transportation Company, which had fought the ordinance vigorously, applied for licenses for 150 of its 500 cabs and for 300 of its chauffeurs. The Mason-Seaman Company is one of the two largest concerns operating taxicabs in the city, and its surrender leaves the Yellow Taxicab Company to fight the new law single-handed.

Officers of the Mason-Seaman Company said yesterday that they would comply with every provision of the new ordinance, but that they would endeavor so far as possible to hold the trade they enjoyed at the fifty-nine private stands at which their taxicabs had the exclusive privilege of soliciting fares under the old law and which have now been designated public stands by the Mayor.

Corbett & Stern of 60 Wall Street, counsel for the Mason-Seaman Company, said yesterday that in addition to the 150 cabs licensed yesterday, all of which were equipped with the new double standard meters, the Mason-Seaman Company would have 150 more cabs inspected and licensed in the future. These would be used at the public stands, but the rest would be used for private business with the old meters.

Vice President Schwartz of the Yellow Taxicab Company said yesterday that his company would continue to resist the new ordinance, and that, together with certain hotels, it would appeal from the decision of Justice Seabury upholding the law in so far as it applied to public hack stands. It is understood that the appeal will be taken on the ground that the city has no right to establish a public hack stand in front of a hotel or other property without the consent of the owner or lessee. The cabs of the Yellow Taxicab Company were withdrawn from all their old stands yesterday, which have now been made public hack stands, and it was said that the company intended to confine itself to a livery business for the present.

Justice Whitaker put off yesterday until next Monday the hearing on the application made by the American Taximeter Company a week ago for an injunction restraining the authorities from carrying out the provisions of the new ordinance. The Taximeter Company in its application asserted that it had on its books orders for the new style taximeter which it would take four months to fill. Deputy Commission of Licenses Drennen was disappointed by the adjournment.

"It was very unfortunate that this case was put over until Monday," said Mr. Drennen. "If it had been disposed of to-day I was going to start out with my entire force of forty Inspectors to serve summonses right and left on every taxicab driver violating the new ordinance. But the Corporation Counsel advised me not to begin to enforce the law until the American Taximeter Company's action had been disposed of. As for their contention that they will not be able to supply the new taximeters under four months, Inspector Falk of our staff, who was formerly employed by the Taximeter Company, has made a deposition that although they did not begin to make any changes in meters until July 15, in the next ten days they changed 200 meters to comply with the new ordinance. And this is Aug. 22. If they can change twenty meters a day they certainly have had ample time to equip all the taxicabs with new meters."

Police Commissioner Waldo issued orders to the police to enforce the new ordinance yesterday.

"No taxicab without a license under the new ordinance will be allowed on a public hack stand hereafter," Commissioner Waldo said. "I have issued a general order to the police to protect the public against paying any more than the legal rates and will direct the motor cycle men to arrest any cab drivers operating without a license and not otherwise carrying out the provisions of the ordinance."

More than a dozen yellow taxicabs were stationed in Astor Court, in the rear of the Waldorf-Astoria, yesterday. This is private property, so that these taxicabs are not affected by the ordinance. When a guest departing from the hotel asked for a taxicab the starter of the Yellow Taxicab Company rang a buzzer, which notified the Superintendent in the alley to send one of the yellow taxicabs around. The starters for the Yellow Taxicab Company at its other stands had to telephone to the garage for the cabs they wanted.

Deputy Commissioner of Licenses Drennen said that he hoped to abolish this method of evading the law by attacking the right of the company to maintain starters in public places.

"The ordinance provides that no business shall be solicited at public stands by others than chauffeurs on the seats of their cabs," Mr. Drennen asserted.

ACTOR HURT ON STAGE.

Fanning's Fall After Being "Shot" Seriously Injures Him.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 22.—Frank Fanning, an actor, who was in the original cast of "The Round-up" and "Arizona," and who came here last night to play a short engagement with Miss Jennie Eddie at the Lyric Theatre, was seriously injured last night in his fall from a balcony to a table four feet below after being "shot" by Miss Eddie, who takes the part of a faithless wife.

The table moved as Fanning fell upon it, and in some way he injured his side, but he repeated the fall later in the evening, though suffering intense pain. Not until this afternoon was the fact of his injury known, when word came from his home in Newark that he was unable to get out of bed. The doctor fears he has either torn a ligament or suffered internal injury.

WRECK HOUSE TO FIND HOARD

Mrs. Menzel Never Quit Abode Where Savings Were Hidden.

Mrs. Louiso Menzel of Northfield, N. J., who had not left her home in twenty-five years from fear lest some one should enter it and steal $700, which she had saved by making elderberry wine, died on Thursday night. She fell on the doorstone of her home on Saturday night and fractured her skull. She was unconscious when her husband found her, and died without revealing the hiding place of her savings.

Her relatives began a search yesterday for the money. Bed ticks were ripped open, the plaster in the walls was torn off, and old clothes and shoes were searched. In the ash box of the sitting-room stove a gold watch chain, which Mrs. Menzel wore as a girl, was found. Wrapped in a piece of cloth and hidden in the bottom of a salt crock were several rings and other trinkets.

Mrs. Van Brunt Killed by Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., Aug. 22.—Mrs. Ellen M. Van Brunt, 72 years old, wife of the late Col. George B. Van Brunt of the Forty-seventh New York Volunteers, was killed late last night when she fell down a stairway in the house where she was boarding. Coroner Frank W. Larison said that death had been instantaneous, as her neck had been broken.

IN NEW JERSEY.

BAYONNE.—With the police on the lookout for river pirates for the last two weeks, it devolved upon three citizens to catch one of the alleged gang robbing their motor boat in the early hours yesterday morning. He was overpowered and tied hand and foot. The prisoner said he was George Dorsey of 111 Lake Street, Jersey City. He was held for the Grand Jury by Recorder Mara.

BAYONNE.—The Republican anti-fusionists of Bayonne are having a hard time to get a candidate to enter the Mayoralty race in that city, because of charges that the Republican and Democratic machines have combined to put through a deal to buy the plant of the New York and New Jersey Water Company for the city. The proposed purchase price is $2,279,000. A special election will be held to decide the purchase question on Sept. 2.

NEWARK.—After lively chases over housetops the police of Newark early yesterday rounded up five thieves believed to have been responsible for the many robberies committed in the northern section of the city during the last two months. The prisoners gave their names as Joseph Castle, 19 years old, of Highland Avenue; Charles H. Jenkins, 17 years old, of 103 Summer Avenue; Edward Raymond, 17 years old, of 4 Davis Avenue, Harrison, N. J.; Raymond Johnson, 20 years old, of 45 Stone Street, and Howard Smith, 20 years old, of 36 Central Avenue.

NEWARK.—The body of Conrad Churchill, 60 years old, of 562 Ferry Street, was found yesterday in a pool of water a short distance from a building in Chapel Street that had been swept by fire on Thursday night. The police are investigating the circumstances of Churchill's death. The pool of water was about four inches deep.

CALDWELL.—Farmers in Western Essex and Morris Counties say that unless there is an early and copious fall of rain the late varieties of both corn and potatoes in this section of New Jersey will be a complete failure. In some sections where the soil is especially light and sandy, it is said, both corn and potato crops are even now beyond saving.

HACKENSACK.—Charged with assaulting two strikebreakers on a Susquehanna Railroad train shortly after it left Oakland station yesterday, four striking employes of the German Artistic Weaving Company of Pompton Lake were held yesterday morning in $500 bail for the Grand Jury by Recorder Edward D. Page of Oakland.

TRENTON.—Upon petition of Louis Runkle, a Long Branch taxpayer, Chief Justice Gummere allowed a writ of cetiorari in the Supreme Court yesterday to review the filing of a recall petition against Mayor Bryant B. Newcomb and Commissioners Thomas V. Arrowsmith and Marshall Wooley. Runkle insists that a separate petition must be filed against each Commissioner, and that a separate election must be held on each petition. Only one petition was filed in the Long Branch case, and it is attacked as illegal.

WILL STRETCH LAW IN NEW FIRE RULES

Protective Regulations Likely to be Made Applicable to All Factories.

COURTS MAY HAVE TO RULE

Industrial Board Practically Determines on New Policy—Model Factory Alarm Systems Described.

The question of whether fire-prevention regulations which were omitted deliberately from legislative enactments after a fight had been made upon them by real estate interests may be written into the rules for the government of factory buildings was debated for three hours yesterday before the Industrial Board of the State Department of Labor. It was the last of three public hearings.

At the close of the hearing it seemed likely that the Industrial Board would adopt the policy of going as far as the law, liberally interpreted, would allow and then challenging the courts to upset its rules, if the courts should see fit, rather than the policy of holding back at each point where there might be some question as to the board's authority.

The factory fire at Binghamton was made the basis of the discussion, and most of the matters considered had to do with ways and means of preventing another such disaster. It was held that amendments to the factory laws exempting buildings under four stories in height from the operation of the law requiring inclosed staircases of fire-resisting material practically excluded all factories outside of New York City from the law's operations.

The debate hinged upon the question of whether the board would proceed to make the clauses of the law that apply to buildings over four stories in height regulations for safety applicable to all buildings two stories or more in height.

Members agreed that the board had authority to make general regulations of any reasonable nature that might lessen fire hazards. Whether this authority will be used to make regulations of matters definitely thrown aside by the Legislature was not settled in the open session, but will be determined finally at a secret session to be held on Monday.

A majority of the members of the board expressed themselves as being in favor, as individuals, of regulations requiring inclosed staircases in all factories, and of requiring the installation of automatic fire alarms and fire retarding accessories wherever practical devices, such as automatic sprinklers and metal containers for refuse, are to be had.

The fire alarm system now in operation in New Jersey was considered a model. This system was described by Rowland H. Leveridge of the New Jersey Department of Labor. Leveridge said that the same bells were used in general signaling throughout factories. They were used, he said, to assemble workers in the morning, and to dismiss them at night. Workers became accustomed to the sound of alarm bells and were not likely to become panic-stricken.

Mrs. Charles H. Israels, a representative of the Dress and Waist Manufacturers' Association, described an alarm system which the Joint Board of Sanitary Control in the dress and waist making trade has evolved.

Under this plan the sounding of a gong warns each employe to rise from his place, put his chair on top of his machine, and look in the direction of an indicator which will point the way to go—whether up or down stairs, according to the direction of the fire. When the gong rings a second time captains lead the employes in the direction indicated. Under this plan in 2½ minutes 400 girls have left a factory, said Mrs. Israels.

Miss Porter Becomes the Bride of J. M. Williamson.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 22.—The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mathieson, on Elm Avenue, Bogota, near here, was the scene of a pretty wedding last night, when the Rev. Dr. C. R. Kuebler of Hackensack, united in marriage John Morton Williamson of Philadelphia, and Miss Mary Porter of Alexandria, Scotland.

The bride reached this country last Saturday on the Cameronia, and was given away by her uncle, Mr. Mathieson. She was attired in a white crêpe de chine dress and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor was Miss Margaret Mathieson, and the best man was Evan Edwards of Philadelphia.

T. T. Reid Had Nine Policies on His Life—Golf Cups Worth $1,500.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, Aug. 22.—An inventory of the estate of Thomas T. Reid, who died at his home here in November last, filed to-day, shows that more than half of the $200,000 personal property was the proceeds of nine life insurance policies. The bulk of the remainder represents the lumber business he conducted in New York.

Mr. Reid's life insurance amounted to $134,564.79. The valuation placed on Mr. Reid's interest in the Dunbar Box and Lumber Company of New York is $50,000. Among the other assets of the estate are twenty-six prize golf cups valued at $1,500.

BLOCKS GIFT TO WILSON.

White House Already Overcrowded, Declares Republican Leader Mann.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Passage of a Senate resolution authorizing President Wilson to accept a bust of William Pitt, a gift from American women in England, was blocked in the House to-day by Republican Leader Mann, because it specified the bust should be placed in the White House. Mr. Mann declared the White House already was crowded and insisted there was room in the Smithsonian Institution or other Government buildings.

Mr. Mann proclaimed a profound admiration for Pitt, but insisted on his objection. President Wilson recently asked Congress for authority to accept the gift although many constitutional lawyers declared it was not necessary.

Raid on Navy Yard Gamblers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The Government has started a war on pools, bookmaking, and all other forms of gambling in all Federal departments by the arrest of six navy yard employes. One of the "bookmakers" caught in a raid in the gunshop had $3,000 in cash.

BANGALORE, India, Aug. 22.—Fifty miners were killed to-day, when the cage in which they were riding in the Mysore gold mine fell to the bottom of the shaft.

RICH YOUNG WOMAN A SUICIDE AT SEA

Miss Rodriguez of Mexico, Recovering from Typhoid, Jumps Into Shark-Infested Ocean.

DOCTOR AND NURSE AWAY

Patient on the Way Here to Consult a Specialist Crawls Through Her Stateroom Window.

When the Ward liner Mexico, which arrived yesterday afternoon from Vera Cruz and Progreso, was a day and two nights out from Vera Cruz, Miss Consuelo Rodriguez, a young Mexican woman of wealth, climbed through the window of her stateroom to the promenade deck and jumped from the rail into the sea. She left no note to explain her suicide, and when her baggage was searched it was found that she had taken with her a small bible that she had treasured for many years.

Miss Rodriguez was recovering from typhoid fever, and her father, who lived in San Luis Potosi, sent her to New York to consult Dr. George Dana, a specialist. She was in the care of Dr. John R. Davis, an American physician prominent in the City of Mexico, and Miss Gertrude Johnson, an American trained nurse of the same city.

A week ago yesterday, at 7 o'clock in the evening, Dr. Davis and Miss Johnson went to the dining saloon of the ship for dinner, and it was while they were at table that Miss Rodriguez committed suicide. Her absence was discovered when Dr. Davis and Miss Johnson returned to the stateroom. They found the stateroom window open, and a part of the rail from which the dust had been rubbed off showed that the invalid had dragged herself to the top of it in order to fall overboard. It was said that the sea where she sought death was infested with sharks.

Dr. E. G. Brian, surgeon of the Mexico, said that Dr. Davis and Miss Johnson had spent half an hour at their dinner.

"It was dark," said Dr. Brian, "when Miss Rodriguez's absence was discovered, and it was useless therefore to stop the ship. Capt. O'Keefe, as a precaution, searched the ship from stem to stern, notwithstanding the fact that the open window and the absence of dust from the rail in front of the window showed that the patient had jumped overboard."

Dr. Davis said that Miss Rodriguez had suffered from a nervous disorder, which followed an attack of typhoid fever. She was convalescent, he asserted, and seemed to be in a normal state of mind, though persons in her condition had been known to commit suicide. There was a pistol in her room, he said, but she had never shown any disposition to use it against herself.

Miss Johnson would not discuss the suicide. She departed from the pier soon after the Mexico arrived with friends who met her.

Live in the Standish Arms

THE Standish Arms is Brooklyn's most exclusive family hotel, and it is nearer to Downtown New York than any apartment hotel on Manhattan Island.

You can reach the Standish Arms via the Wall Street subway quicker than you can reach 59th Street, and you can rent an apartment in it for about forty per cent. less than the same apartment would cost anywhere in Manhattan.

Think it over, or better still, look it over, before you sign another lease. Apartments furnished or unfurnished.

New Novel
David Malcolm

A love story that begins in childhood and develops in the varied scenes of New York, Italy, and Greece. The main field of action is New York, but it opens and closes in that valley which "The Soldier of the Valley" and others of Mr. Lloyd's novels have made as dear to many as some familiar countryside. It is vivid with pictures of society, newspaper life, and European war.

THE IRON TRAIL

ALASKA again!—the scene of Rex Beach's great successes—in a story more crowded with action and sentiment than anything he has ever done before. Struggles of rival railroad builders, fights against the glaciers, and the love of an unusual heroine, make a powerful novel, quickening the blood like glacier air. As for humor, there is a new vein of it in "The Iron Trail" as rich as the gold through Klondike's best ore.
